An Act to amend sections one thousand one one thousand two one thousand three and one thousand four Article ten of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred and ninety-seven) entitled "An act to establish a Bureau of Forest Protection within the Department of Forestry designating the officers who shall constitute the Bureau their duties and salaries prescribing penalties for the violation thereof and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that may be inconsistent with or supplied by this act" by providing for imprisonment for default in payment of fines and costs in case of neglect of duty by fire warden refusing to aid a fire warden hindering a forest protection officer in his duties or non-abatement of a nuisance caused by maintaining a special forest fire hazard

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one thousand and one of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred and ninety-seven) entitled "An act to establish a Bureau of Forest Protection within the Department of Forestry designating the officers who shall constitute the Bureau their duties and salaries prescribing penalties for the violation thereof and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that may be inconsistent with or supplied by this act" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1001 Penalty for Neglect of Duty—If a fire warden shall fail to perform his duty or shall render a false or fraudulent statement or service alleged to have been performed or shall fail to pay promptly the respective amounts due those who have rendered service after said amounts have been transmitted to him he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars or undergo imprisonment not exceeding six months or both at the discretion of the court

Section 2 That section one thousand and two of said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1002 Penalty for Refusing to Aid a Fire Warden—If any fire warden being in need of assistance in the suppression of fire shall call upon any person to render assistance and such person shall refuse without a just and fair excuse he shall upon conviction in a summary proceeding before any magistrate alderman or justice of the peace be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and in default of the payment of such fine and costs be imprisoned in the county jail one day for each dollar of fine and costs unpaid not however exceeding thirty days

Section 3 That section one thousand and three of said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1003 Penalty for Hindering an Officer in His Duties—A person who shall prevent or obstruct or attempt to prevent or obstruct a fire warden or ex officio fire warden in the performance of a duty required by this act or the exercise of the rights of entry access or examination by any warden or officer of this bureau shall upon conviction in a summary proceeding before any magistrate alderman or justice of the peace be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and in default of the payment of such fine and costs be imprisoned in the county jail one day for each dollar of fine and costs unpaid not however exceeding thirty days

Section 4 That section one thousand and four of said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1004 Penalty for Non-Abatement or Removal of Nuisance—Every person or corporation refusing to comply with an order of the chief forest fire warden for the abatement of a nuisance under this act shall upon conviction in a summary proceeding before any magistrate alderman or justice of the peace be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and in default of the payment of such fine and costs be imprisoned in the county jail one day for each dollar of fine and costs unpaid In construing or enforcing the provisions respecting the abatement of nuisances under this act the neglect or refusal of any officer agent or other person acting for or employed by a corporation and having within the scope of his employment the supervision of the property complained about shall in every case be deemed to be the neglect or refusal of the corporation itself

Every day's continuance in the non-abatement of a nuisance after an order by the chief forest fire warden to abate the same shall be a separate and distinct offense

If a preliminary injunction be granted or any interlocutory order of supersedeas intervene no penalty shall be incurred on account of non-abatement of such nuisance for the period of time such injuncticon or supersedeas is in force

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

which was reported from the Municipal Coroporations Committee, be placed on the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

Mr. STORB. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, when this bill was presented to the committeee, through a misapprehension on my part I was not present to present the bill in the light that I think it should be. It was handed to me by the Department of State Police, who have a good many friends and a good many enemies in this House. But at the same time I wanted to have an opportunity to present the bill on its merits, and I therefore ask the courtesy of the House to pass this motion so that the bill may be considered on its merits. If the House thinks it is not a meritorious bill, let it be defeated.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER announced the "nays" appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, and fifty-five members having voted in the affirmative, and eighty-six in the negative, the question was determined in the negative, and the motion was not agreed to.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 678, entitled:

An Act to amend clause three, section two, article two of chapter seven of the act approved the fourteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 312) entitled, "An Act providing a system of government for boroughs, and revising, amending, and consolidating the law relating to boroughs."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BREWSTER. Madam Speaker, I should like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. David J. Jones, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. I will.

Mr. BREWSTER. Will the gentleman state just what the difference is between the present borough code and this proposed act.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. This bill is one of the bill originating with the convention of boroughs. It extends justice of the peace powers to a burgess, whereby he may commit to the county jail or the workhouse.

Mr. BREWSTER. Madam Speaker, that is just what I want to know. These powers are conferred upon the chief burgess in any borough. Is that correct?

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. That is correct.

Mr. BREWSTER. I am apposed to this bill Madam Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House for the reason that if this bill passes the chief burgess of every small borough in this Commonwealth has the power to commit to the county jail persons who are charged with some offense in their respective borough and the county jails will be crowded full of petty criminals at great cost to the counties. I think it would be a great imposition, especially upon the rural districts and rural counties in this Commonwealth. We have justices of the peace who are constantly committing people to our little county jails. Our jails are full now and if you confer this same power upon the chief burgess of these little boroughs throughout the Commonwealth then our jails will be more than filled and the burden in this Commonwealth would be beyond endureance, and I ask this House to defeat this measure.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. Madam Speaker and members of the House, This bill came to me from the Convention of Boroughs. I understand that the boroughs are already, to a certain extent, using this measure but are using it without authority. The fact is that certain parties are now being committed to the county jails, if I understand it correctly, and the boroughs are liable for the keeping of these persons. This simply puts into effect, under the law, what is now being used and I do not think it will place any additional hardship on the boroughs to have this act passed. It will merely clarify matters, and I ask for your support.

Mr. BREWSTER. Every borough has already, or should have, a justice of the peace and what is the use of conferring this power upon two officers of a borough. They can go before the justice of the peace of the respective boroughs and have them committed to the county jails, but here you are conferring powers upon the chief burgess, a man usually without knowledge of the law and who knows nothing else pertaining to conditions in the county jails, when the justice of the peace may have the knowledge. Since we already have the justices of the peace, why confer this power upon the chief burgess? This would be beyond endurance, especially in the smaller towns.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. May I ask the indulgence of the House on one point? In a number of instances where arrests are made and are tried before the burgess, a fine may be imposed. Now the party arrested may say, "I cannot pay the fine," and then the only recourse is to sue for the fine, being unable to commit the party to the county jail. Under the provisions of this measure they can commit to the county jail instead of going to the expense of suing, but if this bill should pass, they can commit to the county jail.

Mr. SPANGLER. Madam Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. David J. Jones, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. I will.

Mr. SPANGLER. I would like to ask the gentleman from Lawrence what there is to prevent the Borough Council from defining in any criminal ordinance they may pass the penalty for a committed breach of that ordinance?

Mr. DAVID J. JONES. Madam Speaker and members of the House, not being an attorney myself, I do not think I should go into the legal side of this. I can only speak from the layman's side. I have never been a burgess, nor been tried before one, and I cannot go into the details of this.

Mr. SPANGLER. Madam Speaker, and members of the House, I just want to say this, that the phraseology of this bill is very indefinite and very broad. To entrust a petty officer with such broad powers as this bill would seem to confer upon them, without any more definite explanations than we have received her this evening, it seems to me would be passing a law that this legislature should not pass under these circumstances. At the present time when an ordinance is passed by a borough, and that ordinance is a criminal ordinance imposing a penalty that penalty is defined, but to permit a burgess to sentence to an indefinite sentence, such as this bill implies, seems to me to be improper.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 740, entitled:

An Act to amend section four hundred and eighty-seven of article one of chapter ten of the act approved the fourteenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws, eight hundred forty), entitled "An Act concerning townships; and revising, amending and consolidating the law relating thereto."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STONER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it seems to me that this bill is most unwise, in that it seeks to pass on to citizens of the townships powers which it seems to me should be exercised only by the constituted authorities, being the township commissioners. It would seem that it would permit any citizen to take an appeal in a case where damages have been awarded to one who is an abbutting property owner and would be introducing confusion into such proceedings. It does not seem to make for good, as all laws should. Again it would seem that such an apepal would be taken at the expense of the township, and counsel would have to be furnished at the expense of the township. It does not seem to me that the bill is wise, and I desire to call your attention to it.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. HALL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 379, as follows:

An Act to amend section twenty and section sixty-six and seventy-one as amended of an act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and ninety-three) entitled "An Act providing for the examination licensure and registration of persons firms or corporations engaged or engaging in the business or work of plumbing or house drainage and prescribing certain rules regulations and requirements for the construction of plumbing house drainage and cesspools in cities of the second class and imposing fines penalties and forfeitures for violation thereof" providing that when any plumbing or house drainage is not done in the manner provided in said act that the owner occupier or tenant of any building or premises may be restrained by injunction from using the said plumbing in any manner unless the same is changed in accordance with the provisions of this act and providing for the abatement of nuisances and for penalties

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section twenty of an act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and ninety-three) entitled "An act providing for the examination licensure and registration of persons firms or corporations engaged or engaging in the business or work of plumbing or house drainage and prescribing certain rates regulating and requirements for the construction of plumbing house drainage and cesspools in cities of the second class and imposing fines penalties and forfeitures for violation thereof" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 20 All buildings shall be kept provided with proper metallic leaders for conducting water from the roofs in such manner as shall protect the walls and foundations of said buildings from injury in no case shall the water from said leaders be allowed to flow upon the sidewalk but the same shall be conducted by a pipe or pipes to the sewer if there be no sewer in the street upon which such buildings front then the water from said leaders shall be conducted by proper pipe or pipes below the surface of the sidewalk to the street gutter but the provisions of this section shall not authorize or permit the conducting of rain storm or surface waters into any sewer which has been constructed and is maintained for sanitary purposes only

Section 2 That section sixty-six of said act which was amended by an act approved the fourteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and nine (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and forty) entitled "An Act amending sections one two eight twenty-one twenty-five twenty-nine thirty-five thirty-six sixty sixty-one sixty-two sixty-six seventy and seventy-one of an act entitled 'An act providing for the examination licensure and registration of persons firms or corporations engaged or engaging in the business or work of plumbing or house drainage and prescribing certain rules regulations and requirements for the construction of plumbing house drainage and cesspools in cities of the second class and imposing fines penalties or forfeitures for violation thereof 'approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one extending the provisions of said act to cities of the third class having a system of water-supply and sewerage of this Commonwealth and providing further rules regulations and requirements for the construction re-construction of plumbing house-drainage and cess-pools and providing penalties and forfeitures for violation thereof" is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 66 Whenever it shall come to the knowledge of the department or board or bureau of health or complaint in writing shall be made by any citizen that the plumbing or drainage in any building has become a nuisance or is contrary to the provisions and requirements of this act or the ordinances of the city or is of faulty construction and liable to breed disease or endanger the health of the occupants or upon the request of any owner or occupant of any building fitted with plumbing or drainage prior to the passage of this act then the department or board or bureau of health shall direct the proper officer to examine the plumbing or drainage in any such building and the said officer shall make a drawing of the plan of said plumbing drainage and sewer and ventilating shaft connections He shall report his findings in writing to the department or board or bureau of health and suggest such changes as are necessary to make the same conform to the rules governing such matters

The department or board or bureau of health shall thereupon notify the owner or agent of any such building of the changes which are necessary to be made in said plumbing or drainage Said changes shall be made within the time fixed by the department or board or bureau of health and upon refusal or neglect to obey such orders the department or board or bureau of health shall institute legal proceedings in a court of equity to restrain by injunction the use of said plumbing by the owner occupier or tenant of the respective building or premises where said nuisance exists or where the said plumbing has not been made and done in accordance with this act as reported to the council in the manner aforesaid and where a nuisance to provide for the abatement of the same and the said court of equity shall have full power to issue injunctions for the above purpose in accordance with the practice in such cases and the said injunction shall not be dissolved unless and until the plumbing aforesaid has been changed and the work done in such a way or manner that the same substantially conforms with the provisions of this act but the owner or agent of said building may show in defence that the plumbing or drainage was not a nuisance or was not of faulty construction or out of repair and in case of a building constructed subsequent to the passage of this act said plumbing or drainage was not contrary to the provisions and requirements of this act or the ordinance of the city

Section 3 That section seventy-one of said act which was amended by the said act approved the fourteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and nine (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and forty) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 71 Any person who shall fail to comply with any of the provisions of this act regarding the procuring of a license or certificate to engage in or work at the business of plumbing or house drainage shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars ($10.00) nor exceeding fifty dollars ($50.00) for each and every day he or they shall engage in or work at said business without first having said certificate or license and any person or persons who shall violate any of the rules regulations or requirements set forth in this act regarding the construction reconstruction or testing of plumbing house drainage or cesspools shall be liable for every such offense to a fine of not less than ten dollars ($10.00) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200.00) and costs of suit

All fines and penalties imposed by this act shall be recoverable by summary proceedings before any mayor alderman police magistrate or justice of the peace in said cities and all suits or actions at law instituted for the recovery thereof shall be in the name and for the use of the city within or against which the offense is committed and upon recovery thereof all such fines and penalties shall be paid to the city treasurer thereof In default of the payment of any fine penalty and costs imposed by any mayor alderman police magistrate or justice of the peace under the provisions of this act the persons or persons so offending may be committed to the jail of the proper county or workhouse or other penal institutions for a period not exceeding ninety days

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 29, entitled:

An Act proposing an amendment to section one article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I again ask the privilege from the floor to call your attention to the bill now up for your consideration.

Since protesting against the reconsideration of this bill last Monday evening after it had been reported to the House with a negative recommendation from the Constitutional Reform Committee my attitude in regard to the same has not changed, as the committee gave considerable consideration to the merits and demerits contained in the measure.

This measure is a constitutional amendment, was introduced for the first time in the session of 1921, and as a consequence has to be passed on at this session in order that it may become effective, providing, of course, it meets with the approval of the members of the House. Then it will be submitted to the people of the Commonwealth for their acceptance or rejection.

According to the interpretation that I place on this measure it is the first step toward the enactment of an income tax.

This measure is couched in language that is misleading and hard to understand. Take, for instance, the income feature of it. It sets about to make a graduation of something that does not exist, and in a sense it is a measure of anticipation, but Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the bill as it is now clothed is very mysterious and not self-explanatory. Why don't the proponents of the bill remove the false face from this measure and reveal to the members of this House its true significance.

The inheritance tax feature is very commendable. With that view in mind and to show the sincerity of those opposing this bill, I respectfully call your attention to House Bill No. 866, which passed last night's session by a vote of 186-0. This will clarify the situation and relieve those under unjust taxation. The opponents of the present bill are acting in good faith and making an honest effort to correct a wrong, while on the other hand the proponents of the measure are seeking to grant relief to the widows and orphans, and in the same sentence in this bill are binding them hand and foot with a possible future taxation.

Then, again, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I respectfully call your attention to the word progressive in connection with the word graded in this measure.

What this word progressive means in this connection is beyond my comprehension, unless it means the disruption of the present uniform system of taxation in this state. I, for one, question the advisability of disturbing a system, the principles of which have been well understood and defined.

As I said last Monday, I did not think there is any demand at this time for any legislation tending toward an income tax, as all the reputable civic organizations in the State are opposed to this bill, and the same is true of the laboring classes, for they realize that any taxation means an additional burden and in the end the working class pays the taxation while the manufacturers charge the same to overhead expenses.

In conclusion, Mr. Speaker and members of the House the opponents of this measure would not have uttered one word of criticism if the two provisions of this bill had been separated and each one stood or fell after judgment had been passed on them by the members of this House, but as it is now constructed, you are compelled to vote for something you do not want in order to afford relief to the poorer classes in our state. The proponents of this measure, no doubt, ladies and gentlemen of the House, will rise in its defense by stating that the MacKinney bill, No. 866, passed last night, which I referred to a short while ago, will be for the relief of the widows and orphans and the poor class of this state. But I want to impress on your minds at this time that House Bill No. 866 is a straight cut proposition, not clouded in mystery and we knew what we were voting for, but this bill as I said before is clouded in mystery.

In conclusion, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I ask you to vote "no" on this proposition.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I fail to understand just exactly what the gentleman from Allegheny is afraid of. Is he afraid of the people, is he afraid of the Legislature, is he afraid of himself, or what is he afraid of in this bill?

Now this is only an enabling act, which if adopted by the people, will give the Legislature power to pass graded taxation bills. We understand that all tax measures are unpopular. I received a number of letters and also several telegrams in opposition to this bill, but we all understand that we have to face the music and that we have to find the money one way or another. The principle underlying this graded system of taxation is simply this, we believe, and those of us who believe in this system believe, there is a certain element of sacrifice in all taxation. Now, during the war we said the widow's mite which she used to buy a liberty bond for fifty dollars was just as patriotic as the rich man's twenty-five thousand or fifty thousand dollar purchase of liberty bonds, and we believe the same of taxation. We believe the taxes should be paid by those who can afford to pay them without any heavy sacrifice. Now, we have in the past here in Pennsylvania placed the bulk of the burden back on real estate. In 1920, we collected all told, $234,000,000 in taxes, and of that $57,000,000 were collected by the State and the rest was raised in the local districts, nearly all of it raised upon local real estate. Now, we have a situation at this time in Pennsylvania, especially in the rural districts, where the farmers and the common people are crying out for relief from taxation. Down in my own district, in Berks County, if you take the Kutztown pike between Reading and Allentown, you will find forty-seven farms within a mile of each side of the road that have no tenants for this coming summer. It is almost impossible for farm owners to keep tenants, because the taxes run something like $250, $300 and in some cases, up to $350 on a farm. Now, that takes practically every bushel of wheat that the farmer raises to pay his taxes, and all the other income that he has practically comes from his milk. Outside of that he has very little to sell.

Now, here is a proposed system of taxation by which the class of people who are making large amounts of money, who are getting out of society a great deal, would be compelled to make a large contribution towards keeping up the government of the State. Talk about patriotsim! What is a patriot? A patriot is a man who gives more to society than he takes out of it. We all look up to the soldier boy as the highest type of patriot, because he gives to society his all, if need be, his life; and I believe that in the case of taxation, the man with the large income, the man who can pay these taxes without sacrifice and without a burden to themselves should pay the heavier or the larger share of this taxation; he should bear his just share of the burden. We have a number of people in fact every letter and every telegram I have received comes from the class that can well afford to pay. I have not received one letter from the laboring man, or the farmer, or the small business man against this graded taxation. Every letter and telegram which I have received has come from that particular class which can well afford to pay these taxes, and which can pay them without any burden to themselves. They can pay them without any sacrifice. Why we have plenty of men in this Commonwealth whose incomes run to fifty or one hundred thousand dollars, or in some cases to two, three, four or five hundred thousand dollars. Now what burden is it to a man like that to pay an income tax of say five thousand dollars, even ten thousand dollars. It means no sacrifice at all to him, it means no burden to him. What he does get he gets out of society, and to my way of thinking he owes it to the state, he owes it to society, to yield up some portion of that great income which he draws from society to his private use and to turn it back for the public use so that we can relieve the farmer, and the small property owner from the heavy burden of taxation under which he is now groaning. I believe there is no rural district in this State at the present time that is not suffering from over-burden taxation. A moment ago I heard the gentleman from Allegheny say that this would be passed on to the consumer.

That is just why they do not want this graded tax because they cannot pass it on, whereas they can pass on other taxes, and the fact is that even now, while they are not paying this tax, they are charging the consumer all that the traffic will bear anyway, whether they pay this tax or not. And even if this tax is imposed they cannot do more than the traffic will bear, the same as the present time. The other reason. It reminds me of a little story I heard one time. A prisoner was hailed before the judge and he was trembling and was nervous. The judge tried to quiet his nerves and he said, "Patrick, do not be afraid, you will get justice here." Pat looked up and said, "Yes, your honor, that is just what I am afraid of." That is just the fact here. These men are not afraid of this income tax because they are not afraid they will not get justice, but they are against this income tax because they are afraid they will get justice if this bill passes. This does not say that we are just at this particular moment legislating to pass this particular tax. As I have said, this is only an enabling act. It wouldn't give the Legislature power to pass such a bill even if they saw fit. Why can we not trust to the members of the Legislature to use their discretion and to use their judgment, whether the people want it or not, and so far as the amendment is concerned, why not trust the people of Pennsylvania? Why not let the people of Pennsylvania say next November whether they want this enabling act or whether they don't want it? I believe that in a democracy like ours, in a government like our system of government, we must trust in the people, and unless we can trust in their judgment and the will of the people, then this whole system of government is a failure; and I do not see why we should be afraid of the people of Pennsylvania next fall, and I do not see why we should be afraid of the superseding Legislature in this matter, on in other words, why can we not trust the people of Pennsylvania next fall to say whether they want it or not? A substitute bill has been mentioned, and that substitute bill has for the first time come before the Legislature, but this bill has already gone through the Legislature a second time, and the people will be able to vote on it in 1923, this coming November, whereas, if this bill is defeated, the people cannot vote on it until 1925, because the bill which passed the other night will have to pass another session of the legislature before it can be placed before the people at the polls.

Now I feel there should be no reason at all why anyone should be afraid of this as an enabling act. I say put it up to the people and let the people decide at the polls whether they want it or not, and I feel perfectly safe in trusting to any superseding legislature to do what is right and just to all classes of people in this great Commonwealth.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as I have often said before on the floor of this House, let us be fair with ourselves; don't let us camouflage this thing; don't let us try to fool ourselves, or fool somebody else. There have been certain interests throughout this State that have been working against this amendment for some time. The gentleman from Berks has just told you who those interests are. They have had the newspapers write articles which are misleading and which do not tell the people the truth. The newspapers and every letter that I have been receiving, every one that I have received, and every one that I have seen anybody else receive comes from a Chamber of Commerce somewhere, and that Chamber of Commerce says vote against bill No. 29 which imposes an income tax, and that is just as far from the truth as anything can be. Believe, me, there is not a thing to hinder this Legislature at the present time, except the minds of the legislators themselves, from passing an income tax just the same as they passed an inheritance tax. The argument my friend, the gentleman from Allegheny, made a while ago, would be a grand argument if the question before the House was a bill levying an income tax, but that is sometime in the future, maybe many years from now, and maybe never as far as we are concerned. Now, I want to show you how the newspapers put it. I cut this out of one of the newspapers in last Sunday. It says in part:

"The State Chamber of Commerce has sent to its members a list of the House members who voted to place the measure on the calendar and has asked them to get in touch with their representatives and senators to have them vote against the measure.

"This bill has been passed by the Session of 1921, and, under the law, if it is successful in passing the present session, it can be submitted to the voters for ratification at the next general election.

"Should it finally prevail by the vote of the people, the legislature of 1925 will then be empowered to levy a State tax on all incomes."

Can it be possible that the dear newspapers who are always looking after the interests of the dear people of the Commonwealth are by these misrepresentations, from these very people, endeavoring to thwart the will of the people, and after all, that is all this bill is for, that is, to submit it to the people, the common people, of this government of the people, for the people, and by the people. I am never afraid to submit any question to them. If it is bad they will always vote it down, and if it is good they are always for it. I am never afraid to place these issues before any of the public, and especially in this great Commonwealth of ours. I have never seen the time when this great Commonwealth has elected a legislature, or members of the legislature, that I believe, and including myself, was ever able to decide for them issues of as vital importance as the question of taxation, and whenever a question comes before us in this House which is a referendum back to the people that they may by their vote at the ballot box say whether they want that bill or not, or whatever is included in that bill, I say aye every time, let them vote it down if they don't like it, and let them pass it if they want it. After all, that is all this bill is. It has been passed by the 1921 session. You have heard it generally said all along about the bill that was passed the other night, that the poor widow or the orphans have been suffering now for several years because they could not grade that inheritance tax, and after all, that is all that these Chambers of Commerce write you. It is not an income tax. They are not afraid of that, but they don't want the inheritance tax graded, they don't want any income tax graded. That is the trouble with them, and they don't want the poor widow to be exempt from any tax, not even if it is only five hundred dollars. They want her to be pinched just the same as anybody else. But, however, as I say, this is the issue here, shall the people, your constituents and my constituents, have a right to say at the ballot box on next November, whether they want this. That is the reason I stand here now and say to you that it is our duty, that whenever an issue like this comes up, as important as this, that we should not hear the voice of the will-o-the-wisp, or hear the voice of some interest here, or some interest there, but submit it to your people and let the whole people say whether it is their will or whether they want it for their law or not, and I say again in closing, that is all this bill does. If we pass it at this legislature the people next fall will have the right to say at the ballot box whether or not the constitution in this respect shall be amended, and then it is up to some future legislature to pass a bill if they so see fit I dare say, that if I am a member of this House, when that bill comes up levying an income tax, I will be working just as strongly against it as I am at the present time against it, because there is no man in this House more opposed at the present time to an income tax than I am. These opponents to this bill know very well that that is not the issue. The issue here is, shall the people of Pennsylvania amend the constitution of Pennsylvania, and that is the whole of it, and that is what you are voting on now.

Mr. WONER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I suppose as sponsor for this amendment of the constitution, that I should make some explanation. I think that there is considerable misunderstanding. At the session of 1917 an emergency tax measure was passed known as the inheritance tax. At that same session of the legislature a resolution for the amendment of the constitution to permit the exemption and graduation under such inheritance tax, or all taxes, was passed. The wording of that resolution was the same as this, "Graded and progressive taxes." I don't have access to the vote on that resolution, but I understand it went through without opposition. In the session of 1919, of which I was a member, I recall that that resolution was passed the second time without opposition. Because it specified that it should be submitted to a vote of the people at the general election of 1919, and that election being a municipal election, the attorney general's department decided that it would not be submitted. Therefore, it was necessary to lose those two years and to start again. Then, this present resolution was introduced in the session of 1921 and passed through both houses unanimously. At the opening of this session, this resolution was handed to me logically and properly as chairman of Ways and Means Committee, it being a subject of taxation. I passed it out to the House. You have heard of its conception; you have heard that there was no fight made against it with respect to the progressive and graded taxes in the year 1917, or the year 1919, or the year 1921, and it is now before you so far as I am concerned simply as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. I think this will clear up in your minds some misunderstanding concerning the inception of this resolution.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the watchword of government at the present time is economy. In both the Federal and the State Administrations. The tendency has been not to open the door for the future outgo of money, but to close the door and prevent the future outgo of money, in order that the taxpayers may have their taxes reduced. The burdens of taxation, both State and National, have been clearly shown by the records of the passed few years. We have only to look at the records of this State and of our neighboring states and the records of our Federal Government and compare the expenses of those governments a few years ago with the terrific increased expense of the present time. Now, the Legislature is the outpost in questions of constitutional amendment. It is the duty of the legislature to determine, in the first instance, whether a constitutional amendment is proper and whether it is proper at the time it is under consideration. I have had enough experience with legislatures to know that when we create the means of taxation, that the legislature will utilize that means, ordinarily, to the limit. To place an opporunity of this kind before the legislature and to invite them to appropriate additional large sums of money taken from the tax payers is like placing candy before children. Now, it seems to me that the big issue is not a personal issue, it isn't a question of whether some big interests want this legislation or whether they don't. It is a question of whether this legislature can afford to place this means for the additional taxation on the people within the grasp of the legislature, and I feel confident that if we make it possible in this State to impose an income tax, that as soon as that constitutional amendment will pass, we shall have in this legislature new isms and new idealists to cause the legislature to appropriate in the interests of those unnecessary things, and draw the money from the additional means that they will get under the provisions of this bill. This is not the time to pass measures that afford an opportunity to further tax the people, and it seems to me that the sooner the legislature realizes that, the better for us and for the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. MILLAR. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we may assume that the Constitution of Pennsylvania is satisfactory to the people of the State at the present time, or if it hadn't been, the people have it in their power to change it. Now, under the Constitution as it functions today, it requires that any resolution suggesting an amendment to the Constitution be submitted to two legislatures prior to its submission to the people, and that it seems logical to me to assume that the Legislature is intended to pass judgment upon the subjects submitted to the people, and for that reason the argument of the gentleman from Berks and the gentleman from Delaware that it is perfectly proper to pass this buck along to the people, and leave them decide it is of no consequence, for if the people had intended that the legislature should not pass judgment on suggested amendments to the Constitution, provisions would not have been made that it must be submitted to two legislatures. Unquestionably, the purpose of this suggested amendment is the imposition of an income tax upon the people of the State. From 1914 until the present time, we have had experience with the Federal income tax. I think I speak wisely when I say it is universally unpopular, and recognized as being an inequitable and unjust system of taxation, and for that reason, functioning as we do, under the present Constitution I think we should exercise the judgment which we are intended to use in passing upon questions of this kind, and I can see nothing to do at this time but to determine whether or not the people of this State should be burdened with an income tax; and for that reason and from the experience I have had with the Federal income tax, I oppose, and ask you to oppose, this resolution.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Woner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WONER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SOWERS. You stated that this bill was given to you by someone. Was it given to you by the administration?

Mr. WONER. I said it was given to me, as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee logically to place before this legislature, having been passed by the last Legislature.

Mr. SOWERS. Was it given to you by the Secretary to the Governor?

Mr. WONER. No sir.

Mr. SOWERS. Who gave it to you?

Mr. WONER. It was not given to me by anybody connected with the Administration. It came in logically from the Legislative Reference Bureau, as all resolutions that have been passed by previous assemblies are looked after by the one of the coming Assembly, who is in charge of such committee.

Mr. SOWERS. Does it meet with the approval of the Governor?

Mr. WONER. I am not able to say. The Governor will be compelled to speak for himself.

Mr. GIBBON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, two years ago we voted upon this measure because we believed it was going to correct an evil that existed, namely, we wanted to eliminate small estates from the provisions of the inheritance tax law. We found, however, after the measure was passed that it was of rather a general nature. Now, two weeks ago, or rather a week ago, there was introduced into this House by the lady from Butler, Miss MacKinney, a measure correcting the evil that this bill was intended to correct two years ago, namely, eliminating small estates from the provisions of the inheritance tax law, and that bill is passed. Now, should this measure be defeated it will only delay for one year or for two years this feature, and I believe the bill should be defeated.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SPANGLER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I desire to ask the gentleman from York if it is his idea that there is anything in the Constitution that prohibits this legislature at this time from passing an income tax?

Mr. SPANGLER. I think there is nothing, Mr. Speaker, that would prevent the legislature from passing an income tax, but the income tax would have to be uniform.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman further.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen will proceed.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Is there any difference between levying an income tax now and the levying of an inheritance tax at the time the inheritance tax was levied, except that the income tax is levied upon the living and the inheritance tax is levied upon the dead.

Mr. SPANGLER. The gentleman will have to answer that question himself, because it has nothing to do with the argument that I made before the House.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, as the gentleman has asked me to explain it,—I think you all can see yourselves,—that there is no difference between the levying of an inheritance tax some years ago, because that had to be uniform, according to the constitution, than if this legislature or some future legislature would levy an income tax without having the power to grade or to exempt it, and if you will notice, this bill, as I forgot to call your attention to before, only provides and gives the legislature the power to exempt income and inheritance tax, to exempt them, that is, cut them out.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker, this proposed amendment eliminates the principle of uniformity of taxation. I am of the opinion that the Constitution should be amended to permit graded taxes on inheritances and possibly on incomes, but feel that this amendment should go no farther. If any other suject of taxation is to have this principle applied to it, then it should be by a separate amendment, duly submitted to the people. The present bill is general and not specific.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 476, as follows:

An Act creating regulating and defining the powers of a County Planning Commission and authorizing the creation of a county plan in counties of the second class requiring the county commissioners to furnish to the commission before passage resolutions relating to county improvements to roads lands buildings or means of communications authorizing the commission to report suggestions to the county commissioners concerning improvements and to appear in court with reference thereto authorizing the making of a county map and plan including territory extending three miles beyond the county limits showing proposed improvements in roads lands buildings and means of communication making it unlawful to record plans of land with streets or highways intended for dedication to public use except in boroughs or cities without first securing approval from the commission and making disapproval of a plan by the commission a refusal of proposed dedication

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in counties of the second class a department is hereby created to be known as the Department of County Planning which shall be in charge of the County Planning Commission consisting of nine persons who shall be residents of the county and who shall have knowledge and experience in respect to one or more of the following subjects finance commerce industry agriculture transportation architecture landscape architecture real estate building engineering social welfare civic administration and law and at least seven of whom shall not be paid county employees to be appointed by the county commissioners three of them shall be designated to serve until the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five three of them until the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven and three of them until the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine their successors shall be appointed at the expiration of their respective terms to serve six years an appointment to fill a casual vacancy shall be only for the unexpired portion of the term three shall constitute a quorum they may make and alter rules and regulations for their own organization and procedure consistent with the resolutions of the county commissioners and the rules of the Commonwealth they shall serve without compensation and make annually to the county commissioners a report of their transactions and recommendations they may employ engineers and other persons whose salaries and wages and other necessary expenses of the commission shall be provided for in the discretion of the county commissioners by proper appropriation and resolution

Section 2 All resolutions of the county commissioners relating to the location of any public building in the county and to the location extension widening enlargement ornamentation or parking of any street boulevard parkway bridge tunnel subway or underground road park playground or other public grounds to the vacation of any highway or portion thereof or to the making or alteration of the county plan of highways or to any surface underground or elevated railway shall be furnished to the County Planning Commission twenty days before their passage and adoption by the county commissioners The said commission may make a report or suggestion in relation thereto if it deems the report necessary or advisable for the consideration of the said commissioners If the said report is made by the commission prior to the expiration of the said twenty days the county commissioners may immediately proceed with the adoption of the said resolution All such reports when delivered to the said commissioners shall be for the information of the public as well as for the commissioners and the commissioners shall furnish to any newspaper of the county on request for publication a copy of any such report

Section 3 The County Planning Commission may appear in any proceeding in the court of quarter sessions of said county with reference to the opening or vacation of any public road or highway bridge tunnel subway or underground road and file a report stating its views with reference thereto and may produce testimony before the said court in connection therewith

Section 4 The County Planning Commission may make or cause to be made and laid before the said county commissioners and in its discretion cause to be published a map or maps of the county and any portion or portions thereof including the territory extending three miles beyond the county limits showing the highways and other public improvements herein before specified and other natural or artificial features and also locations proposed by it for any new highways or other of such improvements or any widening extension or relocation of the same or any change in the county plan by it deemed advisable And it may make recommendations to the said commissioners from time to time concerning any such matters and things aforesaid for action of the county commissioners thereon and in so doing have regard for present conditions and future needs and growth of the county and the distribution and relative location of all the principal streets and railways waterways and all other means of public travel and business communication as well as the distribution and relative location of public buildings public grounds and open spaces devoted to public use and the planning and laying out for dwelling and business purposes of private grounds brought into the market from time to time

Section 5 The County Planning Commission may make recommendations to any public authorities or any corporations or individuals in such counties with reference to the location of any buildings structures or works to be erected or constructed by them

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Miss GRIMES. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Title as follows: On line fourteen after the word "communication", strike out balance of title.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. This amendment being only a strike out, the bill is now under consideration.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

SENATE MESSAGE.

SENATE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence, bills numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 30. (HOUSE BILL No. 1368).

An Act to amend an act approved May 5, 1921, (P. L. 379), entitled "An Act to amend an act, approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven, (P. L. 1059), entitled 'An act extending the powers of judges of courts of quarter sessions and of oyer and terminer, in relation to releasing prisoners in jails and workhouses on parole,' by extending said act to include houses of correction, conferring similar powers on other courts of record and providing that the power of parole shall extend for a period not to exceed the maximum sentence as provided by law;" providing the procedure in cases of parole; conferring power to parole upon the several courts instead of judges thereof; and fixing the time when petitions for parole may be first presented.

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

SENATE BILL No. 119. (HOUSE BILL No. 1369).

An Act creating the office of controller in counties of the first, second, third, fourth and fifth classes; prescribing his powers and duties; imposing certain duties upon such county commissioners and county treasurers; and abolishing the office of county auditor.

Referred to Committee on Counties and Townships.

SENATE BILL No. 120. (HOUSE BILL No. 1370).

Legislative Journal

Session 1923 — 125th of the General Assembly

Vol. 7. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1923. No. 35.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1923.

The House met at 11:00 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (C. J. Goodnough), in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. B. Cox, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, reverently would we, with bowed head, come into Thy presence this morning to record the gratitude of our hearts for this beautiful day, for life and all its blessings; and we pray that Thou wouldst pour upon us the Holy Spirit of promise, that with gladness of heart and clarity of vision, we may take up the duties of this day, and so discharge them that when the evening shadows fall, Thy benediction may rest upon all that we have said and done.

To this end, bless the members of this House, its officers and the Governor of this Commonwealth. We ask it in the name of Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. LONG, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal approved.

If there are no objections the Chair will omit the second reading calendar, which would appear had the calendar been printed, and we will take up bills on third reading. The Chair will give you the correct file folio of the bills that are read before the House and the Chair asks unanimous consent to this arrangement. The Chair is advised that one section of this calendar has just been sent to the House It contains, however nothing except the second reading bills and in many instances the file folio is not given. It would be of little advantage to proceed with the second reading calendar at this time, due to the fact that we would be unable to take up from today's calendar a third reading calendar.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, is it understood that you are going to proceed to the third reading calendar?

The SPEAKER. We will pass the second reading celendar this morning and take up bills on third reading from yesterday's calendar.

Mr. STEEDLE. Only such bills as were not acted on yesterday?

The SPEAKER. They will appear on yesterday's calendar under the caption "Bills on Second Reading"

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, did I understand you correctly that there would be no second reading calendar today?

The SPEAKER. No, except the ones that were brought up here. There are no file folios given the bills that have not been printed in white.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Would it not be better to have a second reading calendar today so the bills will be advanced?

The SPEAKER. It may be that before we complete the second reading calendar that the other part of today's calendar will be on file.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, there must be certainly some misunderstanding about the practice which the Chair wants to pursue at this time. In looking over the calendar of yesterday we have completed all third reading bills. The last bill called up last night was the bill of Miss Grimes of Allegheny. If the Chair is going to take up third reading they will have to be such bills as were on the second reading calendar yesterday?

The SPEAKER. And only such bills as are printed, and upon the files. They will appear on yesterday's calendar under the caption, "Bills on Second Reading".

Mr. STEEDLE. I wanted to know if it would only be such bills as appeared on the unfinished third calendar of yesterday, and I understood you to say "yes".

The SPEAKER. Together with those on the second reading calendar.

Mr. ALEXANDER. If we do this we cannot be advised as to what these bills are because there were a great many amendments on the second reading calendar, and we have nothing on the files to show what the amendments are.

The Speaker. They will be only such bills as are now upon the files.

Mr. ALEXANDER. There is no file folio?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will give you the file folio.

MOTION TO ADJOURN.

Mr. DAVID FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the calendar is incomplete, I move that we do now adjourn until next Monday night, April 9, 1923, at 9:00 o'clock.

Mr. JOSEPH MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the Motion?

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the Speaker of the House?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Elk will proceed.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Chair what position we are in in regard to having a calendar with which to work for the balance of the day?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Elk is informed that the printer has not furnished us with a complete calendar, that only the first 16 pages of today's calendar are now in the House; that there are no bills upon this partial calendar except bills on second reading, many of which do not have the file folio, therefore, we would be unable to read the bills. The Chair has suggested that we make a third reading calendar from the calendar of yesterday, from the second reading calendar of yesterday, using those bills which were called up, and the Chair will be able to give the correct file folios. If they were not amended the file folio is the same. The suggestion of the Chair was that we work from this second reading calendar.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, with your permission and the sanction of the members of the House I wish to say that we all realize at the present time the delay that is caused by an injustice in the printing offices who get this material out for us. I think it is very harmful not only to the tax payers of this State but also to the members of this House insofar as the working conditions in that particular office are concerned. You know 22 months ago there was a strike inaugurated in the State and throughout the United States for the enforcement of the 44 hour system. That strike is still in existence in the City of Harrisburg. As a consequence the particular printer who gets this work out has employed high school graduates on the machines and cannot facilitate this work. I have been advised by the president of the Typographical Union of Harrisburg just a few minutes ago that he went to the printing establishment and volunteered to give him sufficient men, irrespective of the rules and regulations, laid down by the International Typographical Union, and also disregarding the laws of the local organization of this State. That proposition was absolutely refused, and I cannot reconcile myself to the fact that he is making a sincere effort to advance the business of this House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The Speaker announced the nays appeared to have it.

Whereupon a division was called for, and 37 members having voted in the affirmative and 114 in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

MOTION TO TAKE UP THIRD READING CALENDAR.

Mr. JOHN G. MARSHALL. Mr. Speaker I move that the Speaker take the second reading calendar of yesterday and read the numbers of the bills to the members of the House that have not been amended, in order to give them an apportunity of checking the bills on the calendar that will be taken up in their order this morning, in that way eliminating the amended bills. In doing that we will be able to read our calendar in advance and have the file folio of the bills that will be called up for final passage this morning.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

In accordance with the motion passed by the House, the Speaker designated the numbers and file folios of bills to be considered on third reading.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

NAYS—1.

Horne,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present he same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 926, entitled:

An Act to amend Section twenty-three of an act, approved the first day of June, Anno Domini, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, (P. L. 420), entitled, "A Further Supplement to an act, entitled, 'An Act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Woner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WONER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SOWERS. What is the particular object sought to be accomplished by this bill.

Mr. WONER. This bill is one of the bills prepared by the Auditor General of State, after very careful investigation into the methods of some of the state tax laws, so that they might be altered or extended so as include therein transportation companies, and so forth, which have not been included in the law as it has been on the statute books for a number of years. The first addition is taxicab companies, auto bus line companies, truck transportation companies, and every individual partnership, firm or unincorporated association engaged in, or hereafter engaged in the transportation of freight or passengers or oil within the state. The while purpose of this bill is to bring within the eight mills gross receipts tax a number of companies in the same class as those that are now paying, and doing the same work, those that are now taxed. For instance a trolley line, a railroad line, a transportation line is taxed upon the gross receipts eight mills, and this is taking in the taxicab companies, auto bus lines, and so forth. This is a bill approved by the Auditor General.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. JOSEPH MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 926 passed on third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. JOSEPH MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be referred back to the committee on Ways and Means in order that a proper study may be made, and for the purpose of a hearing.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 908, entitled:

An Act to amend section nine of the act approved the third day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three (Pamphlet Laws, two hundred eighty-nine), entitled "An Act to provide for the selection of a site and the erection of a State institution for the feeble minded, to be called the Western Pennsylvania State Institution for the Feeble Minded, and making an appropriation therefor;" by changing the name of said institution.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. MINEHART. Mr. Speaker, at the request of some gentlemen who think this bill may conflict with the previous bill that has passed the House, I would move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar to give them time to study it.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 869, entitled:

An Act relating to the proof of intoxicating liquors sold offered for sale or furnished and providing penalties

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Craig.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Craig, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CRAIG. With pleasure, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STEEDLE. I should like to ask the gentleman from Delaware, in the prescription issued by a physician for anything other than hard liquors, by that I mean whiskey, whether it would be necessary for the container to show the percentage of alcohol within the product. As an example, if I were to prescribe champaign for a patient, would it be necessary for that container to show the percentage of alcohol?

Mr. CRAIG. In reply to the question of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, I would state that down where I come from, if the patient, or the doctor is able to procure good whiskey on a prescription they have, they are doing very good. I didn't have in mind that there might be some other liquors that the physician would use when I had this act drawn, but it has been brought to my attention that champagne is often used. However, it is seldom used in our county. I know one case where it was used and the gentleman who took it to the hospital, took two bottles there for the use of his daughter, and she was only able to drink one bottle. When he attempted to take the other bottle out. the doctor promptly stopped him from removing it, claiming it was against the law. In the making of champagne, it is made in an original container, it is made in the bottle in which you buy it, or a similar bottle, and I should think that if made that way, it might be able to get by without having the percentage of proof upon it.

Mr. STEEDLE. Don't you think that there might be some confusion under the phraseology of this act, that it might be misconstrued by the druggist who is dispensing the product in protection of himself. Now, I can easily understand your sincerity in the measure, it is for the purpose of where a physician prescribes whiskey, that it shall be in a container and shall certify that it is 100% proof. In other words, that the druggist shall not be permitted to adulterate after he has bought from the distillery for the purpose of dispensing it for medicial purposes only. Now, that is true, and I understand from information received that when you first proposed this bill, it was for the purpose of making it a very serious crime on the part of the druggist to change the contents in the way of a substitution of an adulterant, or wood alcohol, in trying to reduce a good product down to a bad one. Now, I would be heartily in accord with any such law as that, but I am afraid that this is going to be a little confusing in the case of port wine, sherry wine and any other beverage that may be used for medicinal purposes.

Therefore, I think that it might be amended to take care of your idea and compelling him simply to certify to spirits fermenti, whiskey.

May I ask the sponsor to make a motion to refer it back to the committee and have it amended.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 869 passed on third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to having it amended. I move you that House Bill No. 869, be recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation for the purpose of having it amended.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 121, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the State Hospital of Coaldale

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Schuylkill permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Schuylkill, the sponsor of this bill, is sick, but I think the chairman of the Appropriations Committee can answer any questions.

Mr. HARER. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to answer any question if it is possible.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the chairman of the Appropriations Committee what the appropriation to this hospital was in 1921.

Mr. HARER. I cannot tell you that offhand, but I can get it for you.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, we had a number of these deficiency bills in the appropriation Committee this morning some of them asking for practically half as much as was appropriated to them in 1921.

For instance, we had one hospital this morning that asked for $95,000 in 1921. The legislature of 1921 appropriated $95,000 to that hospital. The Governor cut the appropriations to $90,000, yet that same hospital came in with an appropriation asking for a deficiency of $45,000, which was 50 per cent of the amount appropriated before. That $45,000 was o. k'd by the Public Welfare Board, yet the Appropriation Committee appointed a sub-committee, and that subcommittee, upon investigation, found that all that was necessary to pay the deficiency was $35,000, or $10,000 less than had been approved by the Public Welfare Board. A number of those bills, therefore, were laid over this morning, to have those hospitals or their management, come before the Appropriations Committee and inform the Appropriation Committee, why their estimate for 1921 was so much below what the necessity seems to be, and how the deficiency was made up. Now, it seems to me, when you look at this bill and see that this is one of the bills that they asked for a deficiency first for $50,587.85, and the sub-committee after investigation, found they could get along with $22,527, which is less than 50 per cent. It seems to me that this bill, in order to play fair with everybody should be postponed and should be sent back to the Appropriations Committee to be investigated, with these other deficiencies. I cannot understand how any management can put in an estimate and then two years hence, fall down on that estimate fifty percent and then ask for a deficiency of about 25 per cent too much, and still their accounts be proper. When I think that such things as that do happen, it is incumbent upon us to make a careful investigation. I have no hesitancy to say that, as far as the sub-committee of the Appropriations Committee went, they went as far as was possible for them to go. They examined the figures, and the figures seemed to be o. k.; but it seems to me, we should go back of the figures especially, as I say, when the discrepancies are so great as they are in these deficiency measures. I therefore, move Mr. Speaker, that House Bill No. 121, File Folio 2077, that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HARER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the statement made by Mr. Alexander, I will say in regard to this bill in particular, that the difference of $28,000 was due to construction work that was done at this institution, and which the committee found they could not put in as a deficiency bill but must be cared for out of their appropriation. Now, in regard to all these bills about which Mr. Alexander has spoken, I want to say for the benefit of the House, that the Appropriations Committee made a two days examination of all these deficiency bills. By comparing notes with the Auditor General's reports we found they were different, and taking the Auditor General's reports as authentic they were able to save considerable money. The Appropriations Committee tried to investigate why these deficiencies existed and were told by the institutions that they were made necessary by increased costs over which they had no control. Now these deficiencies had existed for a great many years but the fact that they had existed does not excuse them in any sense of the word. They should not exist and the Governor has assured us that under his new system they will not exist. The fact remains however that the State or the institutions are obligated for these bills, for this indebtedness, and they must be met. Now, the Committee is satisfied, except in a fw instances where we are going to call in the Board, we are satisfied that the rest of these bills are right as far as they have been contracted for. They are right in incurring this indebtedness, We can't say, but we know the bills exist and they must be met, and I think the Committee has done its work and has done it properly and the only thing that the House can do is pass these bills.

Mr. McCaig. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the sub-committee, appointed by the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, I would just state what has been done in prior years. We have called in the Auditor General's Department when shaving down, in order to keep within the revenues, and that Department has placed at our disposal the gentleman who checks up the reports, the sworn reports that are handed in by the various institutions, and these are all state institutions. The gentleman checks up he auditor's reports, and each institution is audited quarterly by the Auditor General's Department. That Department has a traveling auditor who goes to each institution quarterly and audits the books and cuts out anything that is not allowed by the State. In estimating the required amounts, when they apply for appropriations, they estimate the amount of the cost for living and the amount of work they can do, and in may instances where these deficiencies occur, it is for work done for which they did not estimate. When we get these amounts recommended by the Welfare Department we go to the Auditor General's expert, I might say, and we figure the cost of running the institution for the 21 months just passed and the remaining three months are just estimated, and by charging them with strict economy these amounts are arrived at and that why the bills are on the calendar. The sub-committee made its report to the committee, the Committee placed the bills before you, and when they come from the Auditor General's Department and the amount is fixed there, I feel that we are in duty bound to pay these amounts.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lycoming, Mr. Harer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HARER. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. EDMONDS. Did I understand you to say just now that these bills have already been considered by the sub-committee of the appropriations Committee and that they were cut down to the legitimate amounts?

Mr. HARER. Not only by the sub-committee, but by the entire committee.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Alexander, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. EDMONDS. I would like to ask the gentleman what particular advantage there would be in sending this bill back to the Appropriations Committee?

Mr. ALEXANDER. As far as the sub-committee is concerned they simply take the figures as produced in the first instance and o.k'd by the Public Welfare Board and the sub-committee pared $10,000 from the figures already o.k'd by the Auditor General's Department without having any explanation from the management of this hospital. As far as the right of the hospital to contract for additional work is concerned, they have no right to so contract. That is a wrong idea. They have no right to contract further than the amount of the appropriation of this House. The fact that the committee does appropriate a deficiency to them is no reason why they should run that deficiency to 50 per cent of the amount appriated in 1921. I do not like the idea of some of these bills being held up for examination, and not the others, because I do not delieve in making flesh of one and bone of the other. I want to treat them all fairly, and that is the reason I suggested sending this one back and putting it in the same position of the ones where they have sent for the management.

Mr. EDMONDS. As I undestand the chairman, that already has been done by the sub-committee. Is that correct?

Mr. HARER. Yes.

Mr. EDMONDS. While the course of the gentleman from Delaware is right and proper for a new appropriation, the fact is that this already represents the final judgment of the committee after a severe scrutiny.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say this for the information of the gentleman from Delaware, that we have never taken the figures of the Welfare Department. We take the figures as we find them on the Auditor General's books and I thing we can safely give them this amount. It is due them due to work they didn't figure on, an amergency which arises, an increased cost of all the commodities they use, and I can say that the Auditor General's figures are what now appear here.

Mr. HARER. There is only one thing to be gained by the motion of the gentleman from Delaware. We all agree that we owe these bills which have been contracted for. While we may not legally be indbted for these bills, we are morally, and the Governor has said in times past that the institution must be continued. It must do its work. If it does not have sufficient money, if an emergency arises, or if it runs out of its appropriation through no fault of its own, it must continue, and the State is liable for it morally if for no other way. The only thing gained by the motion would be to bring in these people to tell us why they did this. It will not effect the bill in any way. They have been given to understand in the past that they must not do this, but every year they come in just the same and I do not know how to relieve the situation any.

Mr. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lycoming, Mr. Harer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HARER. Yes sir.

Mr. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not the Superintendent of the Coaldale Hospital was not before the sub-committee of this appropriation committee?

Mr. HARER. He was, yes sir.

Mr. SCHAEFFER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this hospital is sadly in need of this money, and I hope that this motion will not prevail.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Alexander,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1082, entitled:

An Act making it unlawful to interfere or attempt to interfere with persons about to procure marriage licenses or to influence or attempt to influence such persons or go to certain officers for such purpose

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BREWSTER. Mr. Speaker I should like to interrogate the proponent of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Storer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STORER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BREWSTER. I should like to know whether this bill includes any interference on the part of parents who may have a wayward child who goes to the marriage bureau to secure a marriage license. There is nothing at all in the bill exempting them from being arrested and charged with a misdemeanor, and for that reason I would feel like opposing the bill.

Mr. STORER. It does not.

Mr. BREWSTER. There is nothing said in the bill that exempts any person who may interfere with parties going to the marriage license bureau or the clerk of the Orphans' Court for a license. If I have a wayward daughter or a wayward son, sixteen years of age, or even younger, as the case sometimes happens, and I should go to the clerk of the Orphans' Court for a license to marry some man, prehaps whom I would be opposed to, there is nothing in this bill that exempts parents under those circumstances from being arrested and charged with a misdemeanor, that I can see in the bill. Otherwise, the bill is a good bill, except for that reason, as far as I can see, but I would have to oppose it, and I believe that every parent in this House, and those members who are not parents would oppose this bill. I was deputy clerk of the Orphans' Court of our county, and I know something about it. I want to say right here that many and many a time, young people came there and their parents would object to their procuring a license. Now, there is nothing in this bill, that I can see, to prevent their being arrested and charged with a misdemeanor. For that reason, I am opposed to this bill.

Mr. STORER. The purpose of this bill is to stop the practice of persons who have been interfering with persons who are on their road to the marriage license office. It has become a nuisance, not only to the Orphans' Court, but to persons who are on their way for the marriage license. In answer to the gentleman from Huntingdon, I will say that a person less than twenty-one years of age in the State of Pennsylvania could not get a marriage license without having a guardian or parent go to sign, and a person more than twenty-one years of age, would, of course, be entitled to a marriage license whether they shoud be wayward or not.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the sponsor of this bill?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Storer, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STORER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, whether, as often happens, two persons desiring to be married and they come to the courthouse, especially in the country districts, this applies to the whole State, and find that the Register of Wills' or the Clerk of the Orphans' Court office is closed. Therefore, someone of whom they inquire advises them to go down to the justice of the peace office and get their marriage license. Would not that party be guilty of a crime as set out in this bill.

Mr. STORER. He would not.

Mr. ALEXANDER. This bill, as I understand it, as I read it, makes it unlawful for any person to interfere with or attempt to interfere with any person who may want to go to the office of any clerk of the Orphans' Court for the purpose of securing a marriage license, to influence or attempt to influence any such person to go to any other office, that would be doing that, would it not?

Mr. STORER. That would be asking for information. That would not be interfering with them.

Mr. ALEXANDER. But, if he asked the party where is the office of the clerk of the Orphans' Court, and he would say to them, the clerk of the Orphans' Court office, it being after 12:00 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, is closed, they have gone home, there is nobody here. You go down here to the magistrate's office, he has licenses and will grant them to you. That is surely interference.

Mr. STORER. That would not be a violation of the provisions of this Act.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny think there is any real reason for his bill.

Mr. STORER. Mr. Speaker, I do think there are very great reasons for this bill. It has become quiet a nuisance in Allegheny County, and members of this House from Allegheny County realize that.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. STORER. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1082 be placed on the postponed calendar.

Mr. JOSEPH C. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the thrid reading and consideration of House Bill No. 911, entitled:

An Act to provide for the erection of new or additional buildings for the maintenance care and treatment of the poor indigent insane and indigent persons afflicted with tuberculosis in poor districts in counties of the second class which now maintain or which shall hereafter maintain a poor house or a hospital or sanitarium for such purposes authorizing the county commissioners to borrow moneys issue and negotiate the sale of bonds and to levy taxes for the payment of the same

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 983, entitled:

An Act authorizing John J. Higgins of the City of Philadelphia Pennsylvania to bring suit against the Commonwealth

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentlemen, from Montgomery, Mr. Evans, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BURD P. EVAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. Does the sponsor of the bill know whether or not this was presented to any Philadelphia member in this House, and that member declined to offer the bill.

Mr. BURD P. EVANS. I don't.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I am not concerned with the merits or demerits of this bill, but if a resident of Philadelphia desires to have special legislation offered to this House, it seems to me that he ought to consult the delegation from Philadelphia without going out into the country; that the Philadelphia members ought to have the consideration of that legislator before it is offered here. It seems to me that the Philadelphia members are perfectly capable of taking care of their own constituents. I ask that this bill be voted down.

Mr. BURD P. EVANS. I want to assure the gentleman from Philadelphia and the members of the House that there is no attempt to be discourteous in the presenting of this bill by myself, a member from Montgomery County. I suppose that the gentleman knows, that section 1, article 2, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, provides that suit may be brought against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in such manner and in such court and in such cases as the Legislature may by law, direct, An individual can sue this Commonwealth, I understand, without such action as we are now about to take, or trying to take, giving him that privilege. This bill was presented to me by a constituent of mine in Montgomery County, who was on intimate friend of this gentleman whom I am trying to relieve by having this bill passed, and because of the fact that this accident occured in Montgomery County. Therefore, the suit as I understand it, should be brought in the Montgomery County courts. I hope that I have not offended the gentleman personally, and that he will excuse me, having not intended any offense. I believe that this bill has merit, and the present attempted relief by bringing this bill before you will let him have what he should have.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, the explanation of my colleague from Montgomery County is very satisfactory, and if the matter in dispute occurred in Montgomery County, that changes the aspect of the situation, and I withdraw my objection.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Legislative Journal.

Session 1923 — 125th of the General Assembly

Vol. 7. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 9, 1923. No. 36.

SENATE

MONDAY, APRIL 9, 1923.

The Senate met at nine o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor David J. Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Edward S. Ninde, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father: We are very thankful that we may be co-workers with Thee in bringing things to pass, in making a better world. Grant that we may never forget the blessed responsibility that rests upon us. Help us to realize that each one of us has a special place and a particular mission in life, and that Thou art depending upon us to do our part and to do it well. May we not fail Thee or disappoint Thee. May we ever keep duty in the forefront. Forbid that glory or pleasure or profit should gain the first place in our thinking and striving. May we be workmen that need not be ashamed. Be Thou present at this evening's session of the Senate, and guide the body in all of its deliberations. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from his Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows:

VETO OF SENATE BILL No. 41.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 6, 1923.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 41, entitled "An Act fixing the salary of sheriffs in counties of the eighth class requiring all fees and mileage earned by sheriffs in such counties to be paid into the county treasury for the use of the county and providing for the payment for the care and maintenance of prisoners where the sheriff is the keeper or warden of the jail."

The principal of the Bill can be approved, also the amount of the salary, but I am not willing that the Bill as enacted shall become a law unless and until it is amended so that as in previous Bills of this nature the duty is imposed upon the sheriffs of counties of the eighth class "to exact, collect and receive all fees payable to the sheriffs to and for the use of their respective counties, except such taxes and fees as are levied for the State, which shall be to and for the use of the State."

The Bill, if reenacted, should also contain other similar provisions which are in previous acts of this nature.

For these reasons the Bill is not approved.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. CULBERTSON. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 146, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. NORTON. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. NORTON. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Philadelphia the purpose of recommitting the bill?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, and members of the Senate; this bill was before the Committee on Judiciary General at the last meeting and at that time it was agreed that the bill would be sent back for the purpose of amendment, and then be considered afterwards. This bill was not considered by any member of the committee at the meeting and it was the express understanding that after the amendments were made it would be returned to the committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of consideration. This bill was never considered by the committee and it is absolutely correct that that was the understanding at that time.

Mr. NORTON. Mr. President, this bill was recommitted to the committee on Judiciary General and a public hearing was held upon this bill and after that it was reported out. I see no reason why the bill should be recommitted to the committee and I trust the motion will not prevail.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, the statement that I have made can be substantiated by every member of the committee on Judiciary General. This bill was never considered, not a line of it, at the committee meeting. It was sent out for the purpose of the amendments being made and then to be returned and considered and I think the Senator from Berks, if he will think back, will likely remember the conditions under which it was sent out I am somewhat surprised to hear that he offers any objection to the agreement that was made at that time. I think every member of the Judiciary General committee will recall that that is exactly what happened.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, APRIL 9, 1923.

The House met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.
The SPEAKER (C. J. Goodnough), in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. B. Cox, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, as the curtains of another night fall silently about us, directing our thoughts to the sovereign majesty of Thy will, we are impelled to cry out with one of old, and consider the heavens the work of Thy fingers, the moon and stars which Thou hast ordained. What is man, that Thou art mindful of him, or the Son of Man that Thou visitest him? Thou hast created him a little lower than Thyself, and crowned him with honor and glory; and we pray Thee tonight that Thou wouldst endue us with Thy presence and Thy spirit, that we may so act and think as becometh the One who stands next to Thee, that we may give an account to Thee.

We ask it in the name of Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Wednesday, April 4, 1923.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO PRINTING.

Mr. RHODES offered the following resolution, which was twice read, and laid over under the rules:

Whereas, the procedure of this House of Representatives has been greatly hindered and delayed by the frequent failure of the Department of Printing and Binding to have prepared on time the printing which is necessary for the transaction of the business of this House;

And Whereas, the apparent inability of the Department of Printing and Binding to get out the necessary printing has been becoming more pronounced with corresponding results upon the deliberations of this House;

And Whereas, the requirements of this House of Representatives for the printing of its necessary documents are increasing;

And Whereas, if the present condition is not remedied in the Department of Printing and Binding this House of Representatives will be unable to properly function; its members will be greatly embarrassed and handicapped and an extra and unnecessary burden will be placed upon the people of this Commonwealth by the inability of this House to complete its work and adjourn at an early date;

Therefore be it Resolved, That the Speaker of this House of Representatives be and hereby is authorizd and requested to appoint a committee of five members of this House to make an investigation into the present status of the printing being done for this House, to ascertain if possible, the causes of the delay in the Department of Printing and Binding and to make its report within ten days to this House of Representatives relative thereto, with such recommendations and suggestions as said Committee may deem proper to rectify the present intolerable condition.

MOTION TO PLACE BILL ON THE CALENDAR.

Mr. DAVID FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 171, file folio 2961, entitled

An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains be placed upon the calendar, notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

Mr. KOHLER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. DAVID FOWLER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House. This is the bill called the Full Crew Bill, but I would rather call it the efficiency bill. I feel that in all fairness to the railroad men of this state this should be given a fair and just hearing. I feel that in all fairness to myself, sponsor of this bill, that this bill should be placed upon the calendar. I want to say to you members of this House that no man in this House has taken his beatings any better than I have taken mine, and I want to say to you, regardless of what your position may be in regard to the full crew measure, I feel that in justice to the working class of people in this State, it ought to be placed upon the calendar. I hope and trust that each and every member of this House will show that much courtesy to the railroaders of this State, and that you will vote for this measure to be placed on the calendar, and let us have the debate, fair and square, upon this issue.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I ask your earnest consideration at this time while I, as a member of the Railroad Committee, give you a full explanation regarding the bill. If I were to touch on the bill proper, itself, there is no doubt but that the sponsor of the bill would raise the point of order that I was not speaking upon the bill itself, it not being upon the calendar, and I therefore could not presume to speak upon it. But I intend to say a few words to you regarding this action. When this bill was introduced in this House it was regularly referred to the Railroad Committee. The Chairman of the Railroad Committee, Mr. Sprowls, called a meeting. We assembled in the Railroad Committee room and the first courtesy extended to the sponsor of the bill was given when he asked permission to address the committee. That courtesy was extended to him because he is favorably known on the floor of this House. After a few days, came the request that they desired a public hearing and the Committee agreed that Mr. Fowler should have his friends here and hold a public hearing. A date was set for the public hearing, and the hearing was held. It was held two o'clock in the afternoon and on account of our having to be here in the House at four o'clock the Chairman announced to all those present, those representing both sides that there would be one and one-half hours of discussion on this bill, and each side was to take three-quarters of an hour, and whatever time remained should be divided between them for the purpose of summing up. After that hearing was over the Committee immediately went into executive session, and since we still desired to be fair with Mr. Fowler, it was decided that before any action should be taken on the bill by the Committee, that it would be referred to a sub-committee and that the sub-committee should call upon the Public Service Commission and find out whether or not they were functioning, and functioning properly, and doing the right thing by the railroad employees. That committee consisted of Mr. Armstrong, of Armstrong county; Mr. Whiteman, of Westmoreland county; Mr. Sowers of Philadelphia. Mr. Fowler, I was informed by one of the sub-committee, accompanied the sub-committee that called on Public Service Commissioner, Ainey, who told them that they were functioning and doing everything in their power to satisfy the railroad employees, and from what I understand, if I am not mistaken, Mr. Fowler seemed to be well satisfied with what was said at that meeting between Mr. Ainey and the sub-committee.

Now, gentlemen, I do not know what more a member could do for a brother member on the floor of this House. If you feel that we have not given Mr. Fowler a square deal on this bill, then place the bill on the calendar. But, on the other hand, if you have committees of this House made up of men, reputable men no one for a moment could compel them to come in here and render a decision such as they did unless they feel they were conscientiously doing something in accordance with the feeling of all the members of the committee.

Now, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I, for reasons stated, do not feel that this bill should be put upon the calendar, and I ask that in view of the remarks I have made, and the views I have given regarding this resolution, that the members of the House will vote this motion down, and I will say that to corroborate what I have said we have with us Mr. Armstrong, of Armstrong county, and Mr. Whiteman of Westmoreland county, who were members of that sub-committee and they can corroborate what I have said.

Mr. ARMSTRONG. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I can substantitate all that the gentleman from Philadelphia has said. In addition, I feel that every bill is considered a valuable bill by the sponsor, and when a bill is reported out negatively, no doubt the sponsor of the bill feels just as bad as the gentleman from Lackawanna did about his bill. If you are going to set aside the action of the committee in all of these matters, we had better do away with the committee and bring all bills before the House. There is no bill coming before this House this session, to my knowledge, that has received more careful attention and has been given a greater opportunity for discussion of its good and bad points than the bill under consideration. Every opportunity was afforded to the people who were in favor of it to present all the arguments they saw fit, and as the gentleman from Philadelphia has stated, the sub-committee called upon the Public Service Commission and discussed it, and I think allowed the gentleman from Lackawanna to sit in and listen, so I feel the bill has received extraordinary attention, and I hope that the motion will be voted down.

Mr. DAVID FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, when the gentleman said the bill has received extraordinary attention, he spoke the truth; it has certainly received that. I want to say to you that this bill was introduced on January 30th, and there was great attention given it before we forced a hearing before we forced the hands of this committee. The gentleman from Philadelphia did not tell you that when the meeting was called first for the purpose of considering this bill that somebody forgot to bring the bill. There were sufficient votes at that time to bring out this bill on the floor of the House, but it was jockeyed from one hearing to another, and the committee of railroaders at all times were courteous enough to have a hearing on this bill. We did not ask for a hearing at any time. When the sub-committee was picked to take up the matter with the Public Service Commission, I asked to go along, but I absolutely refused to discuss the bill at that time, as I told the sub-committee it was not my mission, but that I was only there to find out the facts from Commissioner Ainey, as they got them from him, and I wanted to know what Mr. Ainey said about the bill. The gentleman from Philadelphia said I was well pleased, but when he says that he is handling the truth recklessly. I had nothing to say, but Mr. Ainey said this when the question was brought to him in regard to the case. As you well know the bill passed at the last session of the legislature referred all grievances to the Commission, yet the Commission did not act upon these bills as the law provides but instead of that when an agreement was reached by the railroad operators and they went back at their own suggestion that they meet at a round table and discuss the bills then they say "why the grievances were never brought back." You can read in my remarks about the propaganda that the railroad people have sent out in their reply to Mr. Jordan. At that time I said in defense of an amendment that I asked this House to pass, that the railroads themselves would have to go before the Commissioner before they could take a man off his train, and they connected a double speech in the propraganda they sent out to you, and this is not all of one speech, but they did not put in there the remarks of myself. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I said at that time that if the grievances were allowed to drag along what was a poor man going to do? Was he going to stand idle for twelve months to wait for the the commission to hear his case? Naturally the man that was discharged would seek employment elsewhere, perhaps in another county, perhaps in another state and then they come back twelve months later and say, "Why don't you reopen the case?"

They wanted them to stay idle for 12 months. Commissioner Ainey said this, and I challenge the sub-committee, "I could not make a blanket decision in regard to the number of men on a train, so it would be better for you men to pass a law yourself in the House of Representatives." That was what pleased me, my dear friends, when he said that. I say to you if I would go into a discussion of the bill and I do not intent to go into the discussion at this time, that I can show our views backed by newspaper statements of the number of men killed by accidents where they avoided the full crew that this bill should go on the calendar and those who are fighting it know that. Courtesy! I don't call it courtesy to the sponsor of the bill to keep camouflaging it, to keep calling meetings and then another meeting. If you want to give me courtesy, give me the opportunity to defend myself upon the floor of this House; that is all I ask.

We hear a great deal of Americanism these days. We are all budding out with patriotism. Why not give this old patriot a chance and if you can lick him on the floor of the House, I will give you credit for it.

Mr. WHITEMAN. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as I was a member of the sub-committe who made the report of the conference with Commissioner Ainey to the full committee, and inasmuch as that report has received comment by different speakers, it seems to me that I also should make a statement relative to what I think was the fair and honest action of the committee in taking the action which it did upon this particular bill. As you know, Mr. Speaker, when the full crew law was repealed the repealer carried with it a provision by which it was intended that this matter of manning trains should receive some consideration outside of the railroads themselves, and it was provided in the repealer that the Public Service Commission should have jurisdiction over this matter of manning or under-manning trains. Naturally, Mr. Speaker, when the bill which would restore the full crew law came before the Railroad Committee the chief question it raised was whether or not there was any manner by which this question of manning trains could be taken care of; in other words, whether the act repealing the full crew law in 1921 had provided a means by which there could be a functioning on this important question of manning trains. The elemental question raised, Mr. Speaker, was the question of safety. That was the question brought before the Committee and that was the question not ignored by the committee. The question was raised as to whether the Public Service Commission was functioning in a way to meet the situation, and a sub-committee was appointed to confer with the head of the Public Service Commission, and in the performance of that duty the conference was held. At that conference, Mr. Ainey, the commissioner, made it perfectly plain that he for the Commission, should not say whether or not the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should have a full crew law, but he did make it plain that the Public Service Commission is ready and willing to function and to do its duty in accordance with the law. He explained that there had been numerous complaints filed by claimants regarding the under-manning of trains and he explained further that at a conference between railroad men and the operators an agreement had been reached by which these complaints were to be considered in conference, around the table not to be pushed before the Public Service Commission, but that under that agreement all complaints except one were withdrawn, that particular complaint the D. L. & W. R. R. was afterward settled by the restoration of the man on the train. The Commissioner further stated that following the withdrawal of these complaints that the representative of the claimants came to him and said they were not getting action sufficiently fast in their conferences with the railroad representatives, and the Commissioner told him there were two courses open to him; either to try to expedite matter by going to the heads of the roads or by re-filing his complaints, and he assured him that if these complaints were taken up again hearings would be held upon them. He made it plain to the committee, Mr. Speaker, that the Public Service Commission door was open at all times to receive complaints regarding the manning or under-manning of trains, from the standpoint of safety. I feel that the matter of safety was being taken care of, and that there was a manner by which relief could be secured, that the door of the Public Service Commission was open, and that there was no need of this particular law, which would undoubtedly add millions of dollars of expense to the railroads. We so reported, the Committee so acted. I feel the Committeee gave the bill due consideration, and I feel that the House in all fairness should stand by the Committee in its report.

Mr. HAAS. Mr. Speaker, I do not happen to be a member of the Railroad Committee, but I also was permitted to attend the hearing when Mr. Ainey told of the procedure that had gone before that. It seems to me that every consideration was given to this bill. This committee reported the bill negatively after the hearing the chairman of the Public Service Commission told them that there was an avenue open through which the men could appeal, and if their cases were not determined, they had the right at any time to appeal to the Public Service Commission for justice. I will say this, and I have a great many friends among the railroad men, that they will get justice before the Public Service Commission this is a question of principle. This committee has reported this bill negatively and they have given it every consideration, and it is up to the members of this House to stand by the committee.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. David Fowler and Mr. Kohler, and were as follows:

BILL RECOMMITTED.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the motion of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Alexander, to recommit House Bill 306 file folio 2085, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the State Hospital for Criminal Insane at Farview Pennsylvania to the Committee on Appropriations, which was under consideration when the House adjourned on Wednesday, April 4, 1923.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ALEXANDER. On last Wednesday I made a motion to recommit this bill to the Appropriations Committee for a hearing. You will notice that the deficiency was originally $80,000. The gentleman from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, in defense of the bill stated that $26,000 of this was a hold-over prior to 1921. Today I called on the Auditor General Mr. Lewis, and he referred me to the gentleman in his office who had charge of this matter, and he states as a further reason why I think this bill should be recommitted, that is, the Auditor General Department has not been satisfied for a long while with the business methods of Farview, and they have so told the management to that effect. They also showed me some items of where a part of the deficiency was still existing that the management of Farview spent $5,475 for a Cadillac car and something like $1,876. for musical instruments, that was while they were in debt to the extent of $26,000. While I say, the Auditor General has stated to me that that Department has not been satisfied with this management for a long while. I think, therefore, owing to the fact, that there has been asked $85,000 for a deficiency, that we should have the management come in here with their books and let the committee go a little more thoroughly into this question of this deficiency. I am not criticising in any way the Appropriation Committee. I understand, that to a certain extent, they went into this question, and there was a sub-committee appointed, and that they cut $5,000. While I am a member of that Appropriation Committee, I suppose I was engaged at that time in another committee and was not present at the time they had this hearing. It seems to me, however, that what developed since the hearing, and what the Auditor General tells us it won't hurt the State of Pennsylvania any, and that is the interest that we are looking after, to have this bill recommitted for a further hearing.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Alexander.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Alexander, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Yes Sir.

Mr. GELDER. Is it not a fact, Mr. Alexander, that you were present in the Appropriations Committee when this bill was reported out?

Mr. ALEXANDER. No sir, not that I know of.

Mr. GELDER. I have been informed that you were.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I don't think I was. My attention was not called to the enormous figures of the deficiency of $80,000.

Mr. GELDER. Do I understand the gentleman from Delaware to say that the Auditor General informed him that that institution was extravagently conducted?

Mr. ALEXANDER. He did.

Mr. GELDER. The Auditor General, or some employee of the Auditor General's?

Mr. ALEXANDER. My recollection was he told me, at least it was told by an employee to whom I was referred by the Auditor General, and it was stated in the presence of the Auditor General.

Mr. GELDER. Is the gentleman from Delaware County aware of the fact that the automobile purchased by that institution was first approved and authorized by the commission of Buildings and Grounds, composed of the Auditor General, the State Treasurer and the Governor?

Mr. Alexander. I am not.

Mr. GELDER. Such I understand to be the fact.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I was told by the Auditor General's representative that that $5400 automobile was purchased for the use of some of the trustees going backwards and forwards between Philadelphia and the hospital at a time when they had a deficiency of $26,000.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. Speaker, and ladies and gentlemen of the House, personally I have no objection to this bill going back before the Appropriations Committee for an investigation, excepting that it has already been there. The officials of the institution have already been before the Appropriations Committee, and answered the questions that they asked, and demonstrated to them that they had a real deficit. They were also before the Auditor General, and demonstrated to his satisfaction, and I want to say for your information this evening that within the last half hour, the Auditor General informed me that he had not told the gentleman from Delaware County that Farview was extravagantly conducted. The Welfare Department has also gone over the figures from Farview. I would suggest, to save the time of this House, that if the gentleman from Delaware will go up to Farview, I will be glad, myself, to pay his expenses; I will see that it will cost him nothing for board, and I will guarantee him that he will be able to go round among the folks of that institution to his heart's content; and then, if he finds anything wrong with that institution, if the sponsor of the bill does not move to have it brought back, I will move, even though it has gone to the Governor, that it be returned to this House and sent to the Committee on Appropriations for a hearing. But it seems to me that we are simply wasting the time of this session to go into a further investigation of this matter. I think I have nothing more to add to what was said on Wednesday. I will simply leave it to the judgment of the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. STAVITSKY. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1281, file folio 2985, entitled,

An Act to amend chapter seven of an act approved the fourteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, (P. L. 312), entitled "An act providing a system of government for boroughs, and revising, amending, and consolidating the law relating to boroughs," regulating the appointment, supervision and discharge of police officers.

on page 33 of today's calendar be recommitted to the Committee on Counties and Townships for the purpose of amendment and a hearing.

Mr. DIETZ. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL HOUSE BILL No. 302.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 3, 1923.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 302, entitled, "An act to amend section one of an act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws eighty-six) entitled, 'An act regulating the compensation of court criers and tipstaves in counties containing more than ninety thousand and less than one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants providing for the payment of the same by the particular county limiting the number of tipstaves to be appointed and repealing an act of Assembly entitled 'An act to regulate the fees of court creirs and tipstaves of the courts in judicial districts containing more than ninety thousand and less than one hundred and fifty thousand nhabitants' approved the twenty-ninth day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine' as amended".

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO HOUSE BILL No. 450.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 6, 1923.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 450, entitled, "An Act to further amend clause three section one of an act, approved the eighth day of May one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four (Pamphlet Laws, six hundred forty-four), entitled 'A further supplement to the act entitled 'An Act concerning divorces, as amended by taking away the right of support or alimony in certain cases."

Under the law which this Bill amends, the Courts within their discretion may grant alimony to the divorced wife if such circumstances as the degree of her fault, her health, her ability to make a living, the ability of her husband to grant her support, and the attitude of the husband toward the wife during the marriage cause the Court to feel that justice clearly demands the granting of such alimony.

There are also some instances where the wife is adroitly driven to the course of action called "cruel and barbarous" in the presence of willing witnessess by a course of conduct actually intended to drive her to an hysterical condition beyond her control.

If Bill No. 450 should become a law the Court would have no such discretion, and I am not willing to approve a law which makes it impossible in certain cases to give justice and equity to a divorced wife.

For these reasons the Bill is not approved.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

VETO LAID UPON THE TABLE.

Mr. MATHAY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill, together with the veto, be laid upon the table.

Mr. CONNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, in the conservation of our fisheries, I am vitally interested, and it seems to me that the State of Pennsylvania is pursuing a short-sighted policy in this regard. We have in many instances saved at the spigot, while we let the fish run out at the bunghole. We had in the Susquehanna River, one of the finest food fish that a kind Providence has ever placed in any stream. The State of Pennsylvania allowed a great corporation to build a sea wall across this river, and the millions of fish which in times past came up every spring of the year in order to spawn in the upper waters of the Susquehanna River have forever disappeared, and a large supply of food has been lost to the State forever, a livelihood for many people, and a sport for a great many people. Now, they have allowed this corporation to put across this dam, and we want to make it more difficult for the people of our State to engage in the sport of fishing. After this breastworks was placed across the Susquehanna River, hundreds of thousands of fish came up, and as the water is turned out over this spillway and allowed to go to the turbines, there were places in the river where thousands of fish died so that the water really became filled with stench on account of dead and decaying fish. Now, we want to compel boys and girls of sixteen years and upwards to take out a fish license in order to catch a few minnows, probably, in our streams. The boys and girls of this State are entitled to some consideration. Their moral, physical and mental qualities must be protected, and the boys and girls should be allowed to get an education, they should be allowed to learn a trade and go out and become useful citizens, but they also should be allowed to have some recreation, and as you vote on this bill tonight, I want your mind to run back over the trend of years, ten, twenty and thirty years, probably among some of you and forty or fifty years, to the time when you were a boy and fished in the waters of Pennsylvania. If I were an artist, I would draw a picture that many of you probably would recollect. I would draw a picture of a verdant meadow, and woodland beyond, and I would paint the picture of a boy with a fishing rod and his faithful dog by his side, and I would not mar this picture by any license tag upon the boy sixteen years of age. The schoolboy who is working his way through high school or college, wants to take a day for recreation, a boy who is allowed a day off from the factory, the farmer boy who takes a day from his arduous cares and toils, who snatches one day to go fishing, I ask you gentlemen to consider that if it were possible, many of you would throw off the cares and the toils and disappointments, the pangs of despised love, the laws delays, the insolence of office and the spurns that patient merit to the unworthy take, when you might be a boy again and go fishing in the waters of Pennsylvania without a fishing license. I ask you to vote "no" on this amendment

Mr. HORNE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill is called the fishermen's license bill. There is only one change in the bill as compared with the bill as it was two years ago. The fee is not changed at all, and the limit for age is cut from twenty-one to sixteen years for this reason, that it has been learned from sportsmen's organizations in various parts of the State that possibly four to one of the fishermen are between these ages as compared with the ages about twenty-one years. The argument as given by my colleague would lead you to believe that the Fishery Department of the State would like to take away from the boys and girls of this State the liberty and pleasure of fishing. That is far removed, and unfair to the Fishery Department of this State. If I were a Democrat and wished to find fault with the administration now, I would use some other department than the Department of Fisheries. This is not a party measure, this is not a political department, but ever since the time it was organized, I believe, was a department that was constructive.

We are not here as destroyers, but as builders. To my mind, Mr. Buller has been a servant to the citizens of this State and has always rendered service to his duties. I have had for several years a very high regard for Mr. Buller. It has been true that I have opposed at times salary raisers, but they were not in the Department of Fisheries. Mr. Buller has not been a man who, through political tendencies was able to create a great retinue of servants, and in his department was but eleven men, counting himself. Fortunately for him, he has been versed in the art of raising fish, and he has been proficient in that art. Truly, if we want to restore to the people of Pennsylvania for the generations to come the pleasure, liberty and joy to the boy and girl to go out fishing, we must procure streams, woodlands and lakes. In recent years, and just last year in one of the counties of this State having the largest number of lakes, twenty per cent of them were taken over by a commercial institution for the purpose of commercializing the liberty of fishing. They were bought principally by people from the other states, from the great State of New York. Shall we give up the streams and the great lakes and woodlands that protect the fish to the commercial interests, or shall we in this department, which has been efficient and reliable, shall we give them funds sufficient to give to the boys and girls of the future the opportunities to fish? To my mind, the argument as given by my colleague, is entirely reversed to the facts of the case. I am not questioning his attitude on that view, but I do believe he is away from the point. For my part, I believe if you destroy the fisheries of this State by destroying this license, in but a few years you will have no streams to fish in and no fish in the streams. I urge every man and woman here, regardless of parties, regardless of the feeling they have regardless of the fact that the corporations of the State have polluted some of the streams, and Mr. Bullard is anxious to clear up the streams, and we cannot have ideal conditions so long as we have coal mines draining into the streams, I appeal to every man and woman on the floor to vote for this bill. I believe the bill is constructive.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I cannot see that there is anything at all in this bill that would label it as a partisan measure, as has been referred to by the gentleman from Cambria. There is nothing whatever in this bill that is either Democratic or Republican. It is simply a bill in which we say to the boys and girls of Pennsylvania whether we want to make this wholesome recreation more difficult for the boys and girls or whether we want to make it easy for them. Now, I submit to you ladies and gentlemen, that we have spent many thousands of dollars in providing playgrounds in our cities and other forms of recreation for our boys and girls, because, if there is one thing that tends to uplift the morals of boys and girls, it is wholesome recreation. Every boy and girl has a certain amount of energy, and that energy will come out in some form or other. If we do not provide a wholesome system of recreation, then that same energy is bound to find an outlet in something that is not wholesome for it. As I said before, this bill is simply a question of whether we want to give to the boys and girls of Pennsylvania something that is wholesome, something that is uplifting. I cannot conceive of any form of recreation that would have a more wholesome effect on the lives and character of the boys and girls of Pennsylvania than to take a fishing rod and go out sit by some stream and engage in the sport of fishing. I cannot see for the life of me why this Legislature should try to make this more difficult for these boys and girls. We all know that in the farming districts many of our boys have no income of their own. They are working for their parents and have no income of their own, and I appeal to you in a spirit of fairness to the boys and girls of this great Commonwealth that you do not make this wholesome form of recreation more difficult for them, but that you vote down this bill and say that you encourage fishing. I therefore ask that you vote against this bill.

Mr. MINEHART. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Horne, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HORNE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. MINEHART. Did I understand you to say that you have been advised that four out of every five of the fishermen on the streams of the State of Pennsylvania are children between the age of sixteen and twenty-one?

Mr. HORNE. I have been so advised and was advised by a sportman's organization of my own city which I know to be reliable.

Mr. MINEHART. We will leave that up to the ladies and gentlemen of this House whether or not that is right. Do you know now what revenue the fish department receives with its present tax?

Mr. HORNE. $217,000.

Mr. MINEHART. Four times that makes $817,000.

Mr. HORNE. That is not the question, we do not get our fees or revenues here for four years, but for two years.

Mr. MINEHART. But I am talking now of the number, the increase in fishermen. I understand that Mr. Buller said he would need double the amount of taxes which we have got today. Why do they need this larger figure?

Mr. HORNE. Provision is made in this bill that all money over $400,000 shall be appropriated for the purchase of lakes, streams, lands or forest land, for fish purposes.

Mr. MINEHART. Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether this bill has been branded as a democratic bill, but I don't want you to look on it that way so far as I am concerned. I am opposed to this bill for the simple reason that there are lots of boys and girls that go out one day in the year, Ascension Day, probably, and they go out with their parents to have a little recreation, and now this great State of Pennsylvania says to them, "You must pay one dollar for that privilege." For that reason I am opposed to the bill and shall vote against it.

MOTION TO STRIKE BILL FROM CALENDAR.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, since reading this bill I have come to the conclusion that it is a pernicious bill, and I therefore move that it be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. HAWS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HORNE. Mr. Speaker, I should like to appeal to the men and women of this House to defeat this motion. To pass this motion would be to destroy a department which nobody has shown is not useful. To do otherwise would be to do away with the very thing that has been appealed for, to properly furnish the boy and girl with a place to fish and the fish to be caught. The boy and girl and not of that sort, they are game sports, and are willing to pay. They do not want something for nothing. I would like very much to have you vote down the motion as offered by the gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, to be serious, the reason I made that motion was that I entirely agree with what has been said in opposition to this bill. I have had considerable experience with Mr. Buller. I have in mind no criticism to offer at this time, but I know very well that when the fish license bill was before this House at the previous session, it was voted for by this House very reluctantly, and it was only passed because it was considered that the revenue was exceedingly necessary at that particular time. Now when you give this man an inch he takes a mile. He comes in now and says that twenty-one is not sufficient, but let us make it sixteen. The result is that the farmer who has several children, the boys cannot fish and he has to send those children into the Treasurer's office to take out a license. Now there is a limit to the patience of people in relation to legislation of this character, and I think in my own humble opinion that the Legislature has reached that limit when the age was fixed at twenty-one. For that reason it seems to me that the House should vote against this bill because it is pernicious in its purpose.

Mr. WELLS. Mr. Speaker, in the last session, Mr. Buller came before us asking for the same bill that is on our calendar, asking that the age limit should be from sixteen years up. Some of you may remember that I was one of the members who opposed the bill at that time, thinking that it would raise a sufficient amount of money, as Mr. Buller asked $400,000 at that time, saying that that was the amount needed to carry on the necessary work for the propagation of fish and the building of hatcheries. I opposed the bill, and said to him that I thought we would get sufficient revenue by striking out the sixteen-year limit not taxing boys and girls for this privilege. Now, it seems to me that there is just one thing for this bill, and that is that the law that we have on our books does not bring in a sufficient amount of revenue to properly take care of the propagation of our fish and the building of the necessary hatcheries for that purpose. I hope that this bill will pass. The fishermen in my county are in favor of it, not only the boys and sportsmen's clubs, but the individual fishermen believe that this is a proper change in the present law.

Mr. WHEELER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House there appears to be a great deal of vicarious suffering on behalf of these poor boys between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one. It seems to me that a boy, we will say, eighteen years of age is old enough to earn money to pay for the fish license, the amount being one dollar. We are informed that the Civil War was fought by boys eighteen years of age largely. Now, if they are old enough to serve in the army they should be old enough to share in the responsibilities of the Government. The first argument in favor of this bill, as the gentleman who just preceded me pointed out, is simply this: at the present time the Fish Commissioner states that nearly fifty per cent of the applications for fish which he receives can be honored. In other words, there are one hundred per cent more people asking for fish than he can possibly reply favorably thereto. In other words, he needs a larger sum than he is deriving at the present time. Last session, as has been pointed to you, contrary to what the gentleman from York has stated the Commissioner asked for an age limit from sixteen years upward, and that bill I am informed passed the House. It was later amended in the Senate. If we are to have a fish license at all it seems to me the general sentiment of sportsmen and men who are interested, men who come from counties where there are fish is in favor of extending the limit downwards to include those of sixteen years. If we don't consider the fish license at all then we will simply throw the cost of the department back upon the State and all the taxpayers will have to pay. It is a much fairer method as it is at the present time to assess those who share in the benefits and make them share in the natural responsibilities. I hope you will not be led away by sentiment and support this bill. It appears to me to be equitable all the way through.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The Roll was verified as follows:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. Hall

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 740, entitled:

An Act to amend section four hundred and eighty-seven of article one of chapter ten of the act approved the fourteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and forty) entitled "An Act concerning townships and revising amending and consolidating the law relating thereto"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HALL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend the bill, page 2, by adding at the end thereof the following paragraph:

"In any case where an appeal is taken by any tax payer on behalf of the township, such tax payer shall enter bond in such amount as the court may direct, conditioned for the payment of all costs in case the appeal hall be determined against the township and the tax payer."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HARER, asked and obtained unanimous consent to report a bill from committee at this time.

Mr. HARER, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended House Bill No. 81, entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the executives, judicial and legislative department of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for the two fiscal years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three.

BILL ON FIRST READING.

Mr. HARER asked and obtained unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 81 read for the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 81, entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the executives judicial and legislative departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILLS RE-REFERRED.

Mr. HARER asked and obtained unanimous consent to return bills from committee at this time.

Mr. HARER returned from the Committee on Appropriations with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Game, House Bill No. 939, entitled:

An Act providing for the payment of certain claims for damages done to livestock, poultry or bees by bear, providing a method for the ascertainment of such damage and making an appropriation.

The SPEAKER. The bill is now re-referred to the Committee on Game.

Mr. HARER returned from the Committee on Appropriations with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Game, House Bill No. 1203, entitled:

An Act providing a method through which the Commonwealth may co-operate with individuals in building fences to protect farm crops and fruit orchards against damage from wild deer, and making an appropriation.

The SPEAKER. The bill is now re-referred to the Committee on Game.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. Walker.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 232, entitled:

An Act to amend chapter eleven article two of the Act approved the fourteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and forty) entitled "An Act concerning townships and revising amending and consolidating the law relating thereto"

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present to the Senate for concurrence.

SENATE MESSAGE.

SENATE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 321. (HOUSE BILL No. 1397).

An Act to amend section one of article one of an act approved the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and one, entitled, "An Act for the government of cities of the second class."

Referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. O'Boyle.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 582, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the sixteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws five hundred seventy-nine), entitled "An Act providing for the better management of the jails or county prisons in the several counties of this Commonwealth of the third and fourth classes by creating, in such counties, a board to be known by the name and style of inspectors of the jail or county prison, with authority to appoint a warden of such prison, and by vesting in said board, and the officers appointed by it, the safe-keeping, discipline and employment of prisoners and the government and management of said jails or county prisons"

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WHITEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. O'Boyle, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. O'BOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WHITEMAN. I would like to know from the gentleman, Mr Speaker, what criticism he has to offer to the present law which was enacted in 1921.

Mr. O'BOYLE. When this bill was passed the Board was made up of the judges, the county commissioners, district attorneys and the sheriffs of the different counies. In Lackawanna couny the members of the board refused to meet and the prisoners of the county jail are walking in the streets without anybody to take care of them. The Sheriff does not know what is going on at the jail at the present time, and the reason he asked me to put in this bill to repeal the bill is only to put the county jail back in the hands of the sheriff. The sheriff is liable for anything that happens at the jail, but at the present time he knows nothing of what goes on at the jail.

Mr. WHITEMAN. It seems to me, and I think it must seem so to the members of this House, that if the conditions such as the gentleman describes in Lackawanna exist it is a case for local action and not a case for attacking a bill which was presented two years ago to correct conditions and to correct evils which had existed. The act of 1921 creating prision boards affecting third and fourth class counties has been working out in a very admirable way. I know in our own county it is far more desirable it seems to me, and the records show that it is more desirable to run a prison under the auspices and under the protection of a board made up of county officials, including the judges and the commissioners, with a warden duly delegated to look after the prison, than it is to revert to the old fashioned method by which the sheriff was given a per diem allowance for the care of prisoners, and whether the prisoners got that allowance it was hard to tell. We have our warden in Westmoreland county who conducts the prison. He presents his bills to the comptroller and they are audited every month, and the bills themselves show that the system is working out in a splendid way. In the month of February he boarded a total of 439, that means boarded the prisoners at a total cost of $1520.00. Now that has been the manner in which the law has worked in our county right along. The system of supervision is excellent. The board of prison management serves without any compensation and surely we don't want to go back to that old system that allowed a sheriff to run a jail as it existed and to pay out as much as he wanted to pay out of what he got per diem for prisoners. This is the best way it seems to me to run a prison. The act has been tested out in counties, which have been giving it fair treatment and because a situation like that as the gentleman describes exists in Lackawanna county is no reason why a good bill should be wiped off the statute books, and go back to something else which was far from being satisfactory in the past.

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there are three counties of the third class and eleven counties of the fourth class to which this bill, if passed tonight, relates. It seems a shame because there has been trouble in the county where the sponsor of this bill lives that we should be asked to repeal an act that has been effective and giving satisfaction in the other counties of the third and fourth class. This bill, if you will recall, was reported out negatively by the committee, and then placed on the calendar. It seems to me that if there was a demand from a number of the counties of the third and fourth class to change the system that the House could very well give heed to the request of the sponsor of this bill to pass this bill. It seems to me it is wrong and unless the demand from third and fourth class counties is greater, which we know it is not, that this particular bill should be defeated and the action of the committee in reporting it out negatively sustained. I hope this particular bill is defeated.

Mr. KUNKLE. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of tne House, I wish to register a protest against this bill. The act of 1921 has applied to Westmoreland county, one of the third class counties. It is giving good service; our jail is being kept in a model way, and we have no objection whatever to the act, or the application of the act. I will join with the gentleman preceding me in asking the ladies and gentlemen of this House to vote "no" on this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. LUDLOW Mr. Speaker I ask for a verification of the roll.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILLEGE.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McCANN. At the time that the roll was called on House Bill No. 171, not hearing my name called, and not arising at the proper time, I ask now unanimous consent to be recorded as voting aye on that bill.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McCann, under his question of personal privilege will be noted upon the Journal

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILLEGE.

Mr. MANGAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to have the same courtesy, I was late in getting here, and I was unable to cast my vote for bill No. 171. I would like to be recorded as saying that had I been here I would have voted to place the bill upon the calendar, notwithstanding the recommendation of the committee.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mangan will be noted upon the journal.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES asked and obtained unanimous consent to report bills from Committees at this time.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1367, (Senate Bill No. 502), entitled:

An Act prohibiting the location by cities of the third class of city prisons or lock-ups close to public school buildings.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1397, (Senate Bill No. 321), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of article one of an act approved the seventh day of March one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class."

BILLS ON FIRST READING.

Mr. DAVID J. JONES asked and obtained unanimous consent to have the following bills read the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1367 (Senate Bill No. 502), entitled

An Act prohibiting the location by cities of the third class of any city prisons or lock-ups close to public school buildings.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1397 (Senate Bill No. 321), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of article one of an act approved the seventh day of March one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class"

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Mr. JOSEPH C. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JOSEPH C. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, this morning I found on my desk a written statement signed by Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, Perrysville Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., a lady whom I have known for a number of years and whom I hold in the highest esteem and respect. With the indulgence of the members of this House I would like to read the article which I found on my desk:

"Dear Mr. Marcus:—

"Reading with feelings of fear and consternation (and pardon me if I add 'sincere resentment') the oft recurring statements in the newspaper that there is danger of the public school teachers of Pennsylvania having their richly deserved and hard-won salaries reduced through legislative action, I am taking the liberty of requesting your able assistance, through your official position as an honored legislator, to register in unmistakeable words my heartfelt opposition to any move, program or plan that would (or may I use the word 'dare'?) to think of taking from those women and men what they strove so many years to obtain. Mr. Marcus will you kindly at this point identify me to the House as a member of the Republican State Committee and also as Chairman of the Allegheny County Republican women who believe in the public policies and endeavors of Joseph N. Mackrell, whom you know so well. I, as a mother whose children completed the public school courses know what the American school teacher meant to me. I have never thought that these wonderful character-molding women were remunerated properly and I have heard enough recent comment to satisfy me that a storm of protest, terrible in its strength, would sweep across Pennsylvania if such a thing occurred as cutting teachers' salaries.

"In closing, Mr. Marcus, I want to trespass further on your time, to ask you kindly to request the men and women of the of the legislature to oppose the cutting of teachers' salaries with their prayers and their votes.

"Permit me to thank you, Mr. Marcus, and through you the other legislators.

Respectfully yours,
Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier,
Perrysville Avenue,
Pittsburgh, Pa."

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Marcus, under this question of personal privilege will be noted upon the Journal.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. LORENZO D. THOMAS asked and obtained unanimous consent to report a bill from committee at this time.

Mr. LORENZO D. THOMAS, from the Committee on Legislative Apportionment, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1387, (Senate Bill No. 449), entitled:

An Act to amend so much of section one of the act approved the tenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, (P. L. 455) entitled, "An Act to fix the number of Representatives in the General Assembly of the State, and to apportion the State into representative districts as provided by the Constitution."

BILL ON FIRST READING.

Mr. LORENZO D. THOMAS asked and obtained unanimous consent to have the following bill read for the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1387 (Senate Bill No. 449), entitled:

An Act to amend so much of section one of the act approved the tenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and fifty-five) entitled "An Act to fix the number of Representatives in the General Assembly of the State and to apportion the State into representative districts as provided by the Constitution"

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 112, as follows:

An Act to amend section five of the act approved the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and seven) entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes and in cities coextensive with counties for city and county purposes imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property providing for the assessment and collection of the same providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes" providing for the assessment of property and the collection of taxes interest and penalties in cases of the refusal or failure of taxables to make return and in the case of false or incomplete returns made and no penalty added such action shall not estop the county or city from the collection of any additional tax due whenever the facts may become known and it shall be the duty of the officers charged with the assessment and collection of such taxes to assess or reassess any such personal property for any former year or years and collect the balances of the tax which should have been paid together with a penalty of fifty per centum thereon and interest thereon at the rate of six per centum In ascertaining the balance found to be due no credit shall be given for any penalty formerly assessed and paid And provided further That in every case of a false or incomplete return it shall be the duty of the officers charged with the assessment and collection of said tax whenever the facts may become known to reassess the personal property of any such taxable for any former year or years and to collect the balances of the tax found to be due together with a penalty of fifty per centum and interest at the rate of six per centum

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. JEFFERSON W. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 145, as follows:

A Supplement to the act approved the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and seven) entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes and in cities coextensive with counties for city and county purposes imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property providing for the assessment and collection of the same providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes" authorizing the payment of taxes for county and city purposes on certain investments through the use of adhesive stamps prepared by the Auditor General of the State for the use of the several counties and cities

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the word "investments" as used in this act shall include all of the kinds and classes of personal property hereinafter enumerated evidenced by written or printed instrument which are made taxable for county or city purposes by the act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and seven) entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes and in cities coextensive with counties for city and county purposes imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property providing for the assessment and collection of the same providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes" to which this is a supplement that is to say

(a) All moneys owing by solvent debtors whether by promissory note or penal or single bill bond or judgment

(b) All articles of agreement and accounts bearing interest

(c) All public loans except those issued by this Commonwealth or by the United States and those made taxable for State purposes by the laws of this Commonwealth

(d) All loans issued by any corporation association company or limited partnership created or formed under the laws of this Commonwealth or of the United States or of any State Government including car trust securities and loans secured by bonds of any other form of certificate or evidence of indebtedness whether the interest be included in the principal of the obligation or payable by the terms thereof except such loans as are made taxable for State purposes by the laws of this Commonwealth

(e) All shares of stock in any bank corporation association company or limited partnership created or formed under the laws of this Commonwealth or of the United States or of any other State government except shares of stock in any bank corporation or limited partnership that may be liable to a tax on its shares of capital stock for State purposes or relieved from the payment of the tax on its shares of capital stock for State purposes by the laws of this Commonwealth

(f) All moneys loaned or invested in any other state territory the District of Columbia or any foreign country

(g) All annuities yielding annually over two hundred dollars

The word "investments" as used in this section shall be construed to include any such kind or class of personal property evidence of which is filed of record in the office of the prothonotary or recorder of deeds of any county of the Commonwealth

Section 2 Any person copartnership unincorporated association corporation joint-stock company limited partnership or company liable for the payment of tax for county or city purposes on any investment may take or send to the office of the county commissioners of the proper county or the board of revision of taxes of the city any such investment or a description thereof and pay to the county or city a tax at the rate of four mills per annum on each dollar of value thereof for any one or more years not exceeding five under such regulations as the said commissioners or board may prescribe The county commissioners or board of revision of taxes or any authorized clerk shall thereupon affix stamps hereinafter provided for to such investment or to the description thereof which stamps shall be duly signed by a commissioner a member of the board or an authorized clerk and dated as of the date of payment of such tax and the stamps shall also bear a notation of the year or years for which the taxes are paid The county commissioners shall keep a record of such investment together with the name and address of the person presenting the same and the date of the payment of the tax

After the payment of any such tax the investment shall thereafter be exempt from all assessment and taxation for county or city purposes as provided by the act to which this is a supplement for the period of years for which such tax shall have been paid and such stamps affixed

The taxing value placed upon any such investment by the county commissioners or board of revision of taxes shall be the taxing value thereof for the year or years for which the tax is paid and no additional tax shall be assessed or collected and no abatement or deduction shall be allowed or returned for any increase or decrease in the value of such investment for the year or years for which such taxes are paid Whenever any stamps are affixed to any description of an investment the said description with the stamps thereon shall be attached to the investment and when so attached shall evidence the payment of the tax unless said description shall be in any material matter false in which case the taxes due together with a penalty of ten per centum per annum shall be assessed and collected in the manner such taxes are now assessed and collected by law

Section 3 Whenever any investment is sold or disposed of by the owner thereof the stamps upon such investment or a description thereof shall in the hands of the purchaser thereof be evidence of the payment of the tax for the year or years for which paid In cases where new evidences of such investments are issued the purchaser thereof may secure new stamps from the county commissioners or the board of revision of taxes at actual cost under such uniform rules and regulations as the Auditor General may prescribe and such stamps when affixed to the investment or a description thereof as hereinbefore provided shall evidence the payment of the said taxes for the year or years for which the taxes were originally paid

Section 4 Adhesive stamps for the purpose of indicating the payment of the tax provided for by this act shall be prepaid by the Auditor General of the Commonwealth in such form and of such denominations and in such quantities as may from time to time prescribe The stamps so prepared shall be of two kinds the one kind to be used when taxes are originally paid on any investment and the other kind to be used when new evidences of investment are issued upon which taxes have been theretofore paid Such stamps when so prepared shall be sold by the Auditor General to the county commissioners and boards of revision of taxes at actual cost and shall be used only for the purpose of paying the tax on investments as hereinbefore provided

Section 5 Any person who shall wilfully remove or cause to be removed alter or cause to be altered the cancelling or defacing marks of any such adhesive stamp with intent to use the same or cause the use of the same after it shal have been used or shall knowingly or wilfully sell or buy any washed or restored stamp or offer the same for sale or give or expose the same to any person for use or knowingly use the same or prepare the same with intent for further use thereof or shall wilfully use any counterfeit stamp or forged stamp with intent to defraud shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars or be imprisoned for not more than six months or both

Section 6 All taxes collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the county or city treasury for the use of the county or city

Section 7 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. JEFFERSON W. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 709, as follows:

A Supplement to an act approved the twentieth day of June one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and twenty-one) entitled "An act providing for the imposition and collection of certain taxes upon the transfer of property passing from a decedent who was a resident of this Commonwealth at the time of his death and of property within this Commonwealth of a decedent who was a nonresident of the Commonwealth at the time of his death and making it unlawful for any corporation of this Commonwealth or national banking association located therein to transfer the stock of such corporation or banking association standing in the same of any such decedent until the tax on the transfer thereof has been paid and providing penalties and citing certain acts for repeal" providing additional taxes upon the transfer of certain kinds and classes of personal property upon which county and city taxes have not been paid as required by law

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Auditor General or his agent shall in every case where there is a transfer of personal property or interest therein as provided by the act to which this is a supplement ascertain whether there has been any transfer of personal property of the kind or classes made taxable for county or city purposes by the act approved the seventeenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and seven) entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes and in cities coextensive with counties for city and county purposes imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property providing for the assessment and collection of the same providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes" and if there be any such personal property the Auditor General or his agent shall further ascertain whether all county and city taxes have been paid as required by law and for such purposes shall examine the tax records of the proper county or city or view the personal property in question to see whether said tax has been paid through stamps affixed to said personal property as permitted by law

Section 2 In all cases where the Auditor General shall ascertain that any county or city taxes upon any such personal property have not been paid to the date of the decedent's death he shall assess upon the clear value of such property a tax of five per centum in addition to the taxes imposed by the act to which this is a supplement and the register of wills as agent for the Commonwealth shall collect said taxes in the same manner with like powers and compensation as transfer inheritance taxes are collected Any personal representative who shall fail to pay any of the taxes imposed by this act after the amount due has been ascertained by the Auditor General or his agent shall become personally liable therefor

All taxes collected under the provisions of this act by the register of wills shall be paid by him into the general fund of the State Treasury and he shall furnish to the Auditor General a monthly statement of all such taxes collected

Section 3 This act shall not apply to any personal property held by a decedent actually engaged in the bona fide purchase and sale of investments as a business and who at the time of his death maintained an office or place of business in this State for the carrying on of the actual bona fide business of purchasing and selling investments as distinguished from the purchase thereof for investment purposes and who held such property for sale or transfer for the purpose of his business and not as an investment

Section 4 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. JEFFERSON W. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Coldsmith, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COLDSMITH. Yes, sir.

Mr. McCAIG. May I ask the sponsor of this bill where this hospital is located.

Mr. COLDSMITH. This bill was handed to me by one of the Departments. The location, I could not tell you, sir, but it is in the western part of the state somewhere. This just changes the name.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal

Session 1923 — 125th of the General Assembly

Vol. 7. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1923. No. 37.

SENATE

TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1923.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. T. L. Eyre) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Edward S. Ninde, offered the following prayer:

Our Father in Heaven: We thank Thee for this new day of life. Help us to use it and not abuse it. May we spend it not primarily for our own pleasure and profit, but to Thine honor and glory and for the welfare of our fellowmen. Bless the Senators as they take up the important business that lies before them, and help them to arrive at wise decisions. Bless our Presiding Officer, and remember our Governor amid his arduous duties. Bless the President of the United States, and watch over our Commonwealth and our Nation and the whole world. We ask it in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. BUCKMAN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON THE DEATH OR HONORABLE EDWIN H. VARE, LATE SENATOR FROM THE FIRST DISTRICT.

The Senate met at one o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. T. L. Eyre) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by the resolution for holiding the memorial services on the death of Honorable Edwin H. Vare, late Senator from the First District, the Senate will be in order and will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain.

The Chaplain, Rev. Edward S. Ninde, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and everliving God:

In the midst of life's hurrying activities, we pause, that with uncovered head and bowed heart we may render our tribute to the memory of the dead. We are thinking of one who for long years was a leader in this body, and who has now passed on into the great Beyond. He is absent, but he is not forgotten, and at this memorial hour, the thoughts of multitudes are turning toward him.

We thank Thee for his many deeds of kindness and helpfulness as he journeyed through the years; for the darkened hours that he sought to brighten; for the burdened lives that he helped to ease; for the cry of the widow and the orphan to which he gave such generous heed. We pray Thee, O Lord, that we may emulate his example as he went about ministering to the needs of others and seeking to cheer sad and lonely hearts.

Grant Thy comforting grace to the kindred of our departed friend, those who were knit to him by the tenderest of human ties. Sustain them as Thou alone art able to do, in this time of their great trial. Bless the still wider circle of colleagues and friends. At this solemn hour, bring to our remembrance the ancient truth that in the midst of life we are in death. Of whom shall we seek for succor but of Thee, O Lord? May we bring our lives into harmony with Thy life. May we live well, that when the final summons comes, we may die well.

And at last, when our days on earth are spent, may we enter the life more abundant on high, the City that hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God; whose inhabitants never say they are sick, and where all tears shall be wiped away from our eyes; where we shall behold the King in His beauty, and meet the loved ones who have gone hence in the faith, never again to be parted.

All these things we ask in the name of Him who died and rose again, our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF HONORABLE EDWIN H. VARE, LATE SENATOR FROM THE FIRST DISTRICT.

Mr. DAIX offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to call to his Eternal Home, our friend and colleague, the Honorable

Edwin H. Vare, Senator from the First District of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, By his loveable character, and many years of public service, as a member of the Senate, calls for this token, in loving remembrance of him; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby records its testimony, of our late associate as a citizen, Legislator, and man;

Resolved, That in the death of the Honorable Edwin H. Vare, not only the City of Philadelphia, but the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has lost one of its foremost citizens, a faithful and never tiring Legislator, and one who helped to make our State the great Commonwealth it is;

Resolved, That we tender to his family, our sincere and heartfelt sympathy, in the great loss they have sustained;

Resolved, That a copy of these Resolutions signed by the President, and attested by the clerk, be sent to the family of the deceased.

G. W. Woodward,
W. D. Craig,
Augustus F. Daix Jr.,
Samuel Salus,
C. W. Sones.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The PRESIDENT It is indeed with a sad and heavy heart that I am called upon to preside over this body today, to do honor to our departed friend and colleague. I served for six years as a member of this body with the departed and I learned during those six years to love and regard him. Always courageous, never afraid to express his honest convictions upon any and all subjects, a kind and considerate friend and a generous foe. Senator Vare even though he did not agree with a colleague, was always generous toward that colleague and willing to do a kind turn any time that it was within his power to do so. During the six years I served with Senator Vare in this body, I felt at each term of the Senate, I grew closer to him, and knew him better. He had elements of statemanship that were possessed by few men in this country. His word was one hundred percent good. If Senator Vare passed his word to you you did not have to wonder whether his promise would be carried out. He never failed to make good any promise that he made on the floor of this Senate, and

While he has passed from us never to return to us in the flesh, he has left an impress on this Senate that will live beyond the life of any of us who are members of this body today. This body has a reputation for generosity and fair dealing and no man is more responsible than Senator Vare for the condition that prevails in this body for generosity and fair treatment toward each other as members of this body. Senator Vare was not only a city leader but he was recognized as the undisputed leader of this Senate. When Senator Vare's advice was sought by a member of this body he was always ready and willing to follow the leadership of Senator Vare, and in many instances when it looked as if he had lead a minority of the membership that minority was turned into a majority before the final roll-call was taken on the question under discussion. Not only was that true as far as the leadership of Senator Vare in this Senate was concerned, but his advice was potential in the entire State of Pennsylvania, and it was not confined to the State of Pennsylvania alone, but it reached out toward the National Capitol where his influence was felt. He was a mild-mannered, modest and kindly man and never turned a deaf ear to any person. Many a member was sent from this body enjoying the munificence of his generosity and help in their hour of trouble. He will be missed by this body for all time to come and there never was a time when he was more missed than at the present session of the Legislature. Every day we miss his wise counsel, we miss his kindly spirit. We are fortunate in having one of his own kin to succeed him in the membership of this body but with him we have to secure an acquaintanceship that was of long standing with the one who has departed,

I want to say in conclusion, that I wish I possessed the oratory and vocabulary to express fully my appreciation and love of our departed colleague. I want to further emphasize the fact that for one his impress will remain with me so long as I have life in my body He has taught me lessons that I believe will be everlasting in his frankness and his integrity and in the attribute of which I have just spoken, his word being one hundred per cent good, and I find that the same impress has been left upon the majority of the members of this body. Peace be with him and may we never forget the fragrant memory that he has left with us.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, and members of the Senate. On Tuesday morning April 3, 1923. The Senate unanimously agreed to name this time and place for the memorial services about to be held, and as I handed up the Resolution to the Clerk of the Senate, my thoughts traveled back to him we honor today, when he handed up the Resolution which called for the memorial service of my old friend the late Senator James P. McNichol. Services for Senator McNichol were held March 11, 1919; little over four years ago, and the first speaker occasion was the late Senator from the First District.

Have you taken the time to read his remarks, and gather from them the thoughts that were then in his mind. If you have not, then pause with me, while I read to you what he held above all in his estimation of men and of Senator McNichol. Was it political power? Was it money? No. In his own words "Above and beyond everything else, he was a family man."

A man who carries in his thoughts the criterion by which he judges other men, "Is he a family man." Must and does carry in his soul, the noblest and highest ideals of manhood.

Thoughts born at a mother's knee, and held sacred through a life of hand struggle and remembered, speak well for the teaching of his Christian mother.

The late Senator from the first District was born July 19, 1862. Fought the battle of life to success through his own efforts. Not surrounded with the luxuries of life, receiving an elementary public school education, and then faced the world. Step by step he advanced along the pathway of success in business and public life. He served in the House of Representatives for a short time, and in the Senate seven sessions from 1909 to 1921 inclusive, and played his part as good as the best of them. Well do I remember my last conversation with him.

You all recall that August afternoon, when we said our last farewell to Pennsylvania citizen, and Fayette County's beloved son, the late Senator William E. Crow. As we silently mingled our tears with his neighbors, and those who called him Husband and Dad. There came to him whom we are remembering today sweeping into his soul at that time stronger then ever before thoughts of his God and Eternity. As the voices were wafted on the summer air, more than one of us closed our fists a little tighter, and looked through a mist before our eyes. Did he? Yes! More than you can imagine.

Hands unseen by us were reaching out, and the first call had come to him of the life beyond the great divide. Do you ask, how do I know? May I tell you?

The next morning as the train was thundering along on its way East. the man whose name I have not directly mentioned until this time, the late Senator Edwin H. Vare came into the compartment I occupied, and for a short time two men who had opposed each other in political fights came closer together. He spoke of Senator Crow's funeral, and Senator Vare asked me if I liked the Hymn sung by the Choir, and I answered Yes. Then in the breaking dawn of that early Sabbath morning he hummed and murmered the words of the Hymn.

"We are going down the Valley one by one"
"We are going down towards the setting sun."

To his family we members of the Senate extend our hands and grasp yours in loving remembrance of him.

"To his political and business friends, we echo back your own thoughts," God Bless Ed. Vare.

To Edwin H. Vare, as far as this life goes the sun has set. The glooming has come on swiftly around us, the shadows of night are falling fast, but a great Creator rules above us, and to him we leave our friend. We of this Great Commonwealth and of the Senate of Pennsylvania have paid our last tribute to our old colleague Edwin H. Vare.

Mr. President, I also would like to have the privilege of incorporating as part of the proceedings of this memorial session the address delivered by Bishop Joseph F. Berry of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the funeral services of the late Senator Edwin H. Vare, Thursday, October 19, 1922, Ambler, Pa.

ADDRESS BY BISHOP JOSEPH F. BERRY OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH AT THE FUNERAL SERVICES OF THE LATE SENATOR EDWIN H. VARE THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1922, AMBLER, PA.

We are standing today in the presence of two stupendous facts.

One is the fact of mortality. Concerning this earthly life it has been said that it is a pendulum between a smile and a tear. It has been called a tale that is soon told. It is only a summer flower which blushes in the morning sun, but 'ere the shades of night prevail it falls in scattered fragments to the earth, mingling its fragrance with the falling dew. It is a passing dream which, while we sleep, fills the mind with visions radiant, but when aroused from slumber, all quickly fades away. Youth is but a sparkling dew-drop quickly exhaled. Beauty is a darling plaything, fading like a flower. Wealth is a gay deceiver, disappointing and fleeting. Power is a gilded bubble, presently turning to dust. Honors are shimmering meteors, dazzling for a moment, then extinct forever. Upon every hand we come face to face with the fact of a limited tenure here, and of the appalling uncertainty of that existence. Voices from within and without warn us that this is not our abiding place. Mortality! The vital word is written upon the firmament in letters of blood. It flames in doleful fires and infectious plagues from the earth. Mortality! It echoes and re-echoes through the vast universe of God!

But the fact of immortality is quite as significant.

My friends, this present life is but a fragment of our whole life. We have only begun. Ours is an endless career. We are to go on forever. Entirely aside from the teaching of the Bible, and apart from any theological dogma, our mental and moral consciousness assures us that we are immortal.

Has Almighty God created any want in all His vast universe without also creating a supply precisely suited to meet that want? Take the law of natural selection. A frail plant put into the earth has the ability to draw from the soil those chemical properties that are necessary to insure its life and growth, and it also has power to reject those elements in the soil which, if absorbed, would prove injurious. The law of natural selection is but another name for the universal law of want and supply.

Take yourself. Have you any physical, mental, social esthetic need for which God has not made adequate provision? Over against every want has He not placed a supply? What is true in these realms of your being is equally true of your moral and spiritual nature. Every normal human soul wants to live forever. In every life grows this flower of eternal hope. No man wants to be snuffed out like a candle or die like a brute. If there be no immortality, then one of two things is apparent, i. e., either the Almighty has made a fateful mistake in failing to give to the immortal spirit what it intuitively craves, or (I speak it reverently) He has deliberately placed a lie in every human soul. God has done neither. But this longing to live forever is met by the beneficent provision of the life immortal.

Now that is not a new thought. Nor is it a very good putting of a very old conception. Away back in the dark days, before the light of the new Gospel was sent streaming over the earth, the pagan poets and philosophers reasoned just that way. There was a pagan whose name was Plato. One day he got thinking of the fact of immortality, and he reasoned with himself long and earnestly. Then upon rude parchment he wrote down his thoughts. Years afterward this parchment fell into the hands of another pagan whose name was Cato. He smoothed out the wrinkled manuscript and read what Plato had written. Then you remember what Cato is represented as saying:

"It must be so.
Plato, thou reasonest well.
Else whence this pleasing hope
And fond desire—
This longing after immortality?
Or whence this secret dread
And inward horror of sinking into naught?
Why shrinks the soul back on itself
And startles at destruction?
'Tis the divinity that stirs within us,
'Tis Heaven itself that points out a hereafter,
And indicates eternity to man."

But we are better off than were Plato or Cato. We have a more sure word. We base our faith in the endless life not only upon a created demand and expectation which have been universal in all the ages of the world, but upon the explicit and authoritative word of Revelation. And there is no truth of the Word which is fraught with such cheer and triumph. "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God, an house not made with hands eternal in the heavens." And he is an utterly foolish man who makes sure of achievement and comfort in this little fragment of his existence, and gives no attention to preparation for that vaster life which shall still be in its early morning when the mountains of the earth have crumbled into dust, and when all the shimmering stars in the firmament shall fall into dark and eternal oblivion.

Such reflections as we have just made seem appropriate upon an occasion like this. For in the busy swirl of modern life, with the demands it makes upon our time and energies, we are apt to lose sight of true values, and to neglect altogether the more important concerns which center in eternity.

This extraordinary outpouring of people to-day bears eloquent testimony to the grasp which Senator Vare had upon the hearts of the people of Philadelphia. If this service had been held anywhere in South Philadelphia, where our friend was born and spent his life, and where the people have, through the years, been his devoted adherents, the voice of no speaker could have reached the multitude. Here are representatives from every walk of professional and business life, and here are sad-faced representatives of the poor and unfortunate whose friend and benefactor he always was.

Senator Vare was a man of striking personality. The type was strong, rugged, dominating, and in a measure unfinished. His manner was frank, emphatic and somewhat brusque. Yet underneath the rugged exterior was a heart of unusual geniality and kindness.

He was a born leader. And his leadership was not maintained by an attitude of arrogance or dictatorship, but by a subtle magnetism which won and held men by literal battalions. I doubt whether any man in the public life of our city has had friends who were more absolute and tenacious in their personal devotion. When any one became a friend of Edwin H. Vare he was a friend for life.

At several periods of his political career it seemed certain that the forces against his policies must triumph and sweep him ruthlessly from his place of leadership. So apparently united and resistless was the movement against himself and the candidates whose cause he had espoused that defeat seemed to be inevitable. But his marvelous political strategy and contagious enthusiasm carried him through victories which reversed all prognostication, and literally astonished the city. I put it down as something very much like a miracle that with the press of the city of both political parties solidly united against him, flooding the community with arguments and appeals to the people to defeat him, it was possible for Mr. Vare to retain for so long a period the control of the Republican party in Philadelphia and in some measure throughout the State. Without discussing at all the particular methods which he employed or the character of the policies for which he has stood, his long series of successes under the conditions he confronted furnish a perfectly marvelous illustration of his personal power, as well as a striking tribute to the skill and force of his political generalship.

It should be remembered that Senator Vare came into practical politics at a time when dominating individual leadership and authoritative party organization had not been seriously challenged. These were regarded as legitimate and necessary. It is not surprising, therefore, that he was slow to accept the political ideals which in later years have manifested themselves in independent and reform movements within and without the party.

The story of the climb of our friend from poverty and obscurity to affluence and prominence reads like a romance. It shows what native ability, courage, industry and a rather extraordinary degree of diplomacy may accomplish in the face of difficulties which would have baffled a weaker man. From a farmer boy peddling vegetables through the streets, or a gatherer of ashes from door to door, to a citizen of large fortune and a recognized leader in the counsels of a great political party was a long step indeed. That such advancement is possible in our day should be an inspiration to every American boy.

I was glad to see emphasized in the news columns of our city press the fact of Senator Vare's rugged honesty. When it was said that he always kept his word with both friend and foe one of the chief reasons for the absolute loyalty of his friends and the respect of his rivals was revealed.

We do not agree that either in the nation, the commonwealth or the municipality it is well for any one man to dominate in party counsels as Senator Vare is said to have done in Philadelphia, yet who is there who would not prefer that if such control is ever permitted it should be in the hands of a leader concerning whom the newspapers, long bitterly hostile, unite in saying that "he always kept his word."

The personal and political friends of Senator Vare have reason to remember with pleasure the record he left behind in the matter of the so-called welfare legislation. In enumerating the laws enacted at Harrisburg in recent years for the special benefit of working men and working women and children he told me one day with no small display of satisfaction that he had worked for and voted for every one of them. These measures included:

It is a matter of history that the Senator's vote was the deciding vote in the ratification of the nineteenth amendment. And it is likewise a matter of history that if it had not been for Senator Vare and his close friends in the Senate and House of Representatives from Philadelphia, the movement to ratify the eighteenth amendment would have failed.

The man whose going away so many mourn to-day was a citizen of unusual generosity. His annual benefactions amounted to many thousands of dollars. He was a friend of the poor, and he was never quite so happy as when he was able to refill an empty coal bin, or to furnish food or nourishment for the hungry or sick. Very seldom did he turn away from anyone who asked help for any worthy cause. I happen to know that he never permitted himself to retain for his own use a penny of his salary as a State Senator. It has been divided for years between three Philadelphia hospitals, the one Jewish, another Roman Catholic, and the other Protestant.

To Senator Vare home was the most cherished place on earth. His affection for his wife and children was a holy passion. His home was his paradise, and the happiness of those in his family circle was his highest delight. Those who for years have known of the devotion of this man to his family are not surprised that there is sorrow almost to suffocation in his home to-day.

The relation of Edwin H. Vare to his Brother William was the relation of David to Jonathan. They have been closely related in business and have transacted business in totals of millions of dollars, but there never has been even a scratch of a pen or any formal understanding between them. One has trusted the other implicitly, and the prosperity of the one has always been the prosperity of the other.

I do not think I have ever known a man who cherished more tender memories of his mother. I seldom met him when he did not make some beautiful reference to her life and influence. Her hand seemed to be ever upon his head. When the Pennsylvania Legislature was about to take up the ratification of the Federal Prohibitory Amendment I called at his office one day to make sure that the Senator would stand squarely for ratification. When I introduced the question he looked straight into my eyes and asked:

"Are you going out to Harrisburg the day we vote?"

"I hope to be there," was my reply.

"Well," said the Senator, "before I cast my vote I am going to look back to see if you are standing behind the brass rail watching me. But I care a great deal more about some one else who will also be standing there watching how I vote. My mother will be there. Do you think I could disappoint my mother?"

And the vote of that day of Senator Vare and the Philadelphia men who were close to him put Pennsylvania in the list of ratifying commonwealths.

Mother Vare was a beautiful soul, plain, transparent, deeply spiritual, and with a perfect passion for Christian service. Her boys grew up in that atmosphere. With the influence of such a mother still upon him it is not surprising that when his prolonged illness came and he had time for quiet thought the Senator's mind went back to his boyhood days, and the spirit of the old home with its prayer and simple devotion came upon him. Though to the end he expected to recover and seemed to have no idea that he was near the end of life, yet nothing appeared to so fascinate him as the religious conversations and prayers of those who ministered to him. He joined eagerly in the prayers that were made for him, and took delight in dwelling upon spiritual themes. His mother's hand was still upon his head. Being dead, yet she spoke to him, and held him steady to the old faith.

Edwin H. Vare was not a perfect man. Are you? Am I? He would be the last person to claim it. He had his faults like other men. His nature was intense, and his strong and aggressive personality brought him into sharp conflict with other men of power. Of course, bitter antagonisms were often engendered. But that is all passed now. I am sure we have already covered with the mantle of charity any imperfections we may have observed in his life, and are looking to-day at the many admirable qualities of his head and heart. His record is made and the book is closed. The record of our life is not yet finished. We are to place still more entries upon its unsoiled pages. What shall we write there? May God grant that when the pages of our life's story are all full, and the volume is closed and sealed, it may be said of us that we lived worthily and well. And that some day we may hear the welcome words of the great Master, "Well done; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Mr. SONES:—Mr. President: Edwin H. Vare, Senator from the First Senatorial District in the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, died on the 16th day of October, 1922. Elected first to the Senate in the year 1908, he served thereafter continously as a member of this body until his death, and being at that time equalled by only one of its then members in length of service.

He was born in the year 1862 in the City of Philadelphia he here so long represented. He knew her people intimately, and watched and guarded her interests with an unfailing fidelity. It is needless to recount or restate in detail his services here. Like all legislators, much of his most vital work was rendered in the Committee room, unspectacular and commonly unnoted by the public, but most potent in result. He brought to the floor of the Senate a diligence, courage, strength and weight unsurpassed by any Senator of his day. When he spoke he was always listened to, for he spoke only when there was something to be said, and then said it with extroardinary clarity and directness and complete understanding of the subject under consideration.

Senator Vare was utterly without pretense. His word was inviolate and his promises kept. There was never any duobt where he stood on any question, and his advocacy or opposition was as straightforward as his stand once taken was unshaken. Considerate and tolerant of the views of those who differed wtih him, free from ostentation or selfadvertisement, he held tenaciously to what he conceived to be the right and never departed from certain well defined and fixed principles of public policy. Always plain in speech, and sometimes blunt in manner, all knew that beneath it all there ever beat a kind, loving and forgiving heart. Loyalty was of the very fibre of his being to those of his own kindred, to his followers and to his City, Commonwealth and cause.

He was keenly awake to the needs and changing conditions of our progressive age, and was among the foremost in promoting sound legislation to meet such ends. The shams of the hour, however, never captured him or colored his attitude on public measures. Senator Vare was an American throughout, in thought, in purpose, in ideals, and shared in none of the dogmas of the doctrinaire that would tempt our land to desert the faith in which the Rebublic was founded. His was not the type of mind that deems it constructive to indulge in experimental changes in long settled procedure and seasoned institutions. It was that same type of mind that studies with the utmost care a proposed change before it is made, rather than hastily make and then study it.

Fortune had not favored this man with any especial advantages other than to endow him with his innate rugged strength. He was self made in the truest sence of that term and exemplified in his life the vast possibilities afforded by our institutions to one who has a will to work and a genius for success. It was no ordinary man who could, through the sheer force of his own gifts, climb to the leadership of his Party in its greatest stronghold in the entire Nation, and then hold it with firm and increasing sureness to the last. He sprang from the plain people and never lost touch or contact with them. He understood them, as they unfalteringly trusted and followed him.

Blessed with a home life and domestic happiness of sweet and hallowed beauty, never stronger in commanding place in this Legislative Body, sustained by an increasing following of undiminishing loyalty, in the very meridian of his powers, usefulness and influence, the night fell and the day was done. Around his grave there gathered a great company of the leaders of the State, come to pay tribute to his worth and to one whose battles had been fairly fought and whose victories had been fairly won. Most memorable of all in that outpouring of grief were the mourning thousands composed of all ranks from his beloved City, who had lost a leader, and something yet dearer, a friend, faithful and just, and who knew him so well and loved him so much. He had been a helper or comforter to many in the hour of trouble or woe, and these had not forgotten.

To those in this Senate who were privileged to serve here with Senator Vare, his absence carries a daily sense of loss and personal bereavement. He had done much more than ably assist in fashioning and passing legislation of enduring value to the Commonwealth; he enshrined himself in the affections of his fellow Senators. A faithful public servant and a powerful and brilliant political chieftain has passed, but the hope is here voiced that the precious memory of what he was and the lofty pride in what he did will help soften the sorrow that shadows the fireside from which he has gone, as the records of this Senate will forever testify to his devoted services in our Commonwealth.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate: It is with a feeling of much pride and great sorrow that I have this opportunity of bringing my slight tribute of respect to the memory of Senator Vare from the extreme western end of the State. Mr. President, sorrow because we have suffered the loss of our friend and fellow-Senator; pride that we knew him, and that we may express to his friends and relatives who are here to-day our feeling of love for him, our appreciation for the many deeds of kindness we know he has performed and our sense of loss we have at his going away.

An occasion like this, my fellow-Senators, is always indeed a sad one. Death to me has always been a terrible thing.

It has always meant the severing of all the ties of love and friendship that connected us here with our dearest ones and in putting behind us everything that we have learned to love and cherish and the going out into a great uncertainty, and the only thing that relieves that feeling of desolation, that feeling of terror, is the knowledge that we do not go out alone, if what we have done here will entitle us to the companionship that we have on our last long journey.

Mr. President, I do not know why memorial services always come near the end of the session. For twelve times now within those years that I have sat in this Senate Chamber we have held these memorial services. Twelve times out of the membership of fifty in this Senate have we gone to the funerals of our dear friends. I do not know what there is in public service that takes so much out of life. I do not believe it is because so many men come to this body in advanced stages of life, because more than half of these twelve Senators who have gone since I came here have been young men, but there is something that a man must spend, my fellow-Senators, something of his vitality, of his life force that public service takes out of him, and these twelve men who have gone from here since I came were all young men who ought to have been with us for many years to come. It was not age that took them away. It could only have been the cares and the troubles and the responsibilities that came to them as they rendered their public service that took them away at an untimely age.

I have pride in my recollection of Senator Vare. You men who were associated with him in his home city, that city that he loved so well, and that he always talked about, that he boosted to the sky, knew him in a different way than we country fellows from the north and the west knew him. You witnessed his political triumphs, you witnessed his struggles, you saw him victorious in many a bitter fight, you watched his demeanor in times that defeat came to him. You knew him as Ed. Vare, the political leader of your city. You knew him in his official life and in his activities in the civil life of that community. Out west, separated by three hundred miles, we viewed him in a different light and saw him with a different perspective. We were not so intimately acquainted with the things that he did that endeared him to you. His activities that interesed you most have but little effect upon us. We knew him only through our personal contact with him. You can recite his plans, the big things that he did, the many things that he did for his home city, but the thing that impressed us and that made the most impression upon us was he every day homely kindness of the man. Position, grandeur, place of prominence, means nothing to a person who is within the glamoor of that position of prominence or in contact with that place of leadership, but the thing that gets right down under our skins, who do not know him in that way, the thing that appeals to us, the thing that comes closest to our hearts, was Ed. Vare's homely every day kindly consideration for us. There was not anything in the world that Ed. Vare could do for one of his fellows that he was not delighted to do. How many times he said to me "Davey, if you boys from the country want anything that I can help you to get, do not fail to ask me," and when you went to Ed. you always got it, but you got it such a way, my friends, that he made you think that you were doing him a favor by asking him and you always felt that that was just what you were doing. It seemed to give him pleasure to be a help to us, he was always willing to go out of his way, he gave himself without any stint, no sacrifice was too great to help a fellow that he wanted as a friend, and is not after all the thing that counts? My fellow members of the Senate, what is there that comes to any man in public life that is really worth while having? What is there that you will remember after you have gone away from here? We hold these memorial services every session right at the end of our labors here, just with a feeling of sadness and sorrow coming over us anyhow, because we are shaking hands with all the rest of our fellows here and going back home to live it over only in our memories. You will forget after while that Ed. Vare was the leader of the Philadelphia organization. You will forget the place of prominence that he held in public life, of his state and his city, you will forget the place that he held in the business world, but the thing that will stick in your memory forever, and the thing that will come into your minds in after years, when you are old and gone out of the affairs of life and are sitting around and thinking of all the glories of the days that you used to know will be the kind and tender little things that Ed. Vare did for you and did for me, and it did not make a bit of difference whether you were with him or against him politically not a bit, Ed. Vare was always ready and willing to help you if he could, and he asked but little in return, It is just that kindly every day part of the man that is going to mean something to everyone of us and that we are all going to remember long after we have forgotten his many glories and his prominence, and that is the thing that appeals to us away out there on the banks of the Ohio, and that is why we are glad that we can add our little tribute of respect to the things that his fellow citizens of Philadelphia have so well said of him.

I am not going to preach, there is not anything that I could say that would add one little bit to the regard in which his friends hold him. I just have this clipping from a newspaper which I saw while coming over on the train after I had learned that I was to be on this committee.

These few lines might have been written especially for Ed. Vare:

He has gone on, Just as he lived he died.
He left with us the rule he followed when
He daily laid his heavy load aside
To bear the burdens of his fellow men.
"I have done some little here," he said, "and so,
Now that my time for doing good is past,
Let me go out with little pomp and show."
He thought himself unworthy till the last.
'Twas always so with him; he never cared
To claim the credit of his kindliness;
It was enough for him, when he had shared
His shelter or his substance, to possess
A knowledge of his neighbor's happiness.
It must be so today as he now stands
With happy wonder written on his face
That he should gain from God's own gracious hands
So great a glory and so high a place
As his reward. While we who loved him best
And knew the simple goodness of his ways
Must labor on and hornor his bequest
Till we fulfill our given length of days.
And this my prayer through all these days shall be;
O, Master, may I do as much as he!

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I am somewhat at a disadvantage here to-day speaking at these memorial services, because I feel that outside of my immediate family there is no man living who was closer or dearer to me than the late Senator Edwin H. Vare, and as I looked around here I tried to pick out someone whom I could compare with the late Senator Edwin H. Vare, in order that I might, by comparison, picture the man to you, and in all my printing and all my looking around the only one that I could find that in any way compared with the Honorable Edward H. Vare was little Eddie Vare, as God only made one such character, and his duplicate, if ever made, was never known by me. He came from stock that most of the men of this Senate come from, he was a farmer's son, and from farmers sons have grown the great men of this Commonwealth and the great men of all the world. He started out, humble as it was, but grew to be what? A political leader? A big man in the community? A man of power? No. That is not what he grew to be. He grew to be a wonderful man among the people who knew him. He grew to be a man that people loved. He grew to a position where by some means or other the community looked upon him to lead them and he led because the people in his locality made him lead. He did not seek power. He did not seek leadership. He did not seek authority. It was the will of the people in the immediate neighborhood who knew him that pushed him onward, forward and upward to fight their battles and when he came into that position where he could do them good he became their servant. No man, however humble he might have been, in the locality where he was known, would do as much for you as Edwin H. Vare. The community pushed him to the front and he went around to the rear and became the followers. He was in charge of the political situation in southern Philadelphia and in those thirty years he never knew what defeat meant. No matter what he undertook in his locality he came out victorious because it was the will of the people and not the will of Edwin H. Vare. Why talk of his worth? Why talk of his morality? Why talk of his being a God-fearing man? Those things are so indelibly written on the sands of time that it is unnecessary for us to talk about them. No time, no condition, or no thing will ever rise in the memory of those who knew him that can eradicate a single line or make us forget this man who was one of God's greatest creatures. He had all the things that the Almighty ordained a man should have, he was a God-fearing man, he believed in his God, but had no religion that belonged strictly to himself. Your religion, my religion, every other man's religion, was his religion if he were a God-fearing man. He knew no creed and knew no color. He knew no situation in life excepting he wanted you to be a God-fearing man. His morality and his home life, it was such a beautiful picture, it was such a living piece of scenery. He had a lovely home and family, a devoted wife, and everybody knew how he stood with his family. That was the fundamental thing in his mind at all times. He loved not only his own children, not only his wife, but the devotion of that man as we knew him for his brothers was a wonderful picture. I am told, and I know, that those three brothers in their time have done hundreds of millions of dollars worth of business without the scratch of a pen between them. We might say that is the way it ought to be. That is the way it ought to be, but how often is it done? Those three brothers have occupied the Senate seat from that District for nigh unto thirty years. One by one has the great Ruler called them to the great beyond he other stepped into his place, but by no wish of theirs. By the will of the people, by the devotion of those that they served so well, that they persisted and insisted that this seat in the Senate shall at all times, as long as it possibly can be done, be occupied by a Vare. For thirty or forty years in political life, with the name of Vare attached to every political position, without a single finger ever being pointed to any one who ever wore the name of Vare as to having done an unfair, unkind or dishonest act. That is the record that Senator Vare's family can well be proud of. We know they are proud of it, but they cannot be any prouder of it than we, who knew him, can be. Every piece of humane legislation that has been passed in the last thirty years, covering women, children, laborers, or whatever else it might be, on every piece of that legislation, on the right side, you will find the name of a Vare.

He was also known in our city as a contractor. He was a contractor, but a contractor who built humanity, a contractor who built human souls, a contractor whose contract in life was to elevate his fellowman, and scattered around here in our midst now are some of the monuments that he has built, and they are beautiful monuments. They are monuments that talk, they are monuments that walk and can tell you of the greatness of this man.

At one time I took occasion to talk to Senator Vare about certain things and he said, "The dearest thing I own that I have any control over outside of my immediate family, is the seat in this Senate. I would rather be a Senator from the First Senatorial District of Pennsylvania than be its Governor," and one of the last requests that he made before he died—and that is the reason why I have this little senatorial button on the lapel of my coat now, one of his last requests was that that button should be in the lapel of his coat when he went to his last resting place. Those of you who attended the funeral saw that button there. That was one of his last wishes, showing that his loyalty and devotion never left this place. And while we are speaking on that theme, I do not know how many of you were there, but they were there by the thousands; and who was there? Your Governor was there; your United States Senators were there; the members of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania were there; the members of the other Courts of Pennsylvania were there; business men of standing in the community were there, merchants of all kinds were there, and every walk in life was represented, Republicans, Democrats, Reformers, no matter in what class you put the people, by the thousands they were there, even down to the poor widowed mother with the orphan child by her hand and the ragamuffin with his bare toes disclosed. I saw one woman with three children with clothing tattered and torn, standing by the coffin and looking at him she said "There goes the last friend I have on this earth." That is the kind of a man we are mourning here to-day. Some one has said that his name and his deeds will be forgotten. Not as long as the memory of people in South Philadelphia remains with them. That name and memory can never be forgotten and among the monuments that we have in South Philadelphia which will at all times shine out and emblazon upon our people the name of Edwin H. Vare is the Boys and Girls Southern High and Manual Training School that he fought so hard to get. It was opposed by many people and by newspapers who claimed that there were other districts that were more entitled to this school than we were. Through his efforts we have that school, the recreation park and the playground. Those are but some of the things.

I do not want to talk longer because I could talk for hours, but might I tell you that not a single penny of the money he collected as State Senator ever went into his pocket. His salary as it was received was divided among charitable hospitals in the city of Philadelphia, of different denominations. Not one penny did he ever keep. But of course the amount there is small in comparison to his many other charities. I could talk on, if I wanted to, for an hour or more, but I have here a few lines that I want to recite to you and I think in these few lines we have Senator Vare's whole life so compact as to cover everything that was said here to-day, or all that he ever accomplished in this life:

He lived for those who loved him,
For those who knew him true,
For the Heaven that bent above him,
And the good that he could do:

For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that he could do.

The PRESIDENT. We are honored and the memory of Senator Vare is honored by having with us this afternoon His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, who has asked the privilege of saying a few words in commemoration of the memory of Senator Vare. I have the honor and pleasure of presenting the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Honorable Gifford Pinchot.

GOVERNOR GIFFORD PINCHOT. Mr. President and friends: I speak with hesitation before your Honorable body, realizing that I speak in the presence of those who knew the late Senator Vare far better than I did, and yet I should regret to let this opportunity pass without attempting to say a few words of the strong impression that he made upon me while he was alive. I knew him but slightly, but no man could know him without gathering from him that impression of rugged strength which, in my memory, at least, is the characteristic which carries the strongest conviction, rugged power, will power, determination and courage, which seem to me stamped him first of all. But there was another side to his character which appealed to me even more, for as I had followed the career of Senator Vare even before I knew him personally, there stood out of it his consistent championship of all human measures. He was for Workmen's Compensation, he was for good Child Labor laws. Point after point as you followed his career you found him standing on the side of human rights as contrasted with property rights, on the side of those who had little, when the issue arose as against those who had much. It was the progressive tendency of his stand in the Senate which attracted me to him most before I knew him, and indeed I feel that I did not know him until the day of his funeral. I had met him casually here and there, and had talked with him again and again, but the real measure of the man came to me only on the day when he was laid away and ceased to take a part in the active affairs of this world. Then the thing concerning him which I shall never forget, the thing which to me at least is the enduring memory of the man was the outpouring, not so much, as Senator Salus has said, of those who were high in the civic and political life of the Commonwealth, but the multitude of the humble, who felt themselves bereft of a real friend and whose tribute could have had no purpose whatsoever except love of the man. Senator Vare lived a life of struggle, as most real men do, but whatever else may be said of him, or was said of him in the conflict in the midst of which he lived, that tribute determines once and for all the quality of his heart, and we may join, all of us, with those who knew him best in saying "Take him for all and all, he was a man."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

The SPEAKER (C. J. Goodnough), in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. B. Cox, offered the followiug prayer:

Infinite and eternal God, we come into Thy presence this morning humbly acknowledging our transgressions and pleading the pardon of our shortcomings. Oh Thou God of our Fathers, who did direct them in the fashioning and framing of this Republic, we pray that Thou wouldst bless the members of this Assembly with a like sense of Thy presence. Grant to them the guidance of the Holy Spirit in all their deliberations. Enable us all, that we may with the best effort of mind and heart make such contributions to the welfare of humanity and Thy glory as Thou shalt give us grace.

We ask it in the name of the Christ. Amen.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DAVID FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DAVID FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, in this morning's issue of the Philadelphia North American, they have this to say with regard to my position in the House last night. In part it says, "Mr. Fowler went after the committee in his most vitriolic manner. He said about all the mean things possible to say." Mr. Speaker, those who have known me in the past have never known me to take a stand upon this floor vitrolizing any man. If there is any vitrol spread in the state of Pennsylvania the yellow sheet of the North American is the one that is spreading it. Let me say to you members of the House that this is not the first time that the one who reports the news from this House has taken me to task. I do not care what their opinions are or may be, because the people of the anthracite coal fields do not pay any attention to them anyway. They have never been fair in the interest of organized labor and all they have ever done is to crucify organized labor in this country. If there has been any vitrol, I say that the one who sent in that story must have dipped his pen in a bottle of it. I want to say that while I have no feeling against any member of the committee, I have a feeling against a newspaper that deprives me of the right to stand here and defend myself on the floor of this House. I do not believe in a newspaper which criticises people on a question that they dont't know anything about, and it showed absolutely that they were afraid to permit the full crew bill to go upon the floor of this House because they knew we had arguments with which we could sustain our position. I am not trying to resurrect the full crew measure, that is gone so far as this session goes, but I am going to say this that in one session of the Legislature this yellow sheet came out with a statement that if Dave Fowler was not going to get any more drinks he would vote dry in this house. I had that fellow that wrote that and stood him up and made him retract that statement, and the truth of the matter is that that reporter was standing at the Columbus bar with the rest of the boys at that time and there he talked at the bar, and he was slopping up all the drinks that everybody else was buying. He went and took that position and wrote that story n the North American that they retracted. Let me say that I shall measure swords at any time with the North American. I remember when the treason trial was on a few months ago, their position. I know the position they have taken against the Herrin miners, but they won't come out with the truth. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I just want to voice my sentiments against the North American, that is all. The members of this House know me well enough to know that I have always taken a licking squarely in this House, and I hold nothing against any member of the Committee or any member of the House for taking their position last night. That is their position, and they are entitled to their opinions in this House.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman from Lackawanna under his personal privilege will be noted upon the Journal.

RESOLUTION No. 12.

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution 12, file folio. 3803.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

Whereas The procedure of this House of Representatives has been greatly hindered and delayed by the frequent failure of the Department of Printing and Binding to have prepared on time the printing which is necessary for the transaction of the business of this House

And Whereas The apparent inability of the Department of Printing and Binding to get out the necessary printing has been becoming more pronounced with corresponding results upon the deliberations of this House

And Whereas The requirements of this House of Representatives for the printing or its necessary documents are increasing

And Whereas If the present condition is not remedied in the Department of Printing and Binding this House of Representatives will be unable to properly function its members will be greatly embarrassed and handicapped and an extra and unnecessary burden will be placed upon the people of this Commonwealth by the inability of this House to complete its work and adjourn at an early date

Therefore Be It Resolved That the Speaker of this House of Representatives be and hereby is authorized and requested to appoint a committee of five members of this House to make an investigation into the present status of the printing being done for this House to ascertain if possible the cause or causes of the delay in the Department of Printing and Binging and to make its report within ten days to this House of Representatives relative thereto with such recommendations and suggestions as said Committee may deem proper to rectify the present intolerable condition

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. RHODES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this proposition probably needs no discussion because we have been experiencing the very facts which we seek to rectify by this investigation. For sometime the deliberations of this House have been embarrassed, and the members have been inconvenienced by the delay in getting out the calendar and the other documents necessary. We have, as you know, a history of House bills, this is supposed to be published weekly. It is more like a monthly publication under the present conditions. It is impossible for us to function properly and to do our just duty; it is impossible for us to give the proper consideration to the bills upon the calendar unless the bills are printed, and unless the calendar is properly printed on time. There is no ulterior motive behind this resolution. It is merely for the purpose of ascertaining what the status of the printing relative to this House may be, to ascertain through a committee appointed by the Speaker the means that can be taken to rectify this condition. If something is wrong in the department, it is our duty to know it; if it can be rectified by the investigation which this committee can make, by suggestions which it may make to this House, then it is our duty in my mind to pursue this policy and have an investigation made through a committee of five members, as this resolution provides. There has been much said in the past, both inside of the House and outside, that the state printer was not functioning properly; that he was not attempting to co-operate with the typographical union, which was willing to co-operate with him; that his arbitrary attitude was the real cause of this delay. Therefore, I say in justice to all the people concerned that we should find out the exact truth relative to this matter.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will appoint the committee at a later time in the day.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 901, as follows:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand three hundred and nineteen) entitled "An act to establish a State Village for feeble-minded women providing for the appointment of a board of managers to select a tract of land for that purpose in the State forest reserve and to erect and furnish buildings on the same and to manage said institution and providing for the commitment thereto of feeble-minded females between the ages of sixteen and forty-five years defining the powers and duties of the board of managers and making an appropriation for the purposes aforesaid also for the expenses of maintenance until June one one thousand nine hundred and fifteen" as amended by changing the name of said village

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the Chair will take up the second reading calendar at this time. Are there objections? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 116, as follows:

An Act providing for the appropriation by the court of supervisors in election districts in general municipal primary and special elections upon petition of candidates regulating the method of appointment and prescribing the duties and powers of such supervisors providing for their compensation providing penalties for violation and repealing acts inconsistent herewith

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That upon the petition of any candidate for nomination or election in any general municipal primary or special election setting forth that he believes it would be in the interest of the enforcement of law in the conduct of such general municipal primary or special election to have the court appoint two supervisors in the election districts named in said petition the court shall forthwith as of course enter an order appointing for each election district referred to in the petition two electors of the county who need not be residents of such election district who in the opinion of the court are honest intelligent and qualified for the performance of the duties required and who shall have signified their willingness to accept such appointment which appointments however shall be made in open at time fixed after reasonable notice to all candidates affected

Section 2 Such supervisors shall attend at the polling place to which they have been severally appointed at the opening of the polls shall have right to be within the rail and to inspect the conduct of the election by the election board the counting of the ballots the preparation of the returns and the performance of all other duties imposed by law upon the board or any member thereof From the opening of the polls until the final adjournment of the board after the election the two supervisors shall be as nearly as possible within the polling place and neither one shall leave the polling place during the temporary absence of the other The day following the election the two supervisors shall prepare a report addressed to the court reporting upon the conduct of the election and setting forth any violation of law observed by the supervisors This report shall be filed in the office of the prothonotary shall be subject to inspection of any candidate or his duly accredited representative which inspection shall be made in the presence of the prothonotary or an employee of his office deputized by him for that purpose and the said report shall be destroyed by the prothonotary at the expiration of six months from date of filing thereof unless otherwise ordered by the court The said report shall contain a statement that at no time during the period of the election were both of the supervisors absent from the polling place In case such is not the fact then the period of absence shall be stated with an explanation thereof

Section 3 After the filing of the report if it shall appear thereon that at no time were both of the said supervisors absent from the polling place as herein provided or if in the judgment of the court upon inspection of the report the joint absence of the supervisors or either of them was not reasonably avoidable (the opinion of the court in this respect to be endorsed upon the report as to one or both of the supervisors) the supervisors whose performance of duty has not been disapproved by the court in the manner herein provided shall be entitled to receive and shall be paid by the county commissioners from the funds of the county ten ($10.00) dollars each for their services one-half of which shall be paid by the petitioner to the county treasurer before the order of appointment becomes effective

Section 4 Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act or shall interfere with any supervisors appointed hereunder in any manner thwarting or hindering them or any of them in the performance of their respective duties or attempting so to do shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year or by fine of not more than five thousand ($5,000) dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court

Section 5 All acts and parts of ats inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 118, entitled:

An Act providing for the assement of occupation or poll tax in cases where the assessor has failed to make such assessment and the collection of the same so that such taxes may be assessed by and paid to the county treasurer or the registration officers for the registration of voters providing a penalty for violation thereof and repealing acts inconsistent therewith

The first, second, third and fourth sections were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in every case where the assessor has failed to make an occupation or poll tax assessment against any person liable to such assessment such person may demand of the county treasurer that he make such assessment and in case the name of the person making such demand is not found upon the assessment list of the county treasurer acting as agent for the assessor shall forthwith enter upon the said list the name of the person applying assessing him at the current rate of assessment for such occupation and shall forthwith receive payment of such assessment from the said person so applying and issue to him a tax receipt therefor

Section 2 In case any elector otherwise duly qualified shall apply before any officer or officers having authority to register voters for the purpose of election and shall make affidavit setting forth his full name and residential address how long he has resided at the place named his occupation his place of business if any and further setting forth that he has not been assessed for any state or county taxes for the current year or the year preceding the registration officer or officers in charge of such registration shall enter in the assessment book hereinafter provided for an assessment of poll or occupation tax against such applicant for the current year assessing such applicant at the current rate for his occupation and shall forthwith issue a receipt to the said applicant upon the payment of the tax so assessed and such receipt shall have the same validity for the purpose of registration as any other tax receipt showing payment of taxes assessed and paid as of the date of such such receipt

Section 3 The county commissioners in each county shall provide for each place of registration an assessment book and there shall be printed in the said book a list of the current rates of taxation for each occupation or poll tax

Section 4 There shall also be printed in such book blank forms of affidavits for the purpose set forth in section two of this act, at the foot of each affidavit form a blank space for assessment of taxes and the signature of the assessing officer or officers This book shall be sent by the county commissioners to each place of registration together with other supplies and at the close of each registration shall be returned to the county commissioners who shall keep the same as a public record until again required for registration purposes but records of assessment for a period more than two years old may be destroyed by the county commissioners

The fifth section was read as follows:

Section 5 Each registration officer or officers receiving payment of such taxes shall prepare an itemized statement setting forth name address occupation and amount collected from each and shall within five days of the receipt the same to the county treasurer deducting and retaining ten per centum of the amount so collected as compensation for making such collections

Admission and Commitment of Mental Patients

Section 301 Any person thought to be mentally ill may make application in writing to the superintendent or any hospital for mental diseases for admission as a patient to such hospital such application shall be signed by the applicant in the presence of at least one witness

If the said superintendent shall be satisfied after examining the applicant that he is in need of hospital treatment and will be benefited and that the mental condition of the applicant is such as to render him competent to make such application said superintendent may receive and care for the applicant in the hospital

Such patient shall not be detained for more than ten days after he shall have given notice in writing to the superintendent of his desire to leave said hospital but if in the opinion of the superintendent it is inadvisable to discharge such patient the said superintendent shall notify the friends or relatives of the patient or other persons liable for his support

Section 302 Whenever it shall appear that any person is mentally ill or in such condition as to be benefited by or need such care as is required by persons mentally ill the superintendent of any hospital for mental diseases may receive and detain such person on the written application of any relative or friend or the legal guardian of such person or any other responsible citizen and on the certificate of two qualified physicians that said person is mentally ill and is in need of treatment and care in a hospital for mental diseases

The application aforesaid shall be in form prescribed by the Department and shall state the name sex and residence of the patient the opinion that said patient is mentally ill and that care in such a hospital is necessary for his benefit and the facts on which the said opinions are based and such other facts or information as may be required by the Department If the facts called for or any of them are unknown to the applicant or applicants is shall be so stated in the application

In the certificate aforesaid the physicans shall each state his residence that he has resided in this State for at least three years that he has been licensed to practice medicine in this State that he has been in the actual practice of medicine for at least three years or has had at least one year's experience as physician in a hospital for mental patients that he is not related by blood or marriage to the patient or to the applicant or any of the applicants that he is not connected in any way as medical attendant or otherwise with the hospital to which application has been made for the admission of the patient that he has examined the patient with care and diligence within one week and that in his opinion the patient is mentally ill and in need of hospital care. He shall further state in said certificate the information relative to the patient given him by others and the facts as to the physical and mental condition and the behavior of the patient which he has himself observed on which he bases his opinion

The aforesaid application and certificate shall be sworn to or affirmed before a judge or magistrate and said judge or magistrate shall certify to the genuineness of the signatures and to the standing and good repute of the signers of the certificate The certificate shall not authorize the admission of the patient unless the patient shall be admitted within two weeks of the date thereof

Section 303 Any person who is mentally ill may be placed and detained in a hospital for mental diseases by order of the court of common pleas of the county in which the said person resides or is or of any law judge of said court upon a sworn or affirmed application by any responsible person addressed to said court or judge which application shall be accompanied by a sworn or affirmed certificate of two qualified physicans Said application and certificate shall conform in all respects to the forms prescribed by the Department and be executed not more than two weeks before the same are presented to the court or judge Such procedure may be held at any place in the discretion of the court or judge who may or may not in his discretion require the presence before him of the said mental patient

A certified copy of the order of the court or judge and copies of the application and of the certificate shall accompany the patient and be given to the superintendent in charge of the hospital in which the patient is ordered to be placed The said application certificate and order shall be kept on file in a special docket in the court

Such order shall not authorize the admission of the patient unless he shall be admitted to the hospital within two weeks from the date thereof The superintendent of said hospital shall receive the said patient and may detain him therein until said patient shall have recovered or shall be removed according to law

Section 304 Whenever an application shall be made to a court of common pleas or judge thereof for an order for the admission of any person thought to be mentally ill to a hospital for mental diseases the court or judge thereof may in its or his discretion immediately appoint a commission to inquire into and report upon the facts in the case Such commission shall be composed of three persons two of whom shall be qualified physicians and the other a lawyer They shall in their inquisition hear such evidence as may be offered or as they may require relating to the mental condition of the person whose admission to a hospital for mental diseases is sought as well as the statements of such person or his counsel and shall make a report in writing to the court or judge thereof setting forth whether or not they find that the person in question is in fact mentally ill and a proper subject for admission to a hospital for mental diseases and setting forth the facts on which their conclusion is based

If such commission finds that the person in question is mentally ill and is a proper subject for admission to a hospital for mental diseases and the court or judge thereof shall approve the report of the said commission said court or judge shall thereupon order the person to be admitted to and detained in the hospital named in the application The court or judge may or may not in its or his discretion require the presence in court of the person thought to be mentally ill and the procedure may be held in any place in the discretion of the court or judge

If the person thought to be mentally ill shall refuse to submit himself to an examination by the aforesaid commission the court or judge thereof may issue a warrant for the bringing of said person before said commission for examination

Section 309 The superintendent of any State or licensed school for mental defectives may receive and detain any mentally defective person resident of this State under twenty years of age and incapable of being properly educated and trained in the public schools whose condition of mental defect and whose need of and fitness for care in a school for mental defectives shall have been certified to by a qualified physician and whose admission shall be applied for by a parent guardian or relative of such person or by any other responsible person having custody of such mentally defective person or being liable for his support

The said application shall be made on form prescribed by the Department and shall state the name sex age and residence of said mentally defective person and such other facts as may be required by the Department If the facts or any of them are unknown to the applicant it shall be so stated in the application

If the said application is for the admission of a person to a school owned and controlled by the Commonwealth it shall be endorsed by the poor authorities of the county in which the said person resides if there be such authorities in said county otherwise by the directors or overseers of the poor district in which said person resides

But before any person shall be admitted to any school for mental defectives under the provisions of this section the consent of the managers or superintendent thereof to such admission shall have been obtained

The poor authorities of any county or the overseers of the poor district therein in endorsing an application for the admission of a person to said school shall state whether or not such person has an estate of sufficient value or a parent or parents of sufficient financial ability to defray expenses in whole or in part of supporting such person in said school and if there be such means of support in part only then the amount per month which the parents or parent or legal guardian of such person may be able to pay and the person or persons who make the application for such admission shall therein make statement under oath to such means of support Said managers or superintendents in accepting an application for the admission of any person shall fix the amount if any which shall be paid for such support according to the ability of such parents or parent of the person or according to the value of such person's estate if any and shall require payment for such support so far as there may be ability to pay as a condition to the admission or retention of said person Said amount may at any time be changed by said managers or superintendent upon receiving further information concerning such means of support When neither the said person nor his parent or parents are of sufficient financial ability to defray the expenses in whole or in part of his support in said school the ascertainment of the facts shall be as hereinbefore stated and the poor authorities or directors or overseers of the poor endorsing the application shall agree to pay the school for clothing as may be required for the comfort and advantage of said person at an annual rate to be established by the trustees or managers of the school after submission of the same to and approval by the Department All other support at the school shall be provided for by annual appropriations at such per capita rates as shall be appropriated by the General Assembly on the application of the trustees or managers after submission of the same to and approval by the Department

Section 310 The superintendent of any State or licensed school for mental defectives may receive and detain any mentally defective person twenty years of age or who is of such inoffensive habits as to make him a proper subject for classification and discipline in a school for mental defectives the procedure for admitting any such person shall be the same as for the admission of mentally defective persons under the age of twenty years

Section 311 Any person mentally defective may be placed and detained in a proper State or licensed school for mental defectives by order of the court of common pleas or the juvenile court of the county in which such person is or resides upon the sworn or affirmed petition of any parent guardian or other responsible person addressed to the said court praying that the said person may be placed therein the said petition must be accompanied by a sworn or affirmed certificate of a qualified physician that it is his opinion that the said person is mentally defective and a proper subject for commitment to a school for mental defectives in the said certificate the physician shall further state the facts of his own observation and any other information upon which his said opinion is based it shall be in other respects in form similar to that prescribed by the Department for the admission of persons mentally ill to a hospital for mental diseases

The said petition shall be in form prescribed by the Department and shall state the name sex age and residence of the person alleged to be mentally defective the opinion of the petitioner that said person is mentally defective and such other facts as may be required by the Department if the facts or any of them are unknown to the petitioner it shall be so stated in the petition

Thereupon the said court or a judge thereof may in his discretion appoint a day for a hearing of the said petition and if he shall appoint a day for a hearing he shall cause notice thereof to be given to the proper parties in interest and in his discretion he may or may not require the presence of the alleged mentally defective person at said hearing if it shall be made to appear to the said court or judge that the said person is mentally defective and a proper subject for commitment to a school for mental defectives and that the best interests of the said person or the safety and welfare of the public require such commitment the court shall make an order committing such mentally defective person to the school named in the petition and direct his removal thereto by a proper officer or person but before any person shall be admitted under the provisions of this section to any school for mental defectives the consent of the managers trustees or superintendent thereof to such admission shall have been obtained

At the said hearing the said court or judge shall inquire as to the estate of such mentally defective person and if the same be sufficient for the purpose shall make an order directing the payment therefrom of the cost of clothing and other support of such mentally defective person in said school otherwise that such payment be made by the husband or parent of such mentally defective person if it appear that the circumstances of such husband or parent are such as to make such an order proper and advisable Where the estate of said mentally defectives person is insufficient and the circumstances of said husband or parent are not such as to warrant such an order for the payment of clothing and other support or either of them the expenses of clothing of said mentally defective person shall be paid for by the said county in which such mentally defective person resides and all other support shall be provided for by the Commonwealth at such per capita rates as shall be appropriated by the Legislature on the application of the trustees or managers of the said school after submission of the same to and approval by the Department

When any mentally defective person shall have been committed to any school under the provisions of this section by a juvenile court the managers or superintendent of said school have authority to detain such person after he shall have reached the age of twenty-one years and thereafter in the discretion of said managers or superintendent such person may be discharged or allowed a leave of absence upon order of the court of common pleas or a judge thereof of the county in which the said commitment was made

Section 312 Any person under twenty-one years of age suffering from epilepsy may be admitted to and detained in any institution or place for the care of epileptics upon the written application to the superintendent of such institution or place by the parent guardian or other person liable for the support of such epileptic person and any epileptic person twenty-one years of age or over may be admitted upon his own written application signed in the presence of at least one witness if his mental condition is such as to render him in the opinion of the superintendent or attending physician of such institution or place competent to make such application

No epileptic person admitted upon such written application of parent guardian or other person shall be detained more than ten days after said parent guardian or other person shall have given notice to the said superintendent of his desire or intention to remove such epileptic person and no epileptic person admitted upon his own written request shall be detained more than ten days after he shall have given written notice to the said superintendent of his desire or intention to leave

Section 313 Persons suffering from epilepsy may be admitted to and detained in any institution or place for epileptics or which receives epileptics for care by any of the procedure provided for the admission of mental defectives to schools for mental defectives except that in such cases the application of petition and certificate therein required shall state that the person desired to be admitted is an epileptic and is a fit subject for care in a hospital or institution for epileptics

Section 314 Any person who by reason of epilepsy is dangerous to himself or others may be committed to a hospital for mental diseases or to a State institution for epileptics by the order of the court of common pleas of the county in which such person is or resides or by any law judge thereof in accordance with the procedure provided for the commitment by court or judge of a person mentally ill to a hospital for mental diseases as provided in section three hundred and three of this act except that the application and certificate of physician therein required shall state that the person for whose commitment application is made is an epileptic and by reason of epilepsy is dangerous to himself or others

Section 315 Any inebriate who except for his inebriety is of good character and reputation may be admitted to and detained in any State or licensed hospital for mental diseases or to the psychopatic department or ward of any general hospital maintaining such department or ward by the same procedure as in the case of the voluntary admission of a person thought to be mentally ill as provided in section three hundred and one of this act

He shall not be detained therein for more than ten days after he shall have given written notice to the superintendent thereof of his desire or intention to leave

Section 316 Any inebriate who except for his inebriety is of good character and reputation and who is a proper subject for care in a State or licensed hospital or institution for inebriates or for mental diseases may be placed and detained in such institution by order of the court of common pleas of the county in which such person is or resides upon petition under oath or affirmation of at least two citizens who shall be either the wife husband parent child committee of the estate of an inebriate or next friends of such person praying for the commitment of such person to a proper hospital or institution for detention care and treatment

Said petition shall state the opinion of the petitioners that the said person is an inebriate within the scope of this act and is a fit subject for detention care and treatment in such hospital or institution and shall set forth the facts on which said opinion is based Said petition shall be accompanied by the sworn or affirmed certificate of two qualified physicians based on careful examination by them of the alleged inebriate setting forth the condition of such person their opinion that said person is an inebriate and a fit subject for the detention care and treatment and stating the facts of their own observation and the information given them by others on which said opinion is based Upon such petition and certificate the said court shall issue its warrant requiring the said inebriate on a day fixed to be brought in court for a hearing If after such hearing the court is satisfied that the alleged inebriate is a proper subject for detention care and treatment the court shall commit said inebriate to the hospital or institution in the petition or other appropriate hospital or institution But before such commitment shall be made the consent of the superintendent thereof to such admission shall have been obtained When so committed the said inebriate shall remain in such hospital or institution until the board of managers or trustees or the superintendent thereof shall certify to the said court that detention care and treatment are no longer benefical or necessary to the inebriate or that he is cured whereupon the court shall order the inebriate to be discharged under such supervision and restriction as the court may impose But no person shall be detained under the provisions of this act for a period of more than one year

Section 317 All commitments under this act shall be revisable under writ of habeas corpus which may be sued out at any time by any person restrained hereby or by any one acting for or on behalf of such person Provided That superintendents and other officers of institutions are not to be held personally liable for the detention of patients when such patients received placed and detained in such institution in compliance with the provisions of this act

ARTICLE IV

Transfer Discharge Leave of Absence Escape Interstate Rendition and Deportation of Mental Patients

Section 401 The Department is hereby authorized and empowered in its discretion and for any reason which to it may seem sufficient to transfer or cause to be transferred any patient from any mental hospital to which such patient has been admitted under any of the provisions of this act to any other like hospital within this Commonwealth but no such transfer shall be made to or from a private hospital except upon the joint application of the superintendent or manager thereof and of the legal or natural guardian or other person liable for the support of the patient and no patient under sentence by any court or committed by any court after having been charged with any crime and acquitted on the ground of insanity may be transferred without an order of such court authorizing such transfer Provided That any voluntary patient may be transferred only if such patient or the person who made the application for such patient's admission has consented in writing to such transfer

Whenever any patient not a convict who has been committed by order of a court is transferred the order of commitment shall be held to apply to the hospital to which such patient is transferred as though said hospital had been the one to which the said order of commitment had originally been made

Section 402 Whenever any patient shall be transferred under the provisions of this article certified copies of the application of the certificate of physicians or report of commission and of the order of court or such of them as there may be and the order of the Department authorizing the transfer shall accompany the patient to the hospital to which he is transferred together with a copy of all clinical records or a full abstract thereof containing all essential particulars including results of mental and physical examinations and laboratory tests relating to such patient

Section 403 Whenever the superintendent of anymental hospital shall find that any patient therein needs care in a mental hospital for patients of a different kind such superintendent shall report the facts relative to such patient to the Department Thereupon the said Department may order that application be made for the admission of such patient to any proper mental hospital by any of the procedures prescribed by law for admission of patients to such hospital

Section 404 The Board of Trustees of any mental hospital and the superintendent thereof when given general or special authority therefor by such Board of Trustees or the person in charge if there be no Board of trustees shall have the power and authority to discharge any patient from such hospital if in their or his opinion no harm will arise from such action but no insane criminal under sentence and no person charged with any crime and acquitted on the ground of insanity shall be discharged from such hospital without an order of the court in which he was sentenced or acquitted authorizing such discharge No patient who is known to be homicidal or otherwise dangerous to be at large shall be discharged without examination by and the written consent of the Department nor without a sufficient guarantee by the person for said patient's support and care that the safety of the public or any individual shall be safe-guarded No patient whose parent guardian or friend liable for his support shall oppose his discharge shall be discharged without notification to such parent guardian or friend and apportunity given him to state his reasons for wishing the said patient's further detention and no mentally defective person or inebriate who has been committed by an order of court except in the case of a person discharged by lapse of time from leave of absence or escaped and except in case such inebriate has been under hospital care for one year shall be discharged without the recommendation of the chief medical officer in charge and an order from the court

Section 405 The Department shall have power and authority in its discretion to order and compel the discharge from any mental hospital of any mental patient except an insane criminal under sentence or a person charged with any crime or misdemeanor and acquitted on the ground of insanity but before issuing such order the Department shall give due notice to the trustees or superintendent of the hospital wherein such patient is under care and to the person at whose instance the said patient is detained and shall give reasonable opportunity to such trustees or superintendent and person to justify a further detention of the said patient

Section 406 Any proper court shall have the power and authority to order and compel the discharge of any mental patient committed by such court to any mental hospital if upon hearing it shall be made to appear that such discharge is for the best interests of the patient and not incompatible with the public welfare and safety In making any such order if it is not in accordance with the expressed opinion of the physician in charge of the hospital the court shall set forth the reasons for its decision which reasons shall be part of said order and the said order and reasons and the opinion of the physician in charge of the said hospital shall be entered in the clinical record of the patient

Section 407 The superintendent of any mental hospital may in his discretion allow a leave of absence for such period not exceeding twelve months and upon such conditions as he may prescribe but not inconsistent with the provisions for discharge of patients as provided in section four hundred four to any patient whose condition is such as to warrant such action

Such leave of absence may be terminated by such superintendent who may if necessary authorize the apprehension and return of the patient to the hospital by any sheriff constable or police officer who shall thereupon cause such apprehension and return In such case the expenses necessarily incurred by such sheriff or other officer in such return of a patient shall be paid by the person in whose charge the patient was allowed to leave if he is financially able to pay Otherwise such expenses shall be paid by the person or poor authorities liable for the maintenance of such patient in such hospital

Section 408 Any mental patient who excapes from any mental hospital may be apprehended and returned thereto by any sheriff or constable or police officer or by any officer or employe of such hospital at the expense of such hospital

Section 409 The Governor may upon demand deliver to the executive of any other state or territory any person who has escaped from any mental hospital to which he has been admitted under the laws of such state or territory and who may be dangerous to the safety of the public or may upon application appoint an agent to demand of the executive authority of any other state or territory any such person who has escaped from such a hospital in this Commonwealth Such demand or application shall be accompanied by an attested copy of the commitment and sworn evidence of the superintendent of the hospital stating that the person demanded has escaped from such hospital within six months next preceding the date of the application or demand and by such further evidence as the Governor may require

Section 410 If the Governor is satisfied that the demand conforms to law and ought to be complied with he shall issue his warrant under the seal of the Commonwealth to an officer authorized to serve warrants in criminal cases directing him at the expense of the agent who makes the demand at the time designated in the warrant to take and transport such person to the boundary line of this Commonwealth and there deliver him to such agent and for this purpose such officer may require aid as in criminal cases Provided That any person who is arrested upon such warrant shall not be delivered to such agent of a state or territory until he has been notified of the demand for his surrender and has had an opportunity to apply for a writ of habeas corpus if he claims such right of the officer who makes the arrest If such writ is applied for notice thereof and the time and place of hearing shall be given to the Attorney General or District Attorney for the district in which the arrest is made

Any officer who delivers such person in his custody upon such warrant to such agent for extradition without having complied with the provisions of this section shall forfeit not more than one thousand dollars Pending the determination of the court upon the application for such writ the person shall be detained in custody in a suitable mental hospital

Section 411 If the application for the arrest of a patient escaped from any mental hospital in this Commonwealth to another state or territory is granted and an agent is appointed for the purpose of returning such patient to such mental hospital the account of such agent shall be paid by the hospital from which the patient escaped but the Governor may direct the whole or any part of such account to be paid by the Commonwealth

Section 412 Any mental patient except such as has been charged with any crime and acquitted on the ground of insanity or arrainged or convicted who has been absent with or without leave for a period of twelve months continuously from the hospital in which he was under care shall be deemed to be discharged from the said hospital and cannot be readmitted except as provided by law in Article III of this act

Section 413 If upon investigation the Department or any of its agents shall find that any patient supported wholly or in part at the expense of the Commonwealth it not a legal resident of this Commonwealth but has a legal residence in some other state or country it may by a proper order addressed to the trustees or the superintendent of the hospital to which such patient has been admitted cause him to be returned to that state or country in which he has a legal residence or where he belongs

Any patient returned to another state or country under the provisions of this section shall be suitably clothed and unless he is fully competent to travel alone he shall be attended by a person of his own sex who shall exercise due care over him until he has reached the destination agreed upon by the proper authorities of this State and the state or country to which he is returned If competent to travel alone unable to pay the costs of travel he shall be furnished with funds sufficient for sustenance and travel to the destination agreed upon

The actual necessary expense of returning such patient shall be paid from the State Treasury by warrant drawn by the Auditor General on the State Treasurer on an account settled by the Auditor General

Section 414 The Department is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into the agreements with the authorities of other states which shall adopt legislation consistent with this act for the arbitration of disputed questions between such states and this Commonwealth respecting the residence of mental patients and for the return of such persons to their proper residence

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever a husband and wife shall hold real estate by entireties and the wife has heretofore secured or shall hereafter secure a sentence order or decree of court against the husband for the support of herself and a child or children of her said husband or either or any of them and a copy of such sentence order or decree has been certified to any court of common pleas of any county in this Commonwealth in which the real estate so held by entireties is situated the said order decree or judgment shall be entered in the said court of common pleas as a judgment therein with like force and effect as if the same had been recovered therein as a judgment of the latter court and it shall be lawful to issue execution on such judgment against such real estate so held by entireties and to sell the same in the manner provided by law for the sale of real estate on execution issued on a judgment but in any such writs of execution thereon the defendant therein shall not be entitled to the benfit of any exemption laws and said real estate may be sold without inquisition The sale of any such real estate under the provisions of this act shall convey to the purchaser or purchasers thereof a good and valid title to such real estate and shall vest in him or them the entire title of both the husband and wife in the same manner and to the same effect as if both husband and wife had joined in the conveyance of same

Section 2 The wife shall be entitled out of the proceeds of such sale to such sum of money as represents her share in such property based on the proportionate part of the original purchase money furnished by her for the purchase of such property She may petition the court of common pleas of the county where such real estate is situate either before or after the sale of such property by execution setting forth her claim and the said court shall fix a day to hear the same Service upon the defendant in such case shall be made personally or in the manner provided in the act of General Assembly approved the sixth day of April one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and eighty-seven) entitled "An act to authorize execution of process in certain cases in equity concerning property within the jurisdiction of the court and on defendants not resident or found therein" Service having been made as aforesaid the court shall upon hearing the claim make such decree as shall be proper In such hearing both husband and wife shall be competent witnesses If such hearing is held before the sale of the property on the judgment the court shall determine the proportionate part of the real estate that belongs to the wife

Section 3 The court of common pleas shall at the time of the hearing or thereafter appoint a trustee who shall receive from the sheriff the proceeds of the sale of such property after the costs have been paid Such trustee shall out of such funds pay to the aforesaid wife such amount of money as the court may have decreed to her as her share in the property sold or if such decree has been made prior to the sale then such proportionate part of the said proceeds as the court has found the wife to have contributed towards the purchase of the property and also such sums of money and interest thereon from the time the respective items making up the same became due and payable which are then due and payable by virtue of the order of support herein mentioned and the trustee shall also pay to her such further sums as she may be entitled to under any order of court for the support of herself or of the children of her said husband

Section 4 Should the wife become the purchaser at said execution sale she shall be entitled to a credit on the purchase price thereof for such sums as may have been found by the court to represent her share in such property and also for such sum or sums of money as may be due her from the defendant under the order of support upon which the execution was issued at the time of the said sale together with interest on said sums due her for support from the time the respective sums became due Such credit shall be allowed her by the sheriff or she may assign the several sums due her as aforesaid to the purchaser of said property whereupon credit shall be given the purchaser by the sheriff for the amount so assigned

Section 5 Upon and after the divorce of any women who is tenant by entireties of real estate with her former husband such divorced woman shall be entitled to all the rights and remedies provided in this act for the collection of any sums of money ordered and directed by any competent court of this Commonwealth to be paid to her for the support of the children of such former husband as fully as if she had not been divorced from such person Upon the sale of said real estate for the collection of any money due her under any order or decree of any court she shall be entitled to receive therefrom such sum of money as represents her share of such property based on the proportionate part of the original purchase money furnished by her as decreed by the court under the provisions of section two herein together with such sums as may be due to her under and by virtue of an order or decree of support against the defendant

Section 6 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

Section 2 Where any person charged with having committed any crime in any county of this Commonwealth shall go or escape into any other county thereof it shall be lawful for the president or any judge of the court of common pleas or other court of record having jurisdiction in the county where the said person may be found to issue his warrant authorizing and requiring the sheriff of the said county to take the said person and conduct him to the proper county where the said crime is alleged to have been committed the expenses of which shall be paid to the said sheriff by the county to which the said person is conducted

Section 3 A warrant of arrest issued by any judge or alderman of any city or justice of the peace of any county for any offense there committed may be lawfully executed by the officer or person to whom it is directed or the person having the warrant for execution by taking the person named therein whether found in the county where the warrant issued or in any other county of the Commonwealth If the warrant is executed in a county other than that in which it was issued it shall be the duty of the officer or person executing the warrant to carry the defendant before any alderman justice or justices in the city or county where the arrest was made and in case the offense for which the defendant was apprehended in bailable in law by an alderman or justice of the peace and the defendant is willing and ready to give bail for his appearance at the next session of general jail delivery or quarter sessions or other court of record having jurisdiction to be held in and for the county where the offense was committed such alderman justice or justices in the county where the arrest was made may take such bail for the appearance of the defendant in the same manner as the alderman or justice issuing the warrant might have done In the event that the alderman or justice of the peace takes cash bail as hereinafter provided it shall be his duty to furnish the defendant a statement thereof in the manner hereinafter provided and to forthwith transmit at the expense of the defendent the said cash bail by a money order of the Government of the United States certified check of a State or national bank or cashier's or treasurer's check thereof to the clerk of courts of the county in which the offense was committed who shall hold the same in the manner hereinafter provided for the holding of cash bail and subject to the same conditions The said alderman justice or justices so taking bail shall deliver or transmit any recognizance taken and other proceedings to the clerk of the court of general jail delivery or quarter sessions where the defendant is required to appear by virtue of such recognizance and such recognizance and other proceedings shall be as good and effectual in law as if the same had been entered into taken and acknowledged in the county where the offense was committed and the same proceedings may be had thereon and in case the defense for which the defendant shall be apprehended in such other county shall not be bailable in law by an alderman or justice of the peace or such offender shall not give bail for his appearance as hereinbefore provided then the officer or other person so apprehending such defendant shall convey him before the alderman or justice of the peace who issued the warrant there to be dealt with according to law Provided that the warrant so issued as aforesaid shall be stamped with the official seal of the officer issuing the same which seal shall contain his name and official title and the state and county of his residence

Section 4 It shall be the duty of the Governor of this Commonwealth in all cases where demand is made by the executive authority of another state or territory by requisition accompanied by a certified copy of an indictment or information charging the commission of a crime in such other state or territory for the arrest as a fugitive from justice of any citizen inhabitant or temporary resident of this Commonwealth to issue and transmit a warrant of arrest for such purpose to the sheriff or other officer authorized by law to execute warrants in the county in which the requisition describes the person to be residing or domiciled and the sheriff deputy sheriff or other officer aforesaid of the county alone shall have authority to exécute said warrant

Section 5 It shall be the duty of any person making an arrest by virtue of a warrant issued under the last preceding section of this act before delivering the person arrested to the officer named in the requisition as the agent of the demanding State to take the prisoner before a judge of a court of record in open court if the court be in session otherwise at chambers who shall inform the prisoner of the nature of the process under which he was arrested and the charge against him in the State where the alleged crime was committed and inform him that if he claims that he is not the person charged by the demanding State with the commission of the alleged crime he has a legal right to a writ of habeas corpus upon making affidavit that he is not the person named in the requisition Provided however that the prisoner may waive in writing his right to be taken before said court Any hearing and inquiry upon any writ of habeas corpus in said matter shall be limited to the question of identification only and shall not extend to the merits of the charge If after hearing on such writ the court shall find the prisoner to be the person named in the requisition it shall direct the sheriff or other officer to deliver the prisoner into the custody of the agent of the demanding State otherwise it shall direct his discharge from custody

Section 6 It shall be unlawful for any person or officer to take any person out of this Commonwealth upon the ground that the said person consents to go or by reason of his willingness to waive the proceedings above described and any person who shall arrest or procure the arrest of any person in this Commonwealth for the purpose of taking or sending him to another State without a requisition first had and obtained accompanied by an exemplified copy of the indictment or information and without a warrant issued by or under the direction of the Governor of this Commonwealth served by the sheriff or his deputy and without first taking him before a judge of a court of record as aforesaid shall be guilty of the offense defined in section one hundred and ninety-four of the Penal Code of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three

Section 7 Any sheriff deputy sheriff or other officer violating any of the provisions of this act relating to the arrest detention or return of fugitives from justice except as otherwise herein provided shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor in office

Section 8 Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the sheriff of any county chief of police of any city or other person from causing the arrest as a fugitive from justice of any person upon information that such person committed a crime or misdemeanor in another state and that a warrant has there been issued for his arrest or that an indictment has been found there against him Provided That the officers of any town city or county or proper authorities of such other state or territory shall procure a requisition and have it presented to the Governor of this Commonwealth within thirty days after such arrest shall have been made and the prisoner upon being arrested or detained shall be brought before a court or judge in the manner and for the purpose provided in Section 5 of this Act and no person so arrested shall be committed or held to bail for a longer period than thirty days exclusive of the day of his arrest unless such requisition shall have been presented to the Governor of this Commonwealth within such period

Title II—of Bail and Hearing

Section 9 In all cases the person accused on oath or affirmation of any crime shall be admitted to bail in the form hereinafter provided by any judge justice mayor recorder or alderman where the offense charged has been committed except such persons as are precluded from being bailed by the Constitution of this Commonwealth Provided also That persons accused as aforesaid of murder or manslaughter shall be admitted to bail by the Supreme Court or one of the judges thereof or by the president or associate law judge of a Court of commonpleas and by no other authority Persons accused as aforesaid of arson rape robbery sodomy burglary kidnapping with intent to extort money or other property treason sedition blackmail abortion pandering entering a building of another with intent to commit a felony by the use of gunpowder nitroglycerine or other explosive or injuring or stopping or attempting to injure or stop or conspiring to injure or stop any moving railroad train with intent to commit any felony thereon shall be bailable by the Supreme Court the Court of Common Pleas or other court of record having jurisdiction or by one of the judges thereof or a mayor or recorder of a city and by no other authority

Section 10 Bail may be either one or more sufficient sureties to be taken before the court judge magistrate mayor or recorder in the last preceding section of this act named or it may be cash bail given in lieu of the sureties above named

In prosecutions where magistrates and justices of the peace have the right and authority to take bail for hearing or continued hearing before them the defendant may deposit with the committing magistrate in current funds of the government of the United States the amount of the bail of recognizance fixed and entered his own recognizance for his appearance at the time and place required In the event of the non-appearance of the defendant at the time and place required the said bail shall be deemed forfeited and shall be forthwith returned by the said magistrate to the clerk of courts of the County together with a statement in writing of the name of the defendant the name of the prosecutor and the crime charged whereupon the said sum shall be subject to the same disposition as the proceeds of any other forfeited recognizance

When a defendant shall be bound over to the Court of Oyer and Terminer or Quarter Sessions of the Peace or other court of record having jurisdiction and the charge is one in which the committing magistrate is permitted to take bail and the defendant desires to give cash bail the magistrate shall accept the same in the amount fixed by him upon the defendant entering into his recognizance for appearance at the time and place fixed and the magistrate shall give the defendant a written statement showing the amount of the said bail and the case in which it was given and he shall forthwith return the amount of the said bail to the clerks of courts of the County together with a statement in writing of the name of the defendant the name of the prosecutor and the crime charged and in the event that the defendant fails to appear at the time and place required by his recognizance the amount of said cash bail shall be deemed forfeited and shall be subject to the same disposition as the proceeds of any other forfeited recognizance

Where the amount of the bail is fixed by a judge of a court of record or by the mayor or recorder of a city and the defendant desires to give cash bail he shall deposit the amount thereof as fixed by the proper authority with the clerk of courts of the County in which the proceeding lies who shall give him a receipt therefor and certify the fact of such deposit to the clerk of the proper court whereupon the defendant shall enter into his recognizance in the office of the Clerk of Courts for his appearance at the time and place fixed and the amount of said cash bail shall be deemed forfeited in the event of the failure of the defendant to appear at the time and place fixed and shall be subject to the same disposition as the proceeds of any other forfeited recognizance

In case there is no breach or forfeiture of the condition of the bail or recognizance and the proceeding is terminated then upon order of the court the clerk of courts shall pay to the defendant the amount of the bail deposited less a commission of one-half of one percentum of the amount of the bail which the said clerk of courts shall retain for the use of the County

Section 11 Any magistrate or justice of the peace shall have jurisdiction to release on bail any person committed for a hearing by any other magistrate or justice of the peace in the same county upon presentation to him of a properly signed certificate in the form set forth in Section 16 hereof stating the offense charged and the bail demanded signed by the magistrate or justice of the peace who issued the warrant or the officer who has the defendant in custody

Section 12 The clerks of the courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer of this Commonwealth shall have authority in all cases except in the case of a defendant charged with treason felonious homicide or voluntary manslaughter to take bail and recognizances and approve such bonds as may be required by law whenever the law judge or judges or associate judges if there be associate judges shall be absent from the county seat or shall be unable on account of sickness or other cause to attend to the duties of their office

Section 13 All sureties mainpernors and bail in criminal cases shall be entitled to have a bail piece duly certified by the proper officer or person before whom or in whose office the recognition of such surety mainpernors or bail shall be or remain and upon such bail piece by themselves or their agents to arrest and detain and surrender their principals with the like effect as in cases of bail in civil actions and such bail piece shall be sufficient warrant or authority for the proper sheriff or jailer to receive the said principal and have him forthcoming to answer the matter or matters alleged against him Provided That nothing herein contained shall prevent the person thus arrested and detained from giving new bail or sureties for his appearance who shall have the same right of surrender hereinbefore provided

Section 14 The several courts of oyer and terminer and quarter sessions of the peace or other court of record having jurisdiction are hereby empowered to authorize the district attorneys of the several counties to fix the amount of the bail required of defendants in all cases where the committing magistrates are without power to fix bail except cases of felonious homicide and to approve the sufficiency of the sureties on any bond or recognizance given to secure the appearance of a defendant in any of the said courts with the same effect as though the said court or one of the judges thereof acted thereon In all cases the justification of surety shall be sworn to or affirmed before the Clerk of Courts or his duly authorized deputy or clerk and the recognizance shall be filed in his office

Section 15 All bonds and recognizances given to secure the appearance of a defendant in any criminal case before a magistrate or before any court of criminal jurisdiction of this Commonwealth shall be judgment bonds and shall contain provisions authorizing and empowering the district attorney of the proper county to appear for the defendant and the surety or sureties in bond after any default in the condition thereof and without any declaration filed to confess judgment in favor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and against the principal and sureties as of any term for the amount of the bond together with costs of suit waiver of inquisition and condemnation of any property that may be levied upon by virtue of any execution and waiving and releasing all errors in said proceedings together with stay of exemption from execution or extension of time of payment given by any act of assembly

Section 16 Upon the arrest of any person with or without a warrant upon any charge of crime against the laws of this Commonwealth in order to protect the right to bail and to facilitate the entry thereof it shall by the duty of the sheriff coroner constable or other officer making the arrest or having charge of the prisoner upon application made therefor by counsel or any citizen to issue without cost to the applicant a certificate stating the name or names of the prisoner or prisoners and the charge upon which the arrest was made and the amount of bail demanded if the bail has been fixed

Section 18 In all cases of prosecution for misdemeanor of assault or wilful and malicious bodily injury to another the committing magistrate before whom such case is instituted before he binds over any person so charged to the court of quarter sessions or other court of record having jurisdiction shall enter into a full hearing and investigation of the charge and shall bind the defendant over to the said court only when he is clearly satisfied from all the evidence that the prosecution is well founded but it shall be unnecessary to set forth the character of such hearing in the transcript of the record of the committing magistrate

Section 19 In all such cases when the evidence shows that the prosecution is not well founded the alderman justice of the peace or magistrate shall discharge the defendant and determine by whom the costs shall be paid In so determining he may order that the prosecutor pay all or any part thereof or he may put the costs on the county or if he orders the prosecutor to pay part thereof he may put the other part of the costs upon the county In default of payment of the costs so imposed the prosecutor so defaulting may be committed to the county jail one day for each dollar of such costs or until the costs are paid or until such person is discharged according to law and in such cases the costs shall be paid by the county

Title III—Settlement of cases nolle prosequi and surety of the peace

Section 20 In all cases where a person shall on the complaint of another be bound by recognizance to appear or shall for want of security be committed or shall be indicted for an assault for wilful and malicious bodily injury or disfigurment to another or other misdemeanor to the injury and damage of the party complaining and not charged to have been done with intent to commit a felony or not being an infamous crime and for which there shall also be a remedy by action if the party complaining shall appear before the magistrate who may have taken the recognizance or made the committment or before the court in which the indictment shall be and acknowledge to have received satisfaction for such injury and damage it shall be lawful for the magistrate in his discretion to discharge the recognizance which may have been taken for the appearance of the defendant or in case of committal to discharge the prisoner or for the court also where such proceeding has been returned to the court in their discretion to order a nolle prosequi to be entered on the indictment as the case may require upon payment of costs Provided That this section shall not extend to any misdemeanor committed by or on any officer or minister of justice

Section 21 No district attorney shall in any criminal case whatsoever enter a nolle prosequi either before or after bill found within the consent of the proper court in writing first had and obtained

Section 22 If any person shall threaten the person of another to wound kill or destroy him or to do him any harm in body or estate and the person threatened shall appear before a justice of the peace and attest on oath or affirmation that he believes that by such threatening he is in danger of being hurt in body or estate such person so threatening as aforesaid shall be bound over with one sufficient surety to appear forthwith before the Court of Quarter Sessions of the peace or other court of record having jurisdiction according to law and in the meantime to be of his good behavior and keep the peace toward all citizens of this Commonwealth If any person not being an officer on duty in the military or naval service of the State or of the United States shall go armed with a dirk dagger sword or pistol or other offensive or dangerous weapon without reasonable cause to fear an assault or other injury or violence to his family person or property he may on complaint of any person having reasonable cause to fear a breach of the peace therefrom be required to find surety of the peace as aforesaid

Section 23 In all cases of surety of the peace the justice of the peace or magistrate before whom such case is instituted before he binds anyone over to Court of Quarter Sessions or other court of record having jurisdiction and in the meantime to keep the peace upon the oath of another as hereinbefore provided shall enter into a full hearing and investigation of the facts and shall bind over the defendant only when the evidence shows to the satisfaction of the justice or magistrate that the prosecutor's danger of being hurt in body or estate is actual and that the threats were made by the defendant maliciously and with intent to do actual harm

Section 24 In all cases in which the evidence does not show that the threats were maliciously made by the defendant and with intent to do harm and that the prosecutor is actually in danger of being hurt in body or estate it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace to discharge the defendant and to determine how and by whom the costs shall be paid and in determining the question of the payment of the costs he may find that the prosecutor pay them all that the defendant pay them all or that the prosecutor and defendant pay them in equal or unequal proportions and in default of payment may commit the person or persons adjudged to pay the costs to the county jail until they are paid or until such person is discharged according to law

Section 25 It shall be the duty of the justice or the peace or magistrate who has entertained a complaint in a surety of the peace case to afford an opportunity and to suggest to the parties the propriety of compromising their differences before entering into a hearing

Section 26 Where a magistrate alderman or justice of the peace hearing any surety of the peace or desertion case shall determine to return the same to the proper court such return if to the Court of Quarter Sessions of the peace or other court of record having jurisdiction shall be filed immediately with the clerk thereof and the judges of said court whenever the court is in session and it is convenient may dispose of the said complaint

Section 27 All recognizance for the appearance of defendants in surety of the peace cases shall be made forthwith and it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace to make his return to the Court of Quarter Sessions of the peace or other court of record having jurisdiction immediately by sending it to the clerk thereof and the recognizance shall be forfeited if the defendant does not appear upon notice to him and to his surety by mail of the time and place of hearing

Section 128 Every person his aiders abettors and counsellors hereafter convicted of the crime of murder of the first degree shall be sentenced to suffer death in the manner herein provided and not otherwise Such punishment in every case must be inflicted by causing to pass through the body of the convict a current of electricity of intensity sufficient to cause death and the application of such current must be continued until such convict is dead The said punishment shall be inflicted by the warden or deputy warden of the Western Penitentiary or by such person as the warden shall designate and shall be inflicted in a building on the land owned by the Commonwealth in Centre County whereon the buildings of the Western Penitentiary are built

Section 129 Whenever any person shall have been convicted and sentenced to death the clerk of the court where such conviction shall have taken pdace shall transmit to the Governor of the Commonwealth a full and complete transcript of the record of such trial and conviction within thirty days after sentence or in the event of an appeal within twenty days after the final disposal of the cause upon such appeal

Section 130 After the receipt of the said record the Governor of the Commonwealth shall issue his warrant directed to the warden of the Western Penitentiary commanding said warden to cause such convict to be executed in said penitentiary within the week to be named in said warrant and in the manner prescribed by law

Section 131 Upon the receipt of such warrant the said warden shall by a written notice under his hand and seal duly notify the officer having the custody of such convict to deliver such convict to the custody of such warden and it shall be the duty of such officer to forthwith cause such delivery to be made Thereupon and until the penalty of death shall be inflicted or until lawfully discharged from such custody said convict shall be kept in solitary confinement in said penitentiary During such confinement no person except the officers of such penitentiary the counsel of such convict and a spiritual adviser selected by such convict or the members of the immediate family of such convict shall be allowed access to such convict without an order of said court or a judge thereof

Section 132 No person except the following shall witness any execution under the provisions of this act—the warden of the penitentiary where such execution takes place a qualified physician six reputable adult citizens selected by such warden one spiritual adviser when requested and selected by the convict not more than six duly accredited representatives of the daily newspapers and such officers of said penitentiary as may be selected by said warden

Section 133 After such execution the warden of the Western Penitentiary shall certify in writing under oath or affirmation to the court of oyer and terminer of the county wherein such convict has been sentenced to death that such convict was duly executed at the place and in the manner prescribed in this act at the time designated in the death warrant of the Governor Such certificate shall be filed in the office of the clerk of such court

Section 134 Immediately after execution a post-mortem examination of the body of the convict shall be made by the physician present at the execution and his report in writing stating the nature of the examination so made by him shall be annexed to the certificate hereinbefore named and filed herewith After such post-mortem examination the body unless claimed by some relative or relatives of the person so executed shall be delivered to the duly authorized agent of the State Anatomical Board

Section 135 The cost and expense incident to any such execution and such post-mortem examination shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Western Penitentiary

Section 136 The Board of Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary shall have power to erect and repair appropriate buildings located at such place on the grounds of the new Western Penitentiary in Centre County as they shall select and they shall have power to construct and repair in said buildings such electrical apparatus machinery and appliances as may be suitable and sufficient to execute condemned criminals in the manner prescribed herein

Section 137 Whenever any person convicted in any court of this Commonwealth of any crime shall be sentenced to imprisonment in any pententiary of the State the court instead of pronouncing upon such convict a definite or fixed term of imprisonment shall pronounce upon such convicts a sentence of imprisonment for an indefinite term stating in such sentence the minimum and maximum limits thereof and the maximum limit shall never exceed the maximum time now or hereafter prescribed as a penalty for such offense Provided That no person sentenced for an indeterminate term shall be entitled to any benefits of commutation of sentence herein provided for

Section 138 The clerks of the several courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer of this Commonwealth shall not later than the twentieth day of each month forward to the wardens of the State penitentiaries a list of all convicts whom the courts have committed to those institutions on the indeterminate plan the previous month stating maximum and minimum sentence of each The following information shall also be added the full name of the convict together with any alias which such convict may be known to have the name of the county wherein the conviction was had a brief description of the crime of which the convict was convicted the name of the court in which the conviction was had the name of the trial judge the date of commitment and the name of the penitentiary to which committed the number of times if any that the convict has been in prison the location of the said prison and for what offenses provided that in every case in which stenographic notes of testimony were taken at the time of the trial a copy of such notes of testimony shall likewise accompany such record

Section 139 The board of inspectors of each state penitentiary shall meet once each month at its respective penitentiary At each meeting of the said boards held as aforesaid every prisoner confined in such penitentiary upon an indeterminate sentence whose minimum term of sentence will expire within three months shall be given an opportunity to appear before such board and apply for his release on parole as hereinafter provided

Section 140 If it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of any penitentiary in which a convict is imprisoned upon an application by a convict for release on parole that there is a reasonable probability that such applicant will live and remain at liberty without violating the law then said board shall recommend to the governor that such convict be released on parole subject to such rules and regulations for such convict as said board may prescribe until the expiration of the maximum limit of the sentence imposed on such convict and shall send to the governor a report of such convict which report shall contain the following namely the full name of the convict together with any alias which such convict may be known to have the name of the county where such conviction was had a brief history of the crime for which convict was sentenced the name of the court in which the conviction was had the name of the judge who sentenced the convict with the sentence and the date thereof the date of the reception of the convict a recommendation as to the commutation together with the date for release from the penitentiary if allowed

Section 141 If any convict released on parole shall during the period of parole be convicted of any crime punishable by imprisonment under the laws of this Commonwealth and sentenced to any place of confinement other than a penitentiary such convict shall in addition to the penalty imposed for such crime committed during the said period and after expiration of the same be compelled by detainer and remand as for an escape to serve in the penitentiary to which said convict had been originally committed the remainder of the term (without commutation) which such convict would have been compelled to serve but for the commutation anthorizing said parole and if not in conflict with the terms and conditions of the same as granted by the governor but if sentenced to a penitentiary then the service of the remainder of the said term originally imposed shall precede the commencement of the term imposed for said crime

Section 142 In any case where a board of prison inspectors does not recommend the release on parole of a convict at the termination of the minimum term for which such convict may have been sentenced such board shall report in writing to the governor its reasons in detail for not having made such recommendations

Section 143 Each said board of inspectors shall appoint one or more officers to be known as parole officers for its respective penitentiary who shall carefully look after the welfare of all persons who have been paroled from said penitentiary and report to the said boards respectively upon the conduct of such persons at such times and in such manner as may be required by said boards Provided That no convict shall be under the charge management or supervision of a probation officer of the opposite sex The salaries of the said parole officers together with the expenses actually incurred by them in the discharge of their duties shall be paid out of the appropriations to the said penitentiary with which they are connected

Section 144 If it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of any penitentiary from which a convict has been released on parole that there is a reasonable probability that such convict will live and remain at liberty without violating the law and that it will be to the advantage of such convict that he be released from the terms of his parole then upon the application of such convict released upon parole it shall be the duty of the said board to recommend to the Governor that such convict be pardoned absolutely

Section 145 Whenever it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of a penitentiary that a person released on parole has violated the terms of his parole the secretary of said Board of Inspectors may issue a warrant for the arrest of said person in the same manner as in the case of an escaped convict Upon said convict being returned to the penitentiary he shall be given an opportunity to appear before its Board of Inspectors and if said board shall find that said parole has not been broken the prisoner shall be released and continue subject to the terms of said parole but if it be found that said parole has been broken said board shall declare such convict delinquent after which a full report of the said case shall be forwarded immediately to the Governor who thereupon may issue his mandate reciting the date of commutation for the recommitment of such convict for breach of parole to the penitentiary of original commitment to be imprisoned in said penitentiary for the remainder of a period equal to the unexpired maximum term of such prisoner as originally sentenced (computing the same from the date of arrest for breach of parole) unless sooner released on parole or pardoned but if the governor shall disapprove the finding of the board of inspectors the said prisoner shall be released upon the conditions of his original parole

Section 146 Authority is hereby conferred upon the boards of inspectors of all state penitentiaries to establish all the rules and regulations necessary to carry the provisions of this title into effect Provided That no rule or regulation shall be established or adopted relating to the discharge of a convict on parole who has just served the minimum sentence for his or her first offense that will compel him to file any bond for the fulfillment of the requirements of his discharge upon parole other than his own recognizance or to secure any sponsor for his behavior To secure uniformity in these rules and regulations the said boards shall be convened by the governor in joint session from time to time when deemed necessary

Section 147 Any convict in the state penitentiaries who is now serving under a sentnce or sentences imposed prior to the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and eleven may when he shall have served one-third of such sentence or sentences be eligible to parole under the provisions and subject to the conditions of this act

Section 148 Whenever a person shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of less than one year the imprisonment shall be had and performed in the county jail where the conviction shall take place or in a suitable prison in said county where suitable prisons have been provided for such imprisonment Provided however that where existing laws applying to any county permit the imprisonment of persons there convicted in a suitable prison in some other county of the state the imprisonment may be there performed if the court shall so direct

Section 149 All persons sentenced to imprisonment in the county jails for any period of time may be required to perform such labor in the custody of the sheriff about the county buildings and upon the ground and property of the county as the commissioners of the county in which the prisoners are confined may specify and the commissioners are authorized to allow and pay from the moneys of the county to the sheriff for his services in guarding such prisoners while so employed compensation not to exceed twenty-five cents per hour

Section 150 Whenever any person shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of one year or more the sentence shall be either an indeterminate sentence to the penitentiary of the proper district as hereinbefore provided or a definite sentence to a county prison or county workhouse authorized by existing laws to receive such convict and the court shall have power in the latter case to fix the term of said imprisonment not to exceed the term fixed by statute for said offense provided however that persons convicted of murder of the second degree and voluntary manslaughter shall not be sentenced to the said county prisons or workhouses

Section 151 Every convict confined in any county prison workhouse or county jail in this state on a conviction of crime where the term or terms equals or exceeds one year exclusive of life imprisonment or any term which may be imposed by the court or by statute as an alternative to the payment of a fine may if the governor shall so direct and with the approval of the Board of Inspectors or managers earn for himself a commutation or dimunition of his sentence or sentences as follows namely two (2) months for the first year three (3) months for the second year four (4) months each for the third and fourth years and five (5) months for each subsequent year and for every fractional part of a year the said convict may earn the same rate of commutation as is provided for the year in which said fractional part occurs Provided however That this section shall not include sentences for an indeterminate term as hereinbefore provided

Section 152 When any convict in any county prison workhouse or county jail in this state is held under more than one conviction the several terms of imprisonment imposed thereunder shall be construed as one continuing term for the purpose of estimating the amount of commutation to which he may be entitled hereunder.

Section 153 On any day not later than the twentieth day of each month the board of inspectors or managers or the warden superintendent or keeper of each of the county prisons workhouses or jails of this state shall forward to the governor a report of any convict or convicts who may be discharged the following month by reason of the commutation of his sentence or sentences which shall contain the following information namely the full name of the convict together with any alias which he may be known to have the name of the county where the conviction was had a brief description of the crime of which the convict was convicted the name of the court in which the conviction was had the name of the presiding judge the date of the sentence the date of the reception in the prison the term and fine the amount of commutation recommended and the date for discharge from the prison workhouse or jail if allowed

Section 154 The governor shall in commuting the sentences of convicts annex a condition to the effect that if any convict so commuted shall during the period between the date of his discharge by reason of such commutation and the date of the expiration of the full term for which he was sentenced be convicted of any felony he shall in addition to the penalty which may be imposed for such felony committed in the interval as aforesaid be compelled to serve the prison or workhouse in which he may be confined for the felony for which he is convicted the remainder of the term without communtation which he would have been compelled to serve but for the commutation of his sentence hereinbefore provided for

Section 155 The boards of inspectors or managers of the county prisons workhouses and county jails in this state shall meet once every month before the date fixed for the transmission of their report to the governor as hereinbefore provided and proceed to determine the amount of commutation which they shall recommend to be allowed to any convict which shall not in any case exceed the amount fixed by tnis act they shall have full discretion to recommend the withholding of the allowance of commutation for good conduct or of a part thereof as a punishment for offenses against the discipline of the prison workhouse or county jail or for any attempt to escape therefrom

Section 156 In all cases however where the board shall recommend the withholding of the allowance of the whole or any part of the commutation for good conduct they shall forward with their report to the governor their reasons in writing for such disallowance and the governor may in his discretion decrease or increase the amount of commutation by the said board but he shall not increase the same beyond the amount fixed herein

Section 157 Upon the receipt of any convict in any prison or county jail in this state who shall be entitled to the benefits of commutation hereunder the provisions of the same shall be read to him and the meaning of the same shall be fully explained to him by the clerk of the prison workhouse or jail

Section 158 The governor shall not except in cases where only the payment of a fine is imposed as the penalty upon conviction execute any of the powers herein granted unto him to release on parole from a penitentiary or to grant commutation of sentence in a jail prison or workhouse until the lieutenant governor secretary of the Commonwealth attorney general and the secretary of internal affairs or any three of them after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session according to such rules as they shall provide shall have recommended the said commutations of sentences

Section 159 Whenever any person shall be convicted in any court of this Commonwealth of any crime except murder administering poison kidnapping incest sodomy sedition pandering rape attempted rape arson robbery or burglary and it does not appear to the said court that the defendant has ever before been imprisoned for crime either in this state or elsewhere (but detention in an institution for juvenile delinquents shall not be considered imprisonment) and where the said court believes that the character of the defendant and the circumstances of the case such that he is not likely again to engage in an offensive course of conduct and that the public good does not demand or require that the defendant should suffer the penalty imposed by law the said court shall have power to suspend the imposing of the sentence and place the defendant on probation for a definite period on such terms and conditions as it may deem right and proper said terms and conditions to be duly entered of record as a part of the judgment of the court in such case

Section 160 In any case where a fine only is imposed and the defendant might be imprisoned until such fine be paid the court may direct as one of the terms of the probation that such fines shall be paid in certain instalments at certain times Provided however That upon payment of the fine judgment shall be satisfied and probation cease
